What About Roosevelt?
Attempted Murder.
Hurricane, Earthquake.
Birthplaces, Rockefeller, Homes.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

EACH DAY ten million Americans ask ten million others:

"What do you think of Gov. Roosevelt?"

They will be interested in the opinion of one voter, W. R. Hearst, who writes from Los Angeles:

"Mr. Roosevelt is going to be elected surely, and during the first four years of his administration we are going to get back such good times that he will probably be re-elected.

"Roosevelt is not a radical. He has not done anything radical in the four years he has been Governor of New York, and that is the length of his presidential term.

"Roosevelt is simply honest and, of course, that frightens the high financiers more than radicalism."

That last paragraph contains political wisdom. It is easy to deal with a man, conservative or radical, who is not honest. He "listens to reason." The difficulty is with the honest man that will not be bought or coerced.

JUDGE WEBSTER Thayer sentenced Sacco and Vanzetti to death five years ago, after they had been convicted of murder in the first degree.

Yesterday Judge Thayer's house was wrecked by a dynamite explosion, his wife and a maid seriously injured. Judge Thayer refused to accuse or suspect "any individual or any organization," saying:

"I should hate to think that because a man does his duty before mankind and God his penalty is this."

There is always a possibility of mistake, and that is one of the things that makes capital punishment so vile.

But a cowardly attempt at secret murder, risking the lives of innocent women, could not benefit the two dead men or honor their memory.

THOUSANDS ARE homeless in Porto Rico, many dead, following one of the hurricanes born so often in those waters. The victims are natives, living in houses poorly constructed, unable to resist the power of the wind.

Nature shows no favoritism, and while the Porto Rico hurricane was raging an earthquake three thousand miles away in Greece killed more than one hundred and hurt many others.

THE BIRTHPLACE of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., a 54-acre farm in Tioga County, New York, has been sold for unpaid taxes, says the Associated Press. The amount involved was only $47.25, Mr. Rockefeller's modesty apparently makes him indifferent in this matter. The owner who let the farm go for taxes should get it back.

Writers of history far enough away from John D. Rockefeller to get a clear view of his work, will tell the world what Rockefeller means. On the remains of the old house where he was born, or on its site, there will be a tablet reading:

"Here was born John D. Rockefeller, in the year 1839. Starting with nothing, his intelligence and industry enabled him to accumulate hundreds of millions which he and his son spent promoting education, fighting disease, endowing scientific research, restoring and preserving beautiful ancient monuments. He proved that unlimited competition is wasteful and thus rendered a service even greater to mankind than in the giving of so many millions."

Seven wealthy towns contend for Homer dead
Through which the living Homer begged his bread.

Homer's birthplace, according to the Associated Press, is finally located in Smyrna, interesting city of Asia Minor. Greeks had it in the ancient days, the Allies gave it back to Greece after the war. Kemal Pasha, powerful Turk, said to Greece "Let's see you keep it." took it away and has it now. If it be proved that Homer was born there it should help the tourist business.

SOME LEARNED gentlemen say there wasn't any individual Homer, but that several gentlemen wrote "Homer's" poems.

The Smyrna idea is not new. In ancient days proud Smyrna citizens put Homer's face on their coins and showed you the cave in which he composed his poems, near the source of the River Meles.

IN ITALY, according to Mr. Knickerbocker, who has been talking with Mussolini and learning a lot, workers are not allowed to strike and wages, already low, are cut thirty per cent. BUT there are few out of work and there are compensations.

For instance, the workers, arranging a festival, have good wines for ten cents a full quart, the best wine for fifteen cents. Workers of Rome can see Greta Garbo, three cents admission for adults, two cents for children. You can't do that here and you can't get good wine for ten cents a full quart.

WAR WILL come back, worse than ever unless Europe's common sense finds some better plan than wholesale murder for settling disputes.

Von Papen says:

"Preparing the youth of Germany for military duty is a primary moral duty of the state."

German youth will be prepared. French youth will be pre-

YANKS LEAD CUBS IN OPENER

Bruins Nick Ruffing For Two Runs in First

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The New York Yankees, champions of the American League, were leading the Chicago Cubs, champions of the National League, in the opening battle of the 1932 world series here this afternoon.

The rival managers, Joe McCarthy, of the Yankees, and Charley Grimm, of the Cubs, stood by their original mound selections, Guy Bush starting for the National Leaguers and Charley Ruffing for the American Leaguers.

The opener drew a crowd estimated at 30,000.

The Cubs scored at the outset. Herman started with a single and scored when English's single was fumbled by Ruth. Stephenson's single scored English with the Cubs' second run. The Cubs were retired in this half on strikes, Cuyler, Moore and Grimm fanning.

Held hitless for three innings, the Yankees came to life in the fourth. Combs started with a walk, advanced to second on Sewell's grounder to Grimm and scored as Ruth shot a single to right. Gehrig then put the Yankees in front by hitting a home run into the right-field bleachers to score behind the Bambino.

The game in detail:

FIRST INNING

Herman up—Manager Grimm and Coach Art Fletcher, of the Yankees, came out for another confab with the chief umpire. Ball one, inside. Foul, strike one, down the third base line. Ball two, outside. Herman singled over second base.

English up—Ball one, high and inside. Ball two, low and outside. Strike one, called. Foul, strike two, into the screen behind the plate. Ball three, high. Foul, into the stands. Foul, into the lower stands. English hit to right and Herman scored when the ball escaped Ruth and rolled to the fence. English reached third on the Babe's error. It was a single for the batter.

Cuyler up—Ball one, inside. Strike one, called. Foul, strike two, into the boxes. Ball two, high inside. Cuyler fanned swinging at a fast ball.

PITCHER GUY BUSH MANAGER CHARLIE GRIMM

50 Tech Freshmen Forced to Take Bath at 2 A.M.

Fifty or more Carnegie Tech freshmen took a bath at 2 a. m. today—but not because they wanted to.

They were routed out of their beds in the campus dormitories and paraded down to the Panther Hollow lake in Schenley Park by the sophomores.

They were dressed only in pajamas, but the upper classmen ordered them to hit the water, so they did.

Ring Lardner 'Experts' Series by Radio

By RING LARDNER

(Copyright, 1932, by Ring Lardner.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The world is agog, and I am agrog over the world series which opens here today between the New York Yankees and the Chicago Cubs. I have made a careful study of the two clubs.

The most careful part of the study was not to see the manager of either ball club. During the middle of the season I did talk to Rogers Hornsby over the telephone and he gave me this interesting dope:

"I have got fastest right-hander in baseball in the person of Lonnie Warneke. He throws them right down at your knees, where nobody wants them; he is as fast as Vance, with a great and invincible fast ball to righthanders or left-handers when he's got his control. I've got Woody English, who is improved so much you wouldn't believe it; a kid named Herman; this Hemsley, and you know the rest of the gang."

All right. I know the rest of the gang. And Rogers is gone and Charley Grimm is manager and the outcome depends on whether Gehrig flops in a pinch or Woody English throws an autographed baseball from here to Toledo.

Now, then, these games are going to be attended by the oversigned via radio. He ain't going to see them but will hear them as he has heard them for the past three years—by air—and he will therefore be in competition with the Messrs. Husing, McNamee, Manning, Tatton et al, and my contention is that one of us will wind up in a tie.

To begin with, I will give the boys a start by asserting that the series is going to be between Washington and St. Louis. The pitchers for their opening game will be William Watson Clark and Rube Waddell. Both of them are kid left-handers and it is just a question of nerve.

Behind the bat will be Mickey Street and Lou Criger. This is just a question of nerve.

Now let's get to the infield. Beginning on first base, the Phillies have Charley Grimm. He sings, plays, writes, is a born comedian and, unfortunately, monkeys with a ukulele. He bats lefthanded, sings lefthanded, tells his jokes

Druggist Found Dead In Downtown Hotel

Allan Hartman, 32, a druggist of 5562 Hobart street, was found dead in bed today in the William Penn Hotel, presumably from a heart attack, the coroner reported.

He had registered yesterday afternoon and is believed to have died soon afterward.

Wasp Sting in Throat Chokes Man to Death

FALAISE, France, Sept. 28. (AP.)—Camille Labourgois, farmer, drank a mixture of wine and water without noticing there was a wasp in the glass. He was stung in the throat and choked to death half an hour later.

LINDY KIDNAP SUSPECT HELD

N. J. Photographer to Be Questioned by Illinois Police

HARRISBURG, Ill., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Dennis Lawrence, 30, was held in jail here today for questioning in the Lindbergh kidnaping case. He was arrested at Marion last night by Sergt. E. J. Gibbons, of the state highway police.

His wife and two children were with him in a sedan bearing the New Jersey license P-38-398. The car was purchased March 11.

The arrest was made on an anonymous letter mailed to Col. Charles Lindbergh, Trenton, N. J. The letter was forwarded to Illinois highway police and given to Sergt. Gibbons.

Gibbons said Lawrence was a photographer in Passaic, N. J., March 1. He purchased the automobile and left there about March 29.

The anonymous letters, he said, was written by a woman.

NOT WANTED IN N. J.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Capt. John L. Lamb, who is in charge of the investigation into the kidnaping of the Lindbergh child seven months ago, said today:

"So far as I know, Lawrence is not wanted in connection with the case."

Lamb said he had heard of the arrest of Dennis Lawrence in Illinois, but was not aware of its significance. Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf was not at headquarters when word of the arrest was received.

CITY PROTESTS TAXI RATES

HARRISBURG, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—The City of Pittsburgh today filed complaints with the Public Service Commission against the Pittsburgh Transportation Company, operating Green Taxi Cab and the Yellow Cab companies of Pittsburgh.

The city alleges the new tariff schedules of the taxi companies make substantial increases over present rates, which are unjust, discriminatory and unreasonable.

It states that city officials use these cabs in the transaction of their business and that the new rate will be an unreasonable burden upon the city.

The new rates of the Pittsburgh Transportation Company are effective September 29, and those of the Yellow Cab Company, September 27.

Taxi company officials here said that they had no statement to make regarding the city's action, at this time. Charles P. Lang, assistant city solicitor, said he filed the complaints.

JAIL WOMAN, 2 MEN AS BANDITS

Alleged Headquarters Of Holdup Mob Raided Here

Two men and a young woman are under arrest and several other men and an attractive brunette are being sought, detectives said today, following the alleged uncovering of a "stickup mob's" headquarters in a North Lincoln avenue apartment house.

John Maug, 30; his sister, Mrs. Eleanor Stemmler, 22, and her husband, Alexander Stemmler, , all of whom said they lived at 834 North Lincoln avenue, were being held incommunicado by detectives assigned to investigate robberies of Rice's Landing restaurant, Fifth avenue, and the East End garage of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach in which more than $1,400 was taken early Sunday morning.

WOMAN ARRESTED

Detectives Thomas Morgan and Gus Schindle said they arrested the three after the officers were assigned to watch an apartment in the building in which the three live. Mrs. Stemmler was arrested first when she went to the apartment.

She said she went there for dishes, but detectives said she went there to get six revolvers and a supply of ammunition confiscated in the apartment by the sleuths.

CLAIM PRISON RECORD

Maug, detectives said, recently was released from the Western Penitentiary where he had served three years for robbery. He is unemployed, but Stemmler said he was working in the produce yards as an inspector.

Detectives said they had been watching the apartment for several days. They have leads on the other men and the women being sought, but refused to discuss them. The brunette, it was said, was the advance agent who visited places to be robbed and selected the best time for the stickup.

Broker's Wife Dies In 15-Story Plunge

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(INS.)—Mrs. Ruth Irwin, 30, wife of a Los Angeles broker, was killed today in a plunge from her fifteenth floor suite at the fashionable Hotel Ambassador while her young son looked on.

GREENVILLE, Pa., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—The Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad today issued a call to 855 men to return to work in the locomotive and car shops, effective October 1.

Reprimanded

MISS BARBARA VERNER

WARNS HEIRESS ON DRIVING

Barbara Verner, of 6100 Howe street and Sewickley, daughter of the late A. W. Verner, former president of the C. A. Verner Shoe Company, was reprimanded in Traffic Court today for driving without a license and for passing over a boulevard stop line at Baum boulevard and South Graham street.

Patrolman Louis Kleber testified he arrested her when she was unable to produce a license after driving over the line. Miss Verner explained that she had forgotten her license and that she had not realized she had passed over the line.

Magistrate J. Scott Morgan, in discharging the young society girl, said:

"The court finds it necessary to caution you against such driving. Accidents are caused in this way and in the future we warn you to make stops properly."

Winston Churchill Weakens in Relapse

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Winston Churchill, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, who recently returned ill from Austria, was very weak this morning, his physicians said. The physicians' bulletin said he had had a severe hemorrhage but that his condition was not dangerous.

Mr. Churchill had a relapse yesterday and was taken from his home to a hospital.

BALTIMORE'S EX-MAYOR ON STAND

Broening Says Money Was Given Senator For Moose Debt

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Former Mayor William F. Broening, of Baltimore, testified today that money intended for Senator James J. Davis was paid to the organization department of the Loyal Order of Moose a year after the defense at the Davis lottery trial contends Davis had no further connection with the department.

Broening, a former supreme dictator of the Moose and the second defense witness at Davis' trial for violation of federal laws through alleged participation in alleged lotteries said by th government to have been conducted in connection with Moose chaity balls, was subjected to lengthy cross examination.

TESTIFIES ON 'DEAL'

He related that at Sharon, Pa., in 1930, before eithr of the balls mentioned in the indictments was held, Davis tolc. him of the assignment of his organization department contract to Fred W. Jones and Joseph A. Jenkins.

Yet a year later at Atlantic City, it was brought out, the Moose voted $125,000 to the organization department after Davis read a report saying that his compensation from organization work was not enough to repay him for

MOB ATTACKS CONSTABLE

The constable feud in the Hill district, brought to a crux September 16, when a fusillade of bullets was fired through the windows of the home of Constable Hyman Shalansky, 2408 Wylie avenue, reverberated through the district today following the arrest late yesterday of Edward Boyer, Negro, 26, of 635 Francis street, on a warrant charging felonious shooting.

Fifty sympathizers drove off Constable F. J. Kovacs, of Sewickley, when he attempted to arrest Boyer, forcing him to draw his revolver to protect himself, according to county detectives, whose aid was required to effect the arrest.

Boyer later was captured after a mile chase by Kovacs and County Detectives Michael McDermitt and Patrick Traynor, and lodged in the county jail for a hearing tomorrow night before Justice of the Peace Lawrence V. Gibbs, of Sewickley.

The attack on Constable Shalansky's home was made, he said, in retaliation for his activities in Judge Frank P. Patterson's vice war.

Separation Papers Drawn For Smiths

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(INS.)—Attorneys for Alfred E. Smith, Jr., son of the former Governor, and his wife are drawing up a separation agreement for the couple, it was reported today. Mrs. Smith was Bertha Gott, of Syracuse. They were married eight years ago.

Venizelos Winner In Greek Election

ATHENS, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Final returns from Sunday's elections in Greece showed today Premier Venizelo's supporters had won 105 seats against 96 for the Royalists, 40 for the Democratic parties, and nine for the Communists.

Head of Cleveland Bank Dies in East

Woman, 88, Man, 64, End Their Lives Here

Both appeared to be suicides, the morgue reports said.

Mrs. Mary Finck, 88, was troubled with ill health.

Several times Mrs. Finck is said to have told neighbors she contemplated ending her life. A week ago a bread knife disappeared from the home of her son, Paul, with whom she lived at 109 Fifth avenue, McKeesport.

The knife was found today, a few feet from the body in the cellar of the old Salvation Army barracks at Fifth avenue and Water street. Mrs. Finck had disappeared yesterday.

Webster's wife and daughter heard the shot which cost his life, the police reported. He was pronounced dead a few minutes later at Montefiore Hospital. He was retired.

COOLIDGE, AIDES SET FOR STUDY OF RAILROADS' NEEDS

SMITH, BARUCH ON SURVEY GROUP

Committee Will Seek To Get Public Aid For Reforms

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—A non-partisan committee of five prominent men headed by former President Calvin Coolidge today set about a study of the financial position of the nation's railroads.

Sponsored by 31 banking and insurance organizations and universities, the commission will recommend methods of strengthening the transportation lines and will attempt to mobilize public sentiment on behalf of a remedial legislative program to be placed before Congress.

SMITH IN GROUP

With Mr. Coolidge on the committee are Alfred E. Smith, former Governor of New York; Clark Howell, Sr., publisher of the Atlanta Constitution; Bernard M. Baruch, a director of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and Alexander Legge, president of the International Harvester Company and former chairman of the Farm Board.

Walter Bennett, president of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, who announced the formation of the committee, said the members will serve without pay.

Mr. Coolidge is expected to announce the committee's plan of operation at an early date.

LAWS CRITICISED

However, a letter by which the committee members were formally invited to serve read in part:

"The present deplorable condition of the railroads is not due wholly to the stagnation of traffic resulting from the long continued depression. Many of the present ills are due to governmental, financial, labor and management policies, some wrong in conception, some wrong in application, and others rendered obsolete by radically changed conditions.

"No solution will be effective unless the problem of the railroads is considered as an integral part of the entire transportation problem of the United States, whether by rail, highway, waterway, pipeline or air."

JOKER 'DENIES' VALLEE PACT

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(INS.)—Somebody is playing a joke on Rudy Vallee and his wife, Fay Webb.

Somebody sent eight telegrams, signed Fay's name, from Buffalo to New York newspapers and news services, denying that Fay and her crooning husband have "made up." The wires read:

"Because of conflicting rumors being printed in New York about my recent separation from Rudy Vallee, I wish to definitely deny that I have made up with him."

But Fay's attorney, Hyman Bushel, who also handles Rudy's legal affairs, said today that Fay is at the home of her parents in Santa Monica, Cal., and added:

"She is leaving there on The Chief tonight for New York, and Rudy will meet her when she arrives Saturday. He is playing at the Hippodrome in Baltimore, and will be back in New York Thursday."

Letters to Roosevelt Burn With Plane

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Although Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential candidate, makes a point of answering all letters sent to him, he will be forced to disappoint several hundred persons throughout the country.

A collection of several hundred letters addressed to the governor were destroyed by fire following the crash of a mail plane yesterday in the Snowshoe Mountains, about 15 miles West of Bellefonte, Pa.

LABOR TO STAY NONPARTISAN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(INS.)—The non-partisan stand of organized labor was reaffirmed today in a pamphlet published by the American Federation of Labor giving the labor planks of the Republican and Democratic national platforms and the records of President Hoover, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Vice President Charles Curtis and Speaker John N. Garner, President William Green, of the Federation, says:

"Organized labor and its friends should take a deep interest in the coming election for President, Vice President and members of Congress."

The pamphlet lists labor measures voted for in the New York Legislature by Franklin D. Roosevelt when a state senator. It also lists measures favorable to labor signed by Roosevelt as Governor and includes unfavorable measures vetoed. The New York Governor, according to the tabulation, did not oppose any measure favorable to labor.

Drys Close 30 Places In Kansas City Drive

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 28—(AP.)—In a concentrated drive against Kansas City liquor dispensing establishments, 86 federal prohibition agents closed more than 30 in six hours.

At 10 o'clock last night—the zero hour—agents began raiding elite night clubs, chicken dinner farms and resorts in the city and vicinity. The offensive continued today and those in charge said they expected to have 75 places padlocked.

Oil City Gets 1933 U. P. Conference

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 28. — Oil City was awarded the 1933 conference of the First Synod of the West, United Presbyterian Church, today at the closing session of the seventy-fifth annual meeting here.

VERSE ANSWERS WIFE'S SUIT

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Thus answered Albert McKinley in filing answer to a Common Pleas Court summons for divorce by his wife, Mrs. Matilda McKinley:

"We have agreed to disagree.
"So grant her a divorce from me.
"She got my money from the start
"But I will not give her my heart.
"She ruled the home so you can see
"I will not consent her to rule me;
"So grant her the request she asks
"And forget the grievance of the past.
"So I will then contented be

JUDGE BOMBING ARREST NEAR

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Officers of the Holden barracks of the Massachusetts state police said this afternoon that they were in possession of vital information relating to the bombing of the home of Judge Webster Thayer in Worcester yesterday. They indicated that startling developments might be expected within a few hours.

The fragment of metal had been hurled across the street from the Thayer home, through the wall and into the center of the room where it was found.

William P. Finneran, chief of detectives, believed it to be a part of the bomb that wrecked the home of the Sacco-Vanzetti trial judge yesterday.

Mrs. Webster Thayer, wife of the 74-year-old jurist, was recovering from shock and cuts today in Memorial Hospital.

Snyder, Scientist, Dies in Phila. at 84

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Monroe B. Snyder, well-known astro-physicist and former director of the Philadelphia Observatory, died at his home in Narberth yesterday. He was 84.

Author of numerous scientific articles, he was credited with making a suggestion which led to the establishment of the National Bureau of Standards.

GOV. ROOSEVELT IN NEBRASKA, TO SEE NORRIS

Will Thank Insurgent For Aid in Fight For 'New Deal'

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Sept. 28.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt carried his appeal for the progressive support of the country into friendly territory today.

From California where he pointedly courted the support of Senator Hiram Johnson's friends, through New Mexico and the Southwest, where he went out of his way to welcome the progressive support of Senator Bronson S. Cutting, the Democratic nominee today invaded Nebraska, the home of the most insurgent of all Republican insurgents, Senator George W. Norris.

Senator Norris has bolted the Republican national ticket and is supporting Gov. Roosevelt, just as four years ago he supported Al Smith.

MEETS NORRIS TODAY

Late today, at McCook, Neb., Gov. Roosevelt will stop off to pay his respects to the veteran Nebraska insurgent. A meeting has been arranged there, at which Gov. Roosevelt will publicly voice his appreciation of Senator Norris' support.

Probably no presidential candidate, certainly none since Theodore Roosevelt, has campaigned the West so vigorously in the progressive cause as has the Democratic nominee on this trip.

Twenty years ago, Theodore Roosevelt appealed to the country on his famous pledge of the "square deal." Franklin Roosevelt has campaigned the same territory during the past fortnight on the self-described issue of "the new deal."

SCORES G. O. P. LEADERS

Here, late last night, he addressed an audience of thousands, and his speech was again directed to the independent vote. He said:

"Our fight is not against the rank and file of the Republican party. Our fight is directed against the leadership of the Republican party, which has failed utterly to measure up to the needs of the present hour."

Tomorrow will find the Roosevelt train traversing Iowa, with a major speech scheduled at Sioux City tomorrow night. There the Democratic nominee plans to discuss the tariff, particularly with application to the farm problem.

pared, and the German-French fight will come again in due time as it came in Louis the Fourteenth's time when the French took German-speaking Alsace-Lorraine from Germany, in 1870 when Germany took back Alsace-Lorraine from France, in 1914 when France took Alsace-Lorraine from Germany.

THIS COLUMN apologizes to the ghost of Schiller, second greatest German poet, for attributing Schiller's line "Against stupidity the gods themselves fight in vain," to Goethe.

Goethe knew it. He was one of the earthly gods, and fought in vain against much stupidity. But it was Schiller that SAID it in his Die Jungfrau Von Orleans.

Child's Kitten Rescued, She Names New Heroes

Mt. Lebanon Police 'Decorated' by Small Girl

Norma Jane Etzel is only 2 years old, but she proclaims new heroes today—policemen and firemen. And why not? Didn't they rescue her kitten, "Spotty?"

Several days ago "Spotty" disappeared and was thought lost by his young mistress. Yesterday, however, familiar meows were heard in a narrow opening between her home at 110 Beverley road and a garage next door.

Her father, H. J. Etze, went to the housetop with a flashlight and looked down. His suspicions were correct: It was "Spotty." Even milk would not budge the 7-week-old pet.

The Mt. Lebanon police and firemen were then called. For two hours they tried all kinds of tricks to rescue the kitten, but to no avail. They decide to try just once again and this time chiseled a block of cement out of the wall of the garage. They were successful.

TELLS OF FUND PAID TO DAVIS

the time and money he had put out.

Prosecutor Louis M. Treadwell asked:

"Was this $125,000 voted because of money advanced from 1907 to 1912 by Davis?"

"Yes."

"And it was voted to the organization department because that was the easiest way to get it to Davis? Surely they wern't voting the money to Jones and Jenkins?"

"I must assume that they were voting it to Davis."

DIDN'T GIVE IT THOUGHT

Broening said that when the money was voted to the organization department he "never gave it a thought," despite his conversation with Davis a year earlier, in which he was told that Davis had withdrawn from the department. Treadwell asked:

"Isn't it a fact that you didn't object because you knew that the organization department was Senator Davis at that time?"

"I didn't give it a thought."

The government is trying to show that despite the verbal and unpublicized assignment of Davis' contract to Jones and Jenkins he actually was still a moving spirit in the Moose at the time the charity balls in question were held and therefore must have known about the alleged lotteries and approved by them.

DENIES RAFFLE O. K.

Broening was the first witness of the day at Davis' trial.

Questioned by Charles H. Tuttle, of defense counsel, the former dictator said he heard Davis express his opinion on prize schemes att he international fraternal conference at Cardiff, Wales. He testified:

"A proposition was submitted by a member who said he could fix up a plan to raise money that involved prizes. He said if the order would approve it and Jim Davis would get behind it he could put it over. I was with him when he spoke to Davis.

"Jim Davis just smiled and said 'No, I couldn't be a party to anything like that and the order couldn't be a party to it."

MISSISSIPPI'S NOTED LEADER DIES AT 78

John Sharp Williams Served in Congress For 30 Years

YAZOO CITY, Miss., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Former Senator John Sharp Williams, 78, who spent part of his boyhood fleeing a federal invasion of his state and most of his manhood in his country's Congress, died last midnight.

He was at his old plantation home near here with a group of kinsmen when the end came. He had failed rapidly during recent months, and his death was not wholly unexpected.

It was the crackling, piercing voice of John Sharp Williams—student, connoisseur of beautiful things, planter of cotton—that helped awaken the South from the lethargy that almost smothered it after the war between the states. The same voice commanded mighty eloquence and stinging sarcasm as it fought the battles of Woodrow Wilson in the Senate during the trying days of the League of Nations fight.

DENOUNCED SENATE

And it was the same voice that told the Senate, after it doomed Wilson's measure:

"I'd rather be a hound dog and bay at the moon from my Mississippi plantation than remain in the United States Senate."

He retired from public life in 1923 and came home after devoting almost 30 years of his life to service in Congress.

16 YEARS IN HOUSE

Williams first was elected to the House of Representatives in 1893 and served there for 16 consecutive years. In 1907, he was unanimously, re-elected, but in 1908, was elected to the Senate, although he did not take his seat until 1911.

Senator Williams was made flattering offers for lectures and stories when he retired. One group was reported to have offered him $30,000 a year to write a weekly article on any subject. The Senator said:

"I wouldn't be tied down to do anything once a week for anybody or for $30,000."

Life was kind to him after the crow's feet gathered about his eyes and he lived in a land of plenty. One of his last public utterances was:

"I'm going home to Mississippi and as night and time for bed approaches, I will listen to the greatest chorus of voices that man ever heard—the voices of my mocking birds."

JOSEPH VOLPE INDICTED

Joseph Volpe, youngest of the once all-powerful Volpe gang, was under indictment today because of a love affair he had planned in July.

Volpe was arrested as his three brothers, Johnny, Jimmy and Arthur, lay dead in their Wilmerding home, victims of gangland guns.

Named in the same indictment were Albert C. Mertz, also of Wilmerding, and Michael Russo, of New York. They were charged with enticing a minor child for the purpose of marriage. It is alleged the trio took the girl to New York, where she was to have married Volpe. The girl balked.

Garner Returns To Capitol Office

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Speaker John N. Garner returned today to his office at the capitol after two days in New York where he conferred with Democratic leaders.

The Democratic vice presidential candidate said he would go to Albany next week to confer with Gov. Roosevelt, his running mate.

Davis Trial Delays Case in Wheeling

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 28.—Because Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, counsel for Charles Ruttenberg, Wheeling (W. Va.) merchant, convicted of second degree murder, is busy defending Senator James J. Davis, an additional 15 days was granted Ruttenberg to file additional reasons for a new trial.

In a fire which destroyed Ruttenberg's store and dwelling at Nemacolin, last December, the defendant's nephew, Herman Zimmerman, was burned to death.

scored on Stephenson's single over Ruffing's head.

Grimm up—Strike one, swinging. Strike two, swinging again. Foul into the screen. Foul in the same spot. Ruffing was bearing down. Ball one, outside. Grimm struck out, swinging at a fast one. Two runs, three hits, one error, one left.

YANKEES—Combs up—Strike one called. Foul, strike two. Ball one, outside. Foul, into the upper stands. Foul into the lower stands. Foul into the dirt. Ball two, outside. Combs fanned, taking a third called strike.

Sewell up—Strike one, called. Strike two, swinging at a fast curve. Sewell fouled out to Grimm.

Ruth up—The Babe got a big hand. Strike one, called. Ball one, low. It went through Hartnett's legs. Ruth hit sharply to Grimm, who made a nice pickup near the bag for an unassisted putout. No hits, no runs, no errors, none left.

SECOND INNING—

CUBS—Hartnett up—Foul, strike one into the screen. Ball one, outside. Foul. It was a hard drive into the boxes off the left field line. Foul into the screen. Hartnett fanned, swinging lustily at a low speed ball.

Koenig up—Ball one, inside. Foul, strike one, into the upper deck. Koenig was out on a bounder to Ruffing, who made a quick play to first.

Bush up—Ball one, high. Strike one, called. Ball two, high and inside. Bush fell to the dirt. Bush grounded out to Gehrig, unassisted. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Lazzeri up—Strike one, called. It was a puzzling curve. Ball one, outside. Lazzeri was thrown out, Bush to Grimm, on a weak roller.

Dickey up—Dickey hoisted to Cuyler. No runs. No hits. No errors. None left.

THIRD INNING

English up—Strike one, called. Foul, strike two into the screen. English grounded to Sewell and was out at first.

Cuyler up—Strike one, called. Ball one, low. Foul, strike two into the upper stands. Ball two, inside. Cuyler drove a hard single over Crosetti's head.

YANKEES—Chapman up—Ball one, low. Strike one, swung. Foul, strike two, into the dirt. Chapman oied out to Stephenson.

Crosetti up—Strike one, called. Foul, strike two, into the dirt. Ball one, outside. Ball two, inside. Crosetti fanned, missing a high curve by a foot.

CUBS—Moore up—Ball one, outside. Strike one, swinging at a low hard one. Ball two, inside. Strike two, swinging. Ball three, outside. Moore lifted a high fly to Sewell.

Grimm up—Foul, strike one, into the screen. Ball one, away outside. Foul, strike two, into the upper deck. Foul into the upper stands off third base. Ball two, it was a slow one. Grimm fanned for the second straight time, swinging at a curve.

Hartnett up—Foul, strike one, it was behind the plate. Foul, strike two, deep into the lower stands off right field. Ball one, outside. Hartnett smashed a long double against the left field boxes.

Koenig up — Ball one, outside. Ball two, outside. Ball three, outside. Koenig was purposely passed on four wide pitches.

Bush up — Ball one, low. Ball two, inside. Ball three, outside. The crowd was in an uproar. Strike one, called. Strike two, called. Bush walked, the fourth pitch being outside, and the bases were full.

Yankees, Combs up—Ball one, inside. Strike one, called. Ball two, low. Ball three, inside. Combs walked, being the first Yankee to reach first base.

Sewell up—Combs got to second base on Sewell's bounder to Grimm, who juggled the ball but made a putout at first.

Ruth up—Ball one, high. Ball two, inside. It was almost a wild pitch. Combs scored on Ruth's hard single to right. The hit went through Grimm's legs like a rifle shot.

Gehrig up—Ball one, inside. Strike one, swinging. Ball two, high. Strike two, called. It was a sharp-breaking curve. Foul into the screen. Gehrig smashed a home run into the rightfield bleachers, scoring Ruth and putting the Yankees in the lead.

Lazzeri up—Ball one, outside. Strike one, called. Foul, strike two, into the dirt. Ball two, outside. Lazzeri rolled to English and was out at first.

Dickey up—Foul, strie one, into the dirt. Ball one, outside. Dickey was thrown out, Bush to Grimm. Three runs. To hits. oN errors. None left.

FIFTH INNING

Irwin Brakeman Killed at Jeannette

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Thomas John, 63, or Irwin, a brakeman employed on the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was crushed to death yesterday under a freight car which left the tracks at Jeannette.

John was working with a shifting crew pushing two cars along a siding. Pushed to the end of the rails, one car was derailed and turned over. Another worker, on top of the car, jumped safely.

Bering Strait Tunnel Story Amuses U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Official Washington received with a broad smile today reports of charges published in the Kokumin, a Tokio newspaper, that America's ambition in Asia include plans for a railroad under the Bering Strait to connect the United States with Moscow.

Public comment was not forthcoming, but privately officials were openly amused, and mentioned insurmountable obstacles, both engineering and diplomatic, to such a project.

Army engineers felt this country was much flattered to have anyone suppose the United States could finance and build such a railway line over thousands of miles of unexplored territory, on most of which no civilized man has ever set foot.

But even the feat of tunnelling the Bering Strait was belittled by them in comparison with the diplomatic huddles separating Asia and North America.

State Department officials laughed at charges of the Kokumin that the archeological explorations of Roy Chapman Andrews in the Gobi Desert of Mongolia have really been railway surveys, especially as they recalled the unsuccessful efforts American railroad builders in the past to overcome the opposition of Russia to the construction of railways in that great Chinese territory which czaristic and Soviet governments alike have car-marked for Russia.

Frozen Vikings Found Preserved 500 Years

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Aage Roussel, back from a scientific expedition to Greenland, told today of the discovery of a little group of Vikings frozen in the Greenland soil and perfectly preserved after more than 500 years.

The discovery was made during excavations at Ujaragsuit, on the northeast bank of Godthaab's Fjord. The bodies were those of typical Nordics with long, fair hair. They were dressed in tight breeches and doublebreasted coats of heavy homespun. There were no coffins.

Dr. Roussel associated the findings with a Viking settlement of eight dwellings which apparently was destroyed by Eskimos, who killed all the survivors about the year 1370.

The bodies discovered on this expedition, he said, apparently had been buried in a churchyard before that last Eskimo raid.

HURRICANE DEATHS MOUNT; LOSS PLACED AT MILLIONS

SANTO DOMINGO ESCAPES BLAST

Storm Heads South of Port-au-Prince; Velocity Drops

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Reports available here today said the hurricane which took heavy toll of Puerto Rico yesterday had passed across Santo Domingo without serious damage and apparently was south of Port-au-Prince this morning.

At 4 a. m., today the wind velocity was estimated at 108 miles an hour at an altitude of 4,000 feet in the mountains. At 9:30 it had dropped to 80 miles an hour, the high peaks about the city having broken its force.

DEATHS MOUNT

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Deaths from the hurricane which struck Puerto Rico early yesterday mounted into the hundreds today as reconstruction crews cleared away the debris.

Gov. James R. Beverley placed the number of dead at 200 last night and the injured at 1,000, but he said this estimate undoubtedly would be revised upward.

DAMAGE TERRIFIC

Property damage in the wake of the storm here, officials estimated, would run into many millions of dollars. The heaviest damage was to the coffee plantations which had just begun to bear again this year after having been flattened by the disastrous storm of four years ago. The citrus fruit crop, worth about $7,000,000, would be a total loss, observers said.

Gov. Beverley instructed the Emergency Relief Committee to begin at once to find shelter and food for the many thousands left destitute and homeless. He promised insular funds would be supplied today, pending a definite relief program.

HOOVER MESSAGE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—President Hoover today messaged Gov. Beverley, of Porto Rico, expressing grief over the disaster and asking an immediate report in order that relief measures might be instituted.

Gov. Paul M. Pearson, of the Virgin Islands, today notified Secretary Wilbur that the "full force of the West Indian hurricane hit the Virgin Islands." He reported no lives lost on St. Thomas Island.

FLORIDA NOT PERILED

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 28.—(INS.)—Fear that the tropical hurricane which ravaged Puerto Rico might wreak its fury on the Florida peninsula was lifted today as the storm's course swerved southward, hundreds of miles away.

Richard W. Gray, government meteorologist, said Florida was in no danger unless the hurricane should curve sharply northward.

STAGE TEACHER GETS HEARING

Girls with a flair for the stage are short of cash, it was contended in Central Police Court today where Mrs. Elma Lightner, 48, of Newport, Ark., was arraigned charged with violating a city ordinance. Detectives testified just one girl pupil was found by an "ad" which Mrs. Lightner inserted in a local paper offering to give a course as a theatrical director for $25. The course was to include instructions in make-up, coaching, psychology and stage management.

Detectives said Mrs. Lightner had failed to take out a permit and she was arrested in her apartment in a downtown hotel. She claimed to represent the Star Producing Company, of Urbana, O.

Floyd Boling, 127 Torrens street, testified he had taken a similar course from another woman representing the same producing company, and although he had put on two shows, had not received his money. Mrs. Lightner was held in $500 bail, for a further hearing tomorrow.

Clara Bow's Cousin And Girl Writer Wed

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—The marriage of William Bow, Jr., cousin of the film actress, Clara Bow, and Jewel Smith, 22, film magazine writer, at Las Vegas, Nev., Saturday, was disclosed today after their return.

Bow is an actor and director in the movies. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Smith, Glendale. Smith is Hollywood representative of the state motor vehicle department.

Hearing on Garbage Contract Plan Today

A Council hearing was to be held this afternoon on demands of the Building Owners' and Managers' Association and the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board that the city's future garbage and rubbish contracts be awarded on a long-term basis to promote competition.

Council recently approved letting the 1933 contract on a one-year basis, planning to award longer terms in 1934.

BOMB FAILURE SAVES HOME

A defective fuse saved the home and restaurant of Andy Danzak, 322 South Fourth street, Duquesne, from being bombed the second time within a month, police revealed today.

The fuse went out after burning to within several inches of a dinner-bucket bomb that had been placed on the rear porch of Danzak's two-story frame house, with a restaurant in front. Danzak, his wife, daughter and son were asleep in the house.

Danzak found the bucket filled with dynamite and with a cap attached yesterday. It was being examined today by Duquesne police and County Detective Michael McDermott.

Danzak's home was damaged $700 by a bomb a month ago, after he had received a letter demanding $1,000, he told police.

Since then he has received three special-delivery letters demanding money, but, according to Chief of Police Thomas J. Flynn, of Duquesne, containing no directions as to where the money was to be left. Flynn blames the Black Hand.

Liner in Collision On Pleasure Cruise

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—A Lloyd's dispatch from Las Palmas, Canary Islands, last night said the Spanish steamer Isla de Tenerife was in collision with the White Star liner Homeric on leaving Port Santa Cruz, Tenerife.

The Isla de Tenerife's stem was twisted, but no mention was made of damage to the Homeric, which was on a pleasure cruise.

'EX-WIFE' ASKS DIVORCE

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Katherine Ursula Parrott Greenwood, novelist, of Wilton, author of "Ex-Wife" and "Strangers May Kiss," has filed a suit for divorce against Charles T. Greenwood, New York banker, it became known today.

The complaint alleging intolerable cruelty was entered June 1 in Fairfield County Superior Court and Greenwood, through counsel, has filed an answer denying the charge. The action was entered under the name of Katherine U. Greenwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenwood were married October 14, 1931, and moved to Wilton.

EXPLAIN OATH, BOWMAN ASKED

Chancellor John G. Bowman, University of Pittsburgh, is asked to explain fully the student pledge of allegiance to nation, state and university, in petitions circulated today among students at Pitt.

Leonard J. Grumet, the only one of 7,000 students who refused to sign the pledge, drafted the petition, which assails the pledge as "vague," "extreme" and a move to "stamp out independent political thinking." Copies were circulated by the League for Independent Political Democracy and the National Student League.

Grumet was one of three students who successfully appealed to County Court a $5 fine imposed in Police Court following their arrest while attempting to hold a commencement anti-war demonstration last summer.

The "pledge of loyalty" was given the stamp of approval by the student council, holding its first meeting of the school year last night in Heinz House.

Reed P. Rose, president, said: "Most certainly the situation has been a case of smoke without fire."

Weather Conditions.

Light to moderately heavy rains occurred over the states east of the Mississippi River during the last 24 hours, but this morning the weather has cleared nearly everywhere from Western Pennsylvania westward to the coast. It is still cloudy over the Gulf and Atlantic states, and it is raining at scattered places in that area. Pressure is low in the Southeast and the Northeast and high over the West, with the crest of the high over the northern plains and northward over Saskatchewan. There was a marked drop in temperature over the Ohio Valley states and a slight rise over the plains states, but it is still cool over the states west of the Mississippi. Light frost occurred this morning in Iowa and Illinois, and heavy frost in North Dakota, where the temperature was near freezing.

River Conditions.

Generous rainfall during yesterday and last night over most of the Pittsburgh River District is causing a slight rise in the smaller streams, and at a few points in the main rivers. At Warren the rainfall amounted to .62 inch; Franklin, .82, and Parkers Landing, 1.48. On the Monongahela side, Lock No. 15, .70; No. 10, .73, and No. 7, .78. Stage at Franklin is zero; No. 7 (Mon.), 9.7; Pittsburgh, 10.9; Dam No. 4, 9.0; No. 6, 7.3; No. 10, 8.6, and No. 12, 7.2. The dams are up.

U. S. MAY BALK LANCASTER'S RENO HOPE

Deportation Before Divorce to Marry 'Chubbie' Possible

By EARL L. SHAUB
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Capt. William Lancaster, recently acquitted of killing Haden Clarke in Miami, may be deported before he can realize his desire for a Reno divorce so he can marry Mrs. Jessie Keith-Miller before leaving the country.

He has made an offer to immigration authorities to leave voluntarily if they will give him time to divorce his English wife, but received no satisfaction, it was learned today.

U. S. SCANS EVIDENCE

Labor Department officials are now reviewing evidence to the effect that Lancaster and Mrs. Keith-Miller violated the immigration laws when they came to the United States.

They are debating whether to deport the couple on the strength of affidavits they have, or indict them for conspiracy to violate the immigration laws.

Lancaster, who was in Washington with his attorney last week, left word at the Labor Department that he will wait in Waterbury, Vt., where he is visiting his mother, until the authorities reach a decision in his case.

WANTS RENO DIVORCE

During his visit here Lancaster said his wife will not divorce him because of her religious faith, but that he is anxious to obtain a quick decree in Reno so he can marry Mrs. Keith-Miller.

Both Lancaster and Clarke were infatuated with Mrs. Keith-Miller at the time Clarke was killed.

Mrs. Keith-Miller was divorced by her Australian husband after she and Lancaster flew from England to Australia a few years ago.

As soon as the board of review completes its investigation of the Lancaster and Keith-Miller cases, Secretary of Labor Doak will decide whether to deport or indict them.

LUPE TO ADOPT SISTER'S CHILD

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Lupe Velez is going to raise a family. Not having one of her own she said today that she will begin legal proceedings next week to adopt one of her sister's children, Joan Del Valle, 4 years old, who is coming here from Mexico City. The actress said:

"I will build a special room on my home in Beverly Hills for little Joan and I am getting nice little clothes all ready for her. Then, when she arrives, maybe there will be a big party to greet her, with a lot of other little kiddies as her guests."

The Mexican star said she will ask the court for permission to change the child's last name to Velez. She said her sister has three children.

MRS. WILLIAM HAMILTON BOYCE . . . WED AT WELLSBURG

COURT PAROLES SCHNEIDER

Jack Schneider, 38, of 1632 Tustin street, former constable in the First Ward, who, after being defeated at the September primaries by Paul Walsh, was sentenced for election law violations, was paroled today by Judge Frank P. Patterson.

Judge Patterson signed the parole after receiving a letter from the trial judge, Lawrence Hildebrand, of Lawrence County, who said he would not oppose it.

Schneider was sentenced to a year in jail and to pay a fine of $200, June 27, after his conviction of conspiracy to cause a false registration at the September primaries.

Walsh was also convicted and sentenced for election law violations and appealed to the State Supreme Court. Walsh now is awaiting action on his application for a parole, which is being considered by Judge Davis Henderson, of Fayette County.

W. H. Boyce Marries Visitor Here at Wellsburg

How a polo game in the Kentucky blue grass became a prelude to a Wellsburg elopement was told today as William Hamilton Boyce started out to get a job, and Mrs. Boyce, formerly H. Gaye Dietrich, of Greenville, began to think out problems of housekeeping.

Boyce is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Boyce, Jr., of the Gable Apartments, Ellsworth avenue, while his bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Dietrich.

Attendants at the wedding, which took place September 6, were Miss Dorothy Jane Langfitt and David I. McCahill, Jr., young polo player.

The bride, 23, and bridegroom, 21, decided to keep the marriage secret until the latter finished school at Penn State College.

Miss Dietrich came to Pittsburgh to visit her grandmotner, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, of North Highland avenue, and after returning from the Labor Day polo game in Lexington, Ky., they drove to Wellsburg, accompanied by Miss Langfitt and Mr. McCahill. They returned to Pittsburgh in time for dinner the same evening.

'MOONEY BOMB CARRIER' HELD FOR INQUIRY

Police Question Story Mountaineer 'Planted' Device Killing 10

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Paul M. Callicotte, 32-year-old Oregon mountaineer, was held in jail without bond today after purportedly telling police he "thinks" he unwittingly placed the dynamite laden suitcase which killed 10 persons and injured 42 in the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day parade.

Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings are serving life sentences in California prisons for the bombing.

HELD FOR INVESTIGATION

Although detectives said they were not inclined to give full credence to Callicotte's statement, they booked him as a fugitive from San Francisco and promised a full investigation.

Callicotte was quoted by police as saying he took the suitcase from a man in front of the Industrial Workers of the World Hall in Oakland, carried it across San Francisco Bay, delivered it to a man in San Francisco and, at the latter's request, placed it on the curb at the corner of Steuart and Market streets. It was at this point the suitcase-bomb exploded. Callicotte said he was paid $5 and did not know what the suitcase contained.

TRIED TO SELL STORY

Because his parents were devout Seventh Day Adventists and would be hurt if they learned he worked on the Adventists' Sabbath, he said he did not reveal his story until last night. Two years ago, he said, he attempted to sell the story to an eastern magazine under an assumed name.

Callicotte said he told the story now because his parents were no longer alive and he wanted to clear his conscience.

SUSPECT SHOT IN HOLDUP

Shot in the side during a gun battle with a policeman in Fifth avenue and State way, Peter Voros, 46, of 1616 Colwell street, was identified in Mercy Hospital today by Mrs. Anna Kriceri, 40, of Crawford street, as the man who tried to steal her pocketbook.

Mrs. Kriceri, after telling homicide detectives she was positive Voros was the man, said:

"He ran up to me and grabbed my pocketbook, but I held it tightly and started to scream. Then the policeman ran up and the shooting began."

The officer, Patrolman William Hingley, told detectives Voros fired at him when Hingley ordered him to submit arrest. Hingley said he fired three shots and Voros collapsed.

Police said Voros admitted he was realesed four months ago from Western Penitentiary after being sentenced three years for larceny in Beaver County.

Philadelphia Police Probe Nurse's Death

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—(INS.)—From a mass of doctors' and chemists' reports, murder squad experts attempted today to find the answer to the strange death of Miss Violet King, 24, a nurse.

Miss King, a member of the staff at the Home for Incurables, died in Presbyterian Hospital, apparently of slow poisoning, police revealed. She had been ill for several days, complaining of ptomaine poisoning. But detectives said they were convinced that her death was not caused by ptomaine poisoning.

Mrs. Borah Gains In Fight For Life

BOISE, Ida., Sept. 28.—(Universal.)—Recovery of Mrs. William E. Borah from parrot fever was much nearer today as Dr. Ralph Falk reported that she was continuing to respond favorably to serum injections.

The United States Senator's wife's heart muscles are still weak, it was said yesterday, but even this circumstance has not retarded the betterment of her condition. Five injections of serum have been made.

Resume Train Service Halted by Rio Grande

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—International train service, disrupted since September 3, when the flooded Rio Grande swept away several spans of the International Railway Bridge, has been resumed, according to a government announcement.

150 Dead, 1,000 Injured in 'Quake

ATHENS, Sept. 28.—(INS.)—Advices today indicated at least 150 persons were killed and 1,000 injured in the earthquake which struck the Greek peninsula of Chalcidice.

MANY TO GET JOBS IN RAIL EXPANSION

Pittsburgh will be materially affected, it was indicated today, by industrial expansion programs announced by two railroad lines serving this district—the Baltimore and Ohio and the Bessemer and Lake Erie.

The Baltimore and Ohio plans to increase its heavy repair shop forces, effective October 3, with possible resumption of large scale activity at Glenwood, Dubois and other points on the line, according to a statement by C. W. Calloway, of Baltimore, vice president.

Calloway told the Associated Press a plan would go into effect next Monday, calling for about 1,800 men in the shops to work 30 hours a week, divided into four days of seven and a half hours each.

The Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad will put their locomotive repair shops at Greenville on full time about October 10, giving employment to 480 employes and involving purchase of a substantial amount of materials.

The car shops of the company will resume operations at about this same time, according to the announcement, maintaining a working force of approximately 375 men two weeks out of each month.

Simultaneously with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad executive's announcement in Baltimore, word was received from Washington that his company has asked approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission of its application for a works loan of $3,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The purpose of this loan, as given in an International News Service dispatch, is to increase employment and to stimulate business by building 820 all-steel gondolas, rebuilding and repairing locomotives and freight cars.

MISS MARIE SAVECKA . . . AT MORALS COURT'S BAR TODAY

Miss Savecka, alias Betty Stewart, in her hearing today in Morals Court, where it was brought out that she "panhandled" along Fourth avenue, deposited her money in a nearby bank in which she has an account worth $365! This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

LAWYER TO AID MAN HE HELPED TO CONVICT

GREENSBURG, Sept. 28.—A minister-lawyer who helped to convict Tony Alessio of murder today came to Alessio's rescue with charges that he was very much "surprised" by some of the testimony against the defendant.

The miniser, P. K. Jones, of New Kensington, revealed that some of the accusations made by his own client, Mrs. Ralph Masco, were heard by him for the first time when she took the witness stand.

SURPRISE TESTIMONY

Her children, Elizabeth, 11, and Mrs. Fannie Ostretico, 22, also surprised him with their testimony, Jones said.

Alessio was sentenced to life imprisonment after being convicted of the murder of Ralph Masco in Monessen. A political feud was blamed.

Jones said that after the trial he conveyed his suspicions to Judge C. E. Whitten, the trial judge.

Judge Whitten told the Sun-Telegraph today that Jones had told him of "falling out" with other prosecution counsel.

NEW TRIAL ASKED

Jones' accusations are expected to be used by Alessio in his plea for a new trial.

The lawyer, who is also pastor of St. Andrew's Church in New Kensington, said that when he was preparing the prosecution, Mrs. Masco and her children did not mention having seen Alessio running away from the Masco home after bullets had been fired through a bedroom window. Jones said that there were one or two other details he learned for the first time from the stand.

Distance By Road Or Air, Issue in Doctor's Suit

Whether the distance from Johnstown to Boswell shall be measured by airline, less than 15 miles, or by road, more than 15 miles, was argued before the Pennsylvania Supreme Court yesterday in the appeal of Dr. Walter F. Johnson, Boswell physician, from a Somerset County decree refusing him an injunction to restrain Dr. Milton U. McIntyre from medical practice in Johnstown.

Dr. MyIntyre opened an office on Franklin street, Johnstown, after selling a house and office in Boswell and his practice there to Dr. Johnson under an agreement not to practice within 15 miles of Boswell, and afterwards treated patients living between Johnstown and Boswell, it was contended. The Somerset court held that the distance be measured by a traveled road and not by airline.

ROTARIAN SEES BUSINESS GAINS

Spotted business gains, particularly in smaller plants, have been found by Clinton P. Anderson, president of Rotary International, here today as guest at the thirty-third district dinner tonight in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Anderson, treasurer of the New Mexico Loan and Mortgage Company, of Albuquerque, N. M., is making a tour of Rotary districts. He was met today by District Governor C. J. Shafer, of McKeesport.

Relating the part Rotary fills in troubled times, Anderson said:

"When a business man meets reverses, it is encouragement and fellowship he needs to make the load lighter. Every Rotary club should today promote this fellowship to its utmost."

Blacksnake Curls Around Boy's Leg

ZELIENOPLE, Sept. 28.—James Steinbach, 18, felt something wrap around his leg while he was standing on a pile of hay. He leaped and threw a four-foot blacksnake from the leg. The reptile was killed.

WOMAN BEGGAR BANKS GIFTS

That great legion of male panhandlers, who might boast that theirs was a calling closed to the fair sex, today hung their heads in defeat, for there is a woman among them.

She made her police debut for panhandling in Morals Court today—Marie Savecka, alias Betty Stewart, just turned 20. She gave her address as 1324 Muriel street, South Side.

J. D. Gavin, special watchman for several Fourth avenue banks and one of her victims, testified that one day he saw her panhandle $1 from a customer of the Colonial Trust Company, deposit $10 in the same bank.

Marie has $365 in the bank, Gavin testified.

The girl was arrested on complaint of downtown businessmen. She admitted she had been arrested once before for fleecing taxicab drivers—a feat which should place her on the all-America panhandling team.

But Marie has $25 less today, for Magistrate Thomas D. Jones "panhandled" her out of that fine.

'Brother' Plea Rewarded With Ten Days

C. C. Hoberly, 52, of Altoona, learned today not to address a police magistrate as "Brother," when arraigned in Mt. Washington Police Court on a charge of panhandling. Attempting to explain the $2 police found in his pockets following his arrest yesterday, Hoberly started to say:

"Brother, I live in Altoona, and—"

Magistrate J. J. Sweeney interrupted him with:

"Dear Brother, that will be just $5 or 10 days in jail."

Aleppo Minister Sues for Divorce

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 28.—Charging desertion, the Rev. Thomas F. Presnell, of the Brethren Church at Aleppo, has filed divorce action against Evelyn Coons Presnell. He says they were married three years ago and that Mrs. Presnell deserted him in Aleppo in June, 1930, and returned to Long Beach, Cal., where they were married.

OPERA PLANNED TO RIVAL 'MET'

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(Universal.)—Grand Opera divas will this fall tread the boards of the luxurious Casino theater Earl Carroll built to display the lithe beauties of his revues, if plans for a new opera organization to compete with the Metropolitan reach fruition, it was learned today.

Mme. Jeritza, it was declared, has already agreed to sing in "Tosca," October 31, the date set tentatively for the new organization's debut. Tita Ruffo and Claudia Muzio are reported already signed for appearances and negotiations with Feodor Chaliapin are underway. John Clarke Thomas and Dusolina Giannini are also sought.

A. C. Bluementhal, who has continued "Show Boat" at the Casino since the death of Florenz Ziegfeld; Jules Brulatore, Hope Hampton's husband, and Paul Longone, are backing the new organization.

Presidential Trend by States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The tabulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States. It also shows the majority that each candidate has in each state in which he is leading. In addition it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each state as compared with the last preceding report from the state. These state reports are usually a week apart. The final feature of this table shows the net gain of each candidate in each state where he has improved his position as compared with the preceding report from that state.

REDS RECEIVE FEW BALLOTS IN POLL

By COLE F. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Despite economic unrest, out of which they have attempted to make political capital, the Communists are making little headway in the presidential campaign.

This is revealed today in returns in the nationwide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

Of more than 300,000 postcard ballots tabulated only 425 have been received for W. Z. Foster, the Communist candidate for President.

This is in contrast to the 5,811 ballots for Norman Thomas, the Socialist party nominee. Other independent parties with candidates in the field primarily as a protest against the two major parties have polled almost as many votes, with no particular effort or organization, as have come for the Communist ticket.

Father Cox, the militant Pittsburgh priest, has rolled up 177 ballots from 26 states for his "Blue Shirt" Jobless party. W. H. "Coin" Harvey has received 132 from 21 states for his Liberty party. Gen. Jacob S. Coxey, a militant leader of another day of economic depression, has received 33 from 15 states in his candidacy under the farmer labor label, and Vern L. Reynolds, Socialist-Labor candidate, has 31 from 15 states to his credit. These four have corralled within 52 as many ballots as Foster.

W. D. Upshaw, former crusading dry representative in Congress from Georgia, who has the Prohibition party nomination, has received 398 ballots from 43 states.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Sarah Lippincott.

Mrs. Sarah Jane Clarke McCrickart Lippincott, wife of Henry C. Lippincott, 2342 Bensonia avenue, Beechview, died Monday. She was born in Pittsburgh and spent her entire life here. She was a member of the Shady Avenue Presbyterian Church and the Pittsburgh Artists' Association. She is survived by her husband and nine children, K. Elizabeth, Henry, Samuel, Richard, William, Monte, Lawrence and John, all at home. Funeral services will be held in the H. Samson funeral home at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Imhoff Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Myler Imhoff, who died Monday in Washington, Pa., were to be held this afternoon in the T. B. Moreland funeral chapel, North Highland avenue. Mrs. Imhoff was a member of the Edgewood Presbyterian Church and was active in church work in the Pittsburgh district for many years. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. W. G. Isenburg, of Swissvale; a sister, and two brothers.

Walter A. McCullough.

Walter Allen McCullough, son of R. C. McCullough, superintendent of the Ohio River district, U. S. Engineers, died yesterday in the Valley Hospital. He lived at Depot Lock No. 2, Ohio River, Neville Island. He leaves four brothers, Robert M.; Howard C.; Joseph, and Ralph, and a sister, Miss Martha. Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

James L. Wright.

James L. Wright, 59, veteran railroad employe and former Councilman of Carnegie, is dead in his home, 303 Fifth avenue, Carnegie. Born in Dennison, O., he had lived in Carnegie more than 30 years. He was freight agent in Carnegie for the Pennsylvania Railroad for many years, later becoming supervising freight agent for the Pittsburgh division. He was a member of St. Luke's Catholic Church. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Sarah A. Wright, a son, James A. Wright, and a daughter, Miss Catherine, both of Carnegie.

Synod Supports U. P. Prohibition Stand

MARTINS FERRY, O., Sept. 28.—The Ohio Synod of the United Presbyterian Church adjourned today to meet next year in Muskingum, after reaffirming support of officials favoring the Eighteenth Amendment, deploring Sabbath commercialization and urging government regulation of the movies.

Henry Ford's Wife To Support Hoover

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, director of the women's division of the Republican National Committee, said yesterday that Mrs. Henry Ford, wife of the automobile manufacturer, has agreed to take an active part in supporting the re-election of President Hoover.

Food Order Forgery Charge Holds Man

Louis Goldberg, 46, of 311 Vine street, was held for investigation today on testimony offered in Central Police Court that he had obtained groceries on forged orders of the Jewish Family Welfare.

Mrs. Doris L. Victor, welfare representative, testified he has been receiving aid from the welfare group for 15 years. He obtained groceries on four forged orders, Mrs. Victor said, but his wife, when questioned, declared she has not received any groceries in months.

HOOVER GAINS IN DELAWARE

By COLE F. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Little by little President Hoover continues each week to whittle down Gov. Roosevelt's Delaware majority in the nation-wide postcard presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

With 1,175 ballots tabulated from the tiny state, Roosevelt now has a majority of only 27. A week ago it was 32.

While Hoover is whittling away at Delaware, Gov. Roosevelt is piling up ever increasing majorities in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina, all of which four years ago gave their electoral votes to the Republican candidate.

The closest one of these states, as indicated by the poll returns, is West Virginia, and it is continuing to give Roosevelt 60 out of every 100 poll ballots received.

The one state in the border group in which there may yet be a prospect of Republican improvement would be Tennessee, where there is a bitter factional fight in the Democratic party, with two Democratic candidates in the field for the governorship.

Latest reports reaching Washington from Tennessee are that because of this factional split, the Republican gubernatorial candidate has a fair chance to win. Whether he would be able to carry the presidential ticket with him is another question.

One More Chance To Register for Election

Residents of cities in Allegheny County who have been assessed, still have one chance to qualify in order to vote at the November election.

October 8 will be the third and last registration day in the cities. This is also the last day to pay poll taxes. Only those regularly assessed can pay taxes.

September 7 was the last day to be assessed.

Radiator Company Receivership Ends

OLD MINES SHUT FOR SAFETY

The abandoned coal mines on Howard Hill, overlooking Spring street, South Side, were closed today to the men, women and children who have been digging their winter supply of coal from them.

Fearing death or injury to the coal diggers, Police Inspector Dennis Hennessy ordered patrolmen to board up entrances to the mines. Police said several thousand families had already obtained enough coal for the winter. Six boys met death in the mines in the last two years, Hennessy said.

Hennessy will ask the United States Bureau of Mines to destroy the mines with dynamite.

McCANN'S 59TH YEAR OF ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY

OCTOBER is McCANNS 59th Anniversary of continuous service in supplying thousands of Pittsburgh homes with the finest foods money can buy at downright reasonable prices.

That MEANS:

a whole month of big values for you. Watch the newspapers, beginning tomorrow, for daily announcements. You can't afford to miss them . . . take our word for it.

Minted Fresh Fruit Cup
Consomme Celestine
Roast Turkey with Dressing
Cranberry Jelly
Candied Sweet Potatoes
Fresh Peas-Carrots
Garden Salad
Hot Biscuits and Butter
Pumpkin Pie
Coffee Supreme
Served the balance of the week from 4 to 8 in the table service division of the cafeteria and in McCanns East End restaurant.

Men like to eat at McCanns. For here they are served the kind of food they like to eat. Food prepared after simple, favorite home recipes by young women under the direction of Mrs. Bowman, McCanns food supervisor. When the recipe calls for butter, McCanns butter is used; for eggs, McCanns fresh eggs are used. And that plus the fact that McCann prices are downright reasonable is why everyone (and men in particular) has decided that McCanns is the best place to eat after all. The turkey dinner to the left is repeated on request of many customers who enjoyed it so much they wished to duplicate the experience. It will be served the balance of the week.

URGES KILLING OF POLL TAX IN STATE

Elimination of the tax qualification feature of the state constitution, which has already passed one session of the Legislature and will be up again in 1933, should be adopted in the interest of clean elections, Attorney John M. Henry, of the Registration Commission, believes.

If the Legislature again acts favorably on the suggestion, the electors of the state will be asked to approve or disapprove it. Should it be approved and permanent registration authorized, as suggested by Henry, the first test would be given in the gubernatorial primaries in 1934.

CLEANER ELECTIONS

Attorney Henry said:

"I think the law should be approved. In states where they have permanent registration and no tax qualification they have no election scandals. Contrast that with last year when 80,000 votes were cast on tax orders. Next year you will have to keep your eyes open. It is far easier to check on permanent registration. Under the existing system you can register on Saturday and vote in the primaries the following Tuesday."

Mr. Henry said that the added expense in the city of Pittsburgh because of the present system is $75,000 a year and this could easily be done away with.

PERMANENT REGISTRATION

"It's not so much the expense as the inconvenience our people are put to under the present system. If we can only have permanent registration such as in many western cities, it would be possible for those who move to register the last of May or early in June. Once registered you stay registered unless you move.

"In some cities the voter's name is placed on a card and if he does not vote he is out of luck at the next election, unless he again registers. As a result many vote, so as not to lose time registering."

ALL PAY TAXES

Attorney Henry said it was foolish to think one should not vote unless he or she is a taxpayer.

He remarked:

"Everybody pays taxes, whether direct or not. If you will make inquiry you will find that the commonwealth convention of 1873 did not want any tax qualification. A lot of people will be disfranchised this year because they cannot pay their taxes and it is not right."

FRIENDSHIP DAY AT CHURCH

The Second United Presbyterian Church, Stockton avenue and Sandusky street, North Side, will observe Sunday as "Friendship Day." Invitations have been extended former members and friends of the old Second, Ninth and Tenth churches to attend the services.

Dr. Laing

The Rev. Dr. Samuel M. Laing, pastor, and former pastors of these churches will speak at a vesper service at 4 p. m. A musical program will be directed by Frederick Lotz and D. Alden Rosser. Old church records, baptismal and communion vessels and other equipment will be displayed.

Former pastors of the old Tenth Church who will participate in the vesper service are the Rev. Dr. R. W. McGranahan, associate secretary of the Board of American Missions; the Rev. Dr. W. R. Wilson, Pittsburgh-Xenia Seminary; the Rev. Dr. Huber Ferguson, Washington; the Rev. Dr. J. W. Springer, Emsworth; the Rev. R. M. Campbell, Upper Darby, and the Rev. Dr. George A. Long, Homewood.

The Ninth Church organized September 8, 1891, united with the Second Church, July 9, 1908.

Day Nurseries Care For Less Children

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—A decrease in the number of children cared for in day nurseries to the lowest level since reports first began in 1929 was announced today by the Children's Bureau, which said:

"With fewer mothers employed, there is less need for dependence upon day nurseries to insure proper care of children during the working day."

Sunday Auto Racers Fail to Pay Fines

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 28.—Drivers who participated in the Sunday automobile race at Arden Downs a few weeks ago have failed to mail promised checks covering their fines and costs. Promoter A. C. Schmepp, of Pittsburgh, who paid his fine and costs, at least, promised they would be. Constable Isaac Fenton, of Meadowlands, is searching for the men.

Agents Make Beer Raid After Being Invited In

After looking through the glass door of a wildcat brewery in Verona boulevard, Penn Township, for more than an hour late yesterday, a squad of prohibition agents were beckoned to enter by an employe, they reported.

The agents saw the man filling beer kegs from a vat and waited to effect a legal entrance. Once inside the raiders arrested the employe and seized 2,600 gallons of beer stored in steel vats, they reported.

A federal search warrant would have been necessary if the agents had not been invited to enter.

Allied Trade Boards To Name Directors

Five directors of the Allied Boards of Trade will be elected tonight at the annual meeting in the Congress of Clubs. William P. Witherow, general chairman of the Welfare Fund, will speak. The following have been nominated for directorship: Dr. E. D. Craig, Greentree; H. F. Burnworth, North Side; C. V. Wiers, Oakmont; W. M. Justice, Squirrel Hill; W. J. Blakeley, Brookline, and E. H. Wicks, Bellevue.

WRIGLEY REPORTERS CONTINUE TO PAY DOLLAR BILLS

Gum Users in All Sections of City Are Stopped in Big Hunt.

By MR. SPEAR

Miss Mint and I are becoming so well known in Pittsburgh that it is impossible for us to stay long in one locality. The last few days we have had to actually run to get away from enthusiastic and eager Wrigley users—boys especially. The minute they hear we are around they dash for the nearest gum counter—load up on Wrigley's—and proceed to drop wrappers, chew gum loudly and in other ways "gently suggest" that they are ready for a dollar bill. Not a bad idea when one or two do it, but when forty or fifty boys and girls are busy "suggesting" at one time—it's just a few too many for one lone Mr. Spear to handle.

A LOYAL PIRATE FAN

HARRY W. DeWALT, 914 Penn Ave., had a package of Double Mint when I stopped him downtown. I gave him a dollar when he said, "I'm a loyal Pirate fan but glad the Cubs won the pennant, and I will pull for Wrigley's Ball Team as well as for Wrigley's gum."

H. H. SPELLMAN, 5753 Fifth Ave., said he "had a hunch" fifteen minutes before I stopped him that I was in the neighborhood. He was right and received a dollar bill for having Spearmint.

MRS. F. S. KAILER, the Ruskin Apartments, Shadyside, was at the Art Exhibit at the Schenley Hotel when I discovered she had a package of Double Mint. I gave her a dollar bill when she told me, "I always include Wrigley's in my after-dinner course."

MRS. THERESA M. VOGEL, 6618 Brainard St., was much excited when she received a dollar for having a package of Juicy Fruit. "Wrigley's is my favorite gum—it's very refreshing and delightful," she said.

MISS RHODA DeBOLT, 1032 Stratmore Ave., Crafton, had gotten on the wrong street car and was lost. She was trying to find her way home when I stopped her. "It's certainly worth a dollar to get lost," she said, as she showed me a package of Double Mint.

MRS. JACK DESCHLER, 503 Cubbage St., Carnegie, walked a half block after I stopped her before she realized she had a package of Wrigley's in her purse. She hurried back, showed me Double Mint and received a dollar.

ALL OUT OF BREATH

PAUL LYONS, East Liberty Y. M. C. A., was chasing his hat down Penn Ave. when I stopped him. He was all out of breath as he showed me a pack of P.K.'s and all he could say was "Wrigley's is a great gum."

J. T. McGARA, 511 Fairmont Ave., Trafford, received a dollar when he produced a package of Juicy Fruit and said, "This is like finding money on the street. It's easy dough."

MARY McCLENAHAN, 412 Second St., Pitcairn, a senior at Pitcairn High, was talking to a girl friend on the front porch when I stopped her. Her package of Spearmint and the statement that "Wrigley's helps to brighten a dull afternoon" earned her a dollar.

Among others to receive dollar bills in the last few days were: MRS. MARGARET McCULLOCH, 312 Emerson Ave.; W. J. O'BRIEN 115½ Church St., Turtle Creek; MARGARET FOLEY, 337 Sansbury Ave., Carnegie; S. E. PHILLIPS, 187 Noble Ave., Crafton; ALEX S. ADER, 334 Cherry St., West Homestead; FLORENCE COOK, 5438 Hillcrest St.; CATHERINE KEALLY, 4769 Wallingford St.; ELIZABETH HENDERSHOT, 275 N. Craig St., and BEATRICE E. DRAKE, 470 S. Aiken Ave.

All of Pittsburgh has been so friendly and interested in Miss Mint's and my work that we are going right ahead giving out new dollar bills every day. We are jumping all over Pittsburgh and vicinity. You are never safe from being stopped by us wherever you are. There is only one way to BE PREPARED for us and that is by always having a package of Wrigley's with you.

REVOLT FLARES IN MANCHURIA

TOKIO, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Fear that a serious revolt against the new state of Manchukuo had broken out in western Heilungkiang Province in Manchuria worried Japanese government officials today.

Communications with the western part of the huge northern province appeared to have broken down completely, it was said, after the Japanese consul telegraphed Tsitsihar, asking for help.

The consul said bands of Chinese railway guards had risen in rebellion and that a Japanese airplane which was sent out on a scouting expedition west of Tsitsihar failed to return.

The foreign office expressed the hope that Japanese consular representatives and residents of the section had taken refuge in Russian territory since the Soviet government had agreed to afford them protection in the event of trouble.

Cabaret Man Back, Silent on Abduction

KENOSHA, Wis., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Jess Minkowski, proprietor of a Kenosha night club, who was kidnaped Monday night, returned to his home today, none the worse for his experience.

Minkowski refused to tell where he had been or to name his abductors. A man thought to be one of his abductors was arrested in a Chicago suburb last night.

FATHER SCORED, GILDA WEEPS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Gilda Gray, gay dancer, heard her father condemned by Judge Michael S. Sheridan in court yesterday as she broke down and cried. Max Michalski, Gilda's father, stood mute as Judge Sheridan said:

"In plain, everyday English, you're just a bum. It is you who has caused all the trouble in your family. And it is because of too much booze."

Then the judge ordered him to go to the county infirmary and get cured of his drinking habit.

Gilda's family was in court as a result of her father's obtaining $98 poor relief from the county, although Miss Gray had been sending her family $75 a month.

Ring Lardner 'Agrog' For Series Opener

His opponent, Lou Gehrig, lives in the Bronx lefthanded, plays no instrument with either hand, carries a sandwich in both hands and, as luck would and does have it, hits long drives into right center and dead right field. It looks like a what-up.

At second base, we have the young Herman boy and the veteran Tony Lazzeri. Tony once took a passed ball and won a world series against Pittsburgh. I don't know whether he sang as the passed ball or took it silently. Being of his race, he probably sang.

Herman, being of almost any race, probably would sing, too, under those circumstances. It looks like a walk-up.

HONUS AT SHORT

At shortstop we have two Germans, Herman Long and Honus Wagner. Neither of these kids can sing, but both are born croakers. The third basemen are Woody English and Joe Sewell, neither of whom is English or Sewell. They are both very steady, excepting English and Sewell. So you can look on it as a walk-up.

Now we come to the outfields, and the less said about them the better, especially Babe Ruth.

The opening game will be opened with all the usual splurge. Mayor Hylan will throw out the first strike and Charles Ruffing will pitch the first ball.

Society will be well represented. Among those who have already engaged boxes are One-Eyed Connolly, Two-Eyed Connolly, Three-Eyed Connolly, (skipping) Six-Eyed Connolly, Eight-Eyed Connolly (and then on through the Connollys, two-four-six-eight), Paul Lannin, George Lannin, Alex Lannin, Casey Stengel, James Sheckard, John T. Doyle, Larry Doyle, Mickey Flynn, Dickie Flynn, Hickey Flynn, Wickey Flynn, Max Carey, Alice and Phoebe Carey, Good Morning Carrie, Louisa M. Alcott, Felicia Hemans, Robert Browning, Elizabeth Barrett Browning and their sisters.

OHIO STATE ON PARADE

No one will be admitted to a box seat unless she is your sister.

Just before the game, Ohio State University will parade across the field and form the Alma Mater "W." Then it will be Middlebury's turn. The officials will then call the rival captains to the center of the field for the toss of the coin.

Whoever tosses the coin the highest will be entitled to his choice of what time to start the game. Capt. Babe Ruth is a pretty high coin tosser. High tossing is a big advantage in a short series like this, because the winner has the choice of what time to game shall start.

Whichever wins the toss can say whether the game shall start early or late and, naturally, the club that has the pitcher with the fastest ball wants the game started at the same time; otherwise he will have nobody to pitch to, which is a big advantage. With Ruffing on one club and Bush on the other, this makes it even. The toss will be watched with plenty of lethargy.

MAY BETTER CLUB WIN

The next toss is to be for the privilege of the first pitch. The winner of this toss has a big advantage, because whoever loses has nobody to pitch to. This helps a lot, especially if the other club has nobody among the first four equipped with a bat.

The third toss doesn't amount to so much, being a question of which goal you take, and in a long series like these it doesn't matter.

Come one and all, Reds and Red Sox! And may the better club win, if there is one!

Women said:
A fast working soap can't be safe!

BUT they didn't know about the New Oxydol then

● If sad experience with other soaps has convinced you that a soap able to soak dirt out quickly is too strong for colors and fine materials—try Oxydol. No longer need you spend extra time washing lingerie because you're afraid to use the same soap that whisks dirt out of sheets!

Women know now that rich suds are what do the extra work for them—that suds are the secret of all easy washing.

The New Oxydol's as mild as May—as kind to hands as it is to dainty things—yet it takes dirt out faster than any soap you've ever seen. Because it makes 50% more suds—richer, longer lasting suds that float dirt out and hold it out so clothes are fresh and fragrant—clean smelling suds that don't ball up or leave a scum.

Use it for dishes too. See how quickly those extra suds cut the grease—how easily they rinse off so dishes are sparkling clean—how much work they save you. And remember that Oxydol softens water. Even the softest water turns hard when you put in dirty clothes or dishes.

Ask your grocer today for a big package of the New Oxydol. Use enough to make rich suds—it dissolves instantly—and see how it lightens all your household tasks.

WORLD SERIES -:- New York-Chicago Title Clashes -:- BROADCAST

Millions Hear Games Over Radio

Between 20,000,000 and 50,000,000 people, according to estimates, are "attending" the world series, opening today in New York, through the modern magic of radio broadcasting.

Networks of the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System, including the Pittsburgh outlets, WCAE, KDKA and WJAS, carry play-by-play accounts and descriptive pictures of the games to a coast-to-coast audience. KDKA's international shortwave unit, W8XK, also is utilized to carry the broadcasts to sports fans of other countries.

Mr. Manning

In addition to today's games, others are called for 1:30 p. m. tomorrow, Saturday and Monday. Actual broadcasting, however, begins at 1:15 o'clock, when "eyewitness" accounts of the crowds by Graham McNamee and Ted Husing are heard.

Hal Totten, former newspaper reporter and the first man ever to broadcast a baseball game direct from the field, and Tom Manning, veteran baseball announcer, are doing the play-by-play reporting for NBC, and Bob Elson and Pat Flanagan for CBS.

Nat Shilkret introduces a new stunt on WCAE tonight at 9:30 when he presents the feature, "Imitations of Popular Radio Orchestras." You'll hear, as highlights of the medley, "Carnival of Venice" as Edwin Franko Goldman plays it; Rubinoff's interpretation of "Give Me A Moment, Please," and Vincent Lopez's familiar piano novelty, "Nola." On the same program, Gladys Rice is heard singing "I Don't Know Why" and "Kiss Me Again."

The first of a series of daily, except Sunday, band concerts by the Gimbel Band from the balcony of Gimbels department store is heard on WCAE tomorrow morning at 9:15. The programs are presented in connection with the ninetieth anniversary celebration of the founding of the first Gimbel store.

Program Pointers

Selections from three outstanding light operas of the century, the first of which is "Sweethearts," from Victor Herbert's operetta of the same name, are presented by Virginia Rea during her guest appearance with Victor Young's Orchestra and the Revelers on WCAE tonight at 9 o'clock. Miss Rea's other solos are "More Than You Know," from "Great Day," and "Giannina Mia," from "The Firefly." The Revelers feature Frank Black's arrangement, with lyrics, of Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in G Minor."

Miss Rea

Dr. H. J. Derthick, president of Milligan College, Tenn., speaks on "How Present Taxes Affect Our Educational Institutions," in the American Taxpayers' League program on KDKA at 8.

Ruth Etting, who has been vacationing, returns to the musical quarter-hour with Nat Shilkret's Orchestra with her version of "My Man," on WJAS at 10.

Baseball, Football on Seals' Card

An historical outline of the independent football teams of the Pittsburgh area, tracing their rise from the days of sandlot playing to their present stratum of lineups filled with former collegiate stars, is given by Tom Birks, sports writer of the Sun-Telegraph, as a highlight of the Trained Seals' review on WCAE at 6:50.

A resume of the scholastic football situation in the district by Julius Levin, of the sports staff, and a discussion of the world series, the outcome of the Schmeling-Walker fight and coming football games by Harry Keck, sports editor, and Herb McGee also are heard.

An entertaining program for the children is presented under the direction of Jane A. White, assistant curator of education at Carnegie Museum, today from 5 to 5:30.

The Andrini Brothers, string comedians, are co-starred with Sheetiron McGinty and an orchestra directed by David Levin during the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club of the Air on WCAE at 11 tonight. Pat Haley is master of ceremonies.

Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, relays the latest news flashes to WCAE listeners at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m today. His 2:30 broadcast is canceled due to the world series broadcast on WCAE from 1:15 to 4.

LISTENING IN

Five-Generation Fans.
Kate Gets Squawks.
'Yow, Suh,' Connie.

Irma Glen, Chicago NBC organist, is the proud possessor of one of radio's most unique fan letters. It was written by five members of five generations in one family. The great-great-grandfather is 92 years old . . . Claudine MacDonald, director of the Women's Radio Review, was awarded a red rose for being the most beautiful girl in her graduating class at Northwestern U . . . and to top it off, she was also elected to the Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity . . .

Miss Glen

Billy Idelson, the juvenile actor heard in the Vic and Sade skits, has an ambition. He wants to raise thoroughbred horses for a living and be a radio star as a side-line when he grows up.

Kate Smith always gets two squawks every time she sings—from Ben and Al, her pet parrots.

Now they're saying that the catch word, "Yow-sah," which is elbowing out "O. K.", "Oke" and "Righto," came from New Orleans via Connie Boswell.

Peter Van Steeden, the orchestra leader, was born in Amsterdam, Holland, and came to the United States at the age of 3 . . . He studied industrial engineering in college but turned to music when only 17 . . . He's been in radio ever since, is composer of the popular song, "Home," and is one of radio's youngest band leaders.

There's a fan letter writer who's sending perfumed silk handkerchiefs to radio luminaries . . . Johnny Marvin, Frank Luther, James Melton, Donald Novis and Ben Alley each received one within two weeks.

Six months ago a well-meaning friend insisted that Welcome Lewis place the genuine setting of her huge eight-caret diamond ring in a safety deposit vault and wear paste stones instead. Luckily, she took the advice—she lost the setsing while playing in Washington recently, and instead of being out several thousand dollars, her loss totaled less than a dollar.

Persistant . . . When the Street Singer appeared in Toronto a few weeks ago, an agitated admirer stepped from the station crowd to shake the artist's hand . . . A half hour later the same admirer stepped from a city hall throng and requested an autograph on a profered piece of paper . . . The other day the Street Singer received a note from the fan: "Won't you please send me your autograph? I had to give the other to the gas company—it was written on the back of my bill."

Ed Wynn does some figuring and remarks that more people hear him on a single broadcast than in his 29 years on the stage.

Georgie Price spent several hours at the docks the other day waiting to supervise the landing of a costly grand piano which he imported from Berlin . . . It's to be used for his wife's piano lessons.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

One fall bride-to-be, petite, blonde Christine Johnson, daughter of the Hussey Burdell Johnsons, of Wilkins avenue, is having a gay time what with entertainments galore arranged for the coming days in her home.

Christine will wed Charles N. Lennox of the Pennsylvania Apartments, October 10 in the Bellevue Presbyterian Church. The hour is 5:30 in the afternoon.

Helen McCune, one of the bridesmaids, will be hostess at a treasure hunt tonight, to end at the McCune farm in the Fox Chapel district.

Another bridesmaid, Alice Arnd, and one of the ushers, Edmund M. Campbell, will give a dinner Saturday at Longue Vue Country Club. There'll be dancing after the dinner for the guests.

Monday is going to be a festive day for the bridal party. First of all, in the afternoon, Betty Davison, a bridesmaid, will entertain in her home at a luncheon. And that night Martha Johnson, who'll be her sister's maid of honor, will give a dinner in the Johnson home.

Luncheon, Dinner

A week from Thursday, Dorothy Hardie will give a luncheon in her home.

The rehearsal dinner, a week from Saturday night, will be given Mrs. J. O. Autenreith.

Added to this pleasant prospect of parties, there have been several already. Mary Kuhn gave a tea Sunday in her home, and Jane Forrester gave an entertainment recently.

* * *

The time has come, and music lovers are delighted, for the opening of those popular morning musicales. The first one of the season was held this morning in the home of Mrs. W. F. Knox, Robin road. This series was started several years ago by Mrs. Taylor Allderdice.

Morning Musicale

Mrs. John E. Nelson and Helen Bell Rush were in charge of the program today. Ronald Portman, baritone, guest artist, who comes from Butler, has been singing in opera in New York.

* * *

On Monday I mentioned that Miss Gertrude F. Gerdes, of New York, a member of one of Pittsburgh's oldest families, and William L. Walker, of New York and Boston, had obtained a marriage license on Saturday in New York.

Weds in Gotham

And they were married yesterday afternoon in the Church of Heavenly Rest, New York. A dinner for the families followed in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. D. Herbert Hostetter, of Fifth avenue, New York.

The Walkers will make their home in New Rochelle. Mrs. Walker is a sister of Mrs. Oscar R. Wikander, of South Negley avenue, by the way, and of Mrs. W. H. Harrison, who now lives in the West.

* * *

Louise Macdonald, daughter of Mrs. Joseph H. Bialas, of Fifth avenue and Devonshire road, will be off for school tomorrow night. She'll return to Rosemary Hall, Greenwich, Conn.

Going to School

* * *

And there's a betrothal to grace the day. Dr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Ziegler, of Neville street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary R. Ziegler, to Lawrence B. Whit, of New York. Mary attended Winchester School and is a graduate of Wilson College.

Mr. Whit is a graduate of Dartmouth. He is the son of Mrs. Bertha B. Whit, of New York.

* * *

Among the recent arrivals at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., has been Mrs. J. W. Henry. The T. M. Girdlers, of Cleveland, formerly of Sewickley, are there, too.

Music and Art Programs Supplement Lectures Of Century Club

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

In addition to the very fine lecture programs arranged for Monday mornings, Twentieth Century Club members may look forward to an excellent music and art series. Mrs. William P. Witherow, chairman of the committee; Mrs. Jacob Simpson Payton, vice chairman, and their aides have prepared for the season programs that will include folk songs, carols, violin and vocal numbers as well as one program on art.

Ellenor Cook, in a costume recital of folk songs, will be the first attraction. She appears November 10 at 2:30 o'clock. In December the club choral will sing Christmas carols under the direction of Mrs. Thomas K. Cree.

Then in January the committee will present Florence Hardeman, violinist, on the twelfth; February's program will be on art.

Arthur Anderson, basso, former Pittsburgher and a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, is booked for March 9 and a recital by the choral and a soloist will close the season.

A BROADCLOTH SUIT WITH AN INTRIGUING NEW COLOR SCHEME

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—A woolen necklace instead of a fur collar, a blouse of lacey wool and a belt buckle as big as your hand—these are some of the features of a new Paris suit that is one of the winter's successes.

* * *

CHANTAL is the designer. The suit itself is of broadcloth—a material whose popularity has just been recently revived. Broadcloth appears in this winter's Paris collection of clothes not only for dressy suits, but for afternoon coats, sports dresses, evening wraps and evening gowns.

* * *

CHANTAL'S suit, as the sketch shows, keeps to solid lines. There are no draped or bias or fitted effects anywhere. The sleeves are wide at the arm-eyes and taper down to narrowness at the wrists; the pockets on the hips are so cut that they protrude away from the jacket. There is the suggestion of a yoke in the plaited and tucked decoration just below the throat. The skirt is cut in two pieces, with fitted smoothness at the hips and a gradual flaring below.

* * *

THE COLOR scheme is especially interesting. The suit is in Italian green, the blouse, knitted of Shetland wool, is in bright yellow, the necklace made of three rolls of wool fabric is in black, yellow and green. The same rolls, in three colors, appear in the belt of the skirt.

* * *

TWO WAVING bands of silver metal combine to make both the buckle at the front of the suit and the clasp for the wool necklace. Each of them is about six inches long.

Students Guests Of Lake Erie Alumnae

Parties honoring new students at the various schools and colleges are numerous this time of the year. The Lake Erie College Alumnae Association gave its party for both the students and last June's graduates, and it was held in the home of Mrs. Frank D. Newbury, of Briar Cliff road, earlier in the month.

Those who return to college this year are Miss Mary Elizabeth Junkin, of Bellevue; Miss Dorothy Luke, of Irwin; Miss Louise Tomlinson, of Wilkinsburg; Miss Jean Trutter, of Pittsburgh; Miss Mary Jo Rodrigues, of Bellevue; Miss Harriet Jennewine, Wilkinsburg; Miss Margaret Read, East End; Miss Helen Louise Robinson, West Newton; Miss Priscilla Van Voorhis, Charleroi, and Miss Dorothy Whitham, of Mt. Lebanon.

Original Creations Shown by Garden Club

NEW YORK.—The North Country Garden Club, composed only of those socially prominent women who actually work in their gardens or supervise their planting, had one of its most interesting meetings last week.

ENGLISH URGES TRUCE ON CITY PROJECTS

A "moratorium" on requests for public improvements during present economic conditions is sought by Councilman W. Y. English, chairman of the budget committee.

English's request came late yesterday when City Clerk Robert Clark read a petition from the Oakland Board of Trade for a new swimming pool in Schenley Park, like the one built last year in Highland Park.

English said:

"If we could impress on the people that we don't have the money to build pools and start other large public improvements, they might go easy on their requests until the depression ends.

"If they want improvements they must remember they cost plenty of money. It takes taxes to pay our bills."

Council called for reports on the season's receipts of the Highland Park pool to determine whether it was self-sustaining.

BAKER PRAISES CITY'S SCHOOLS

Pittsburgh's educational institutions were praised by Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, in a radio address over Station KDKA last night. He said in part:

"There has been no more interesting development in the city's greatness than the contribution of its educational institutions. We have in our several institutions of higher learning an enrollment of around 25,000 students. My own institution is largely concerned with technology and I can conceive of no community where it is possible to study engineering under such favorable conditions—in normal times—as in Pittsburgh.

"The whole district is a vast industrial laboratory. Pittsburgh attracts the scientist because of the opportunities afforded him for research. Many of her industrial plants maintain very complete scientific laboratories."

CARNEGIE MAN CONVICTED

Convicted of practicing medicine without a license, J. S. Harney, 45, with offices in the Zug Building, Carnegie, yesterday was ordered by Judge John P. Egan to close his office until he can pass an examination and get a license to practice. Judge Egan suspended sentence on payment of costs by Harney.

Testimony showed Harney had practiced chiropractics and electrotherapy. His defense was that he made no diagnosis but treated patients as they would be treated in a gymnasium.

Miss Elizabeth Miller, Carnegie school teacher, testified Harney had put salve on her foot when she had gone to him with a foot ailment. He denied this and said he had only given her an electric treatment.

Brooklyn Pastor Refuses Oregon Call

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—The Rev. Dr. Russell Brougher, for five years pastor of the Temple Baptist Church in Brooklyn, has decided not to submit his name before the pulpit committee of the White Temple Baptist Church, Portland, Ore., at their invitation, because he feels it "God's will," that he remain in Brooklyn.

Dr. Brougher said he had been invited to submit his name to the Oregon church's pulpit committee last August.

COAL LICENSE PLAN ASSAILED BY M'ARDLE

An ordinance proposed by the Pittsburgh Coal Merchants' Association to assess a $100 annual city license fee on all coal dealers had been branded today by Councilman P. J. McArdle as an effort to put the independent dealer out of business.

When Attorney Charles B. Prichard, representing the association, appeared before Council with his proposal, McArdle said:

"This ordinance is as plain as a huge billboard. Its purpose is to put the small and independent coal dealer out of business. Only a dozen or so companies, including the Pittsburgh Coal Company and others, would benefit."

Councilman Robert Garland said:

"Passage of this legislation would increase cost of coal to the consumer."

Study of the bill prompted Council to set a public hearing date next Wednesday, October 5, to give all dealers a chance to state their views.

The association proposes to assess $100 as an initial fee with $5 additional yearly for every truck or wagon used in the distribution of coal or coke.

NEW LOAN BANK MEET TONIGHT

Legal problems of the new Home Loan Bank system will be explained tonight at 8 o'clock at an open forum which will be conducted by Attorney Forrest G. Moorehead, of Beaver County, at the Chamber of Commerce.

Officials of building and loan associations, savings banks and insurance companies eligible to borrow from the Home Loan Bank will be present. The meeting will be in charge of Hubbs Welmer and C. P. Rhen of the Allegheny County League of Building and Loan Associations.

To date, few applications for stock in the new bank have been received at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters.

DEBATE ON DRY LAW MONDAY

Prohibition will be debated next Monday night in Carnegie Lecture Hall by Mrs. Carroll Miller, of Pittsburgh, an anti-prohibitionist, and Whiting Williams, Cleveland author and dry exponent. The debate is announced by the League for Social Justice, which says this is the first of a series of meetings on important national issues being sponsored by the league during the presidential campaign.

St. Michael's Alumni Reunion Tomorrow

The annual reunion of St. Michael's Alumni Association will be held in St. Agnes' Church, Fifth avenue, tomorrow, with solemn high mass at 10 o'clock. The Very Rev. F. F. O'Shea will be celebrant, the Rev. J. P. Hegarty, deacon, and the Rev. Dr. R. L. Hayes, sub-deacon. The sermon will be by the Rev. L. A. O'Connell.

Woman Awaits Jury Action in Slaying

Mrs. Irene McShane, 32, is awaiting action of the grand jury on a charge that she murdered her husband, John L. McShane, 34, in their home, 502 East Ohio street, North Side, September 9. A coroner's jury yesterday found McShane had met death at the hands of his wife.

Pastor Quits After 50 Years Service

GROVE CITY, Pa., Sept. 28.—For 50 years a Methodist Episcopal minister, the Rev. C. H. Frampton has retired. The Rev. Frampton preached his fiftieth anniversary sermon at the Erie Conference meeting held at Sharon. He has been the statistician of the conference for years.

Man About Town

The Princess Xenia (Bill Leeds' ex) is secretly riveted to one of the McLain lads (of the Cunard Line tribe) . . . George D. Ritchie, of The Eve'g Sun, and Mary Mallory (her pap is v. pres of that hat firm) will blend on Oct. 22 . . . Judge Crater's frau still pays the premiums on his life insurance . . . The social sector is buzzing about the Barclay Warburton, Jr., sitcheeayshun . . . It's a girl over at the Fred Colins, and a lad at the John F. Sullivans (Lorraine "3's a Crowd" Powers) . . . Phil Plant is loaded with tear-gas bombs because of threats . . . The Count and Countess Jonel Jorgelescos (Mercedes Baker of the Boston Back Bay bunch) will be da-da'd about Nov. 1 . . . Olivia Wrightsman, whose grandpap founded the A. & P., and whose pater heads it now, makes her stage debut in "The Best Years" any day . . . She has a mint full in her own name . . . As hinted here a fortnight ago, Mrs. Vincent Astor (Helen Huntington) has started melting proceedings against the renowned sportsman and millionaire.

F. D. Roosevelt will elevate Mayor McKee to the role of Director of the Budget—after Mar. 4—if . . . The Governor figures that if Mac can save the town that much coin—he can save the nation more! . . . Police Comm. Mulrooney may remain in office so long as he wishes—so far as the new Mayor is concerned . . . Mulrooney isn't worried, anyway—considering the $6,000 pension he has been rating right along . . . Roxy's boy and a Roseland hostess are That Way . . . Mrs. N. E. Livermore, ex-wife of Jesse Livermore, who divorced him in October, 1928, because of the wife he just lost to Walter D. Longcope, is swapping long-distance calls with him, again! . . . She is credited with his successful Wall St. start . . . Lyn Lary, the N. Y. Yanks' infielder, will get $100 for every World Series hit from his father-in-law . . . Mary Nolan is suing Eddie Mannix for $250,000.

Add new combos—Raquel Torres and Art Jarrett . . . Although still pals, Walter Anderson and Dorothy Van Deventer were divorced and the story hushed dozens of weeks ago! . . . His newest is Laura Lewis, of Kentucky . . . The B. Mardens, of the Riviera across the bridge, are rehearsing lullabies . . . The society reporters tittered in print when the "Tim" Lansing-Howard Hughes wedding bells were tuned by the Broadway scoopee-makers . . . Now the Choley Knickerbocker imitators are confirming it!

The Rockwell Kents have renounced America for Greenland, where he thinks he can fight the depression better . . . He has been there a year, and Mrs. Kent just joined him . . . Frances Shelly, who lived to tell the tale of that horrible crash, will marry Paul Small in Montreal . . . There is no woman in Fred Astaire's routine . . . Edward Allen, a hoofer, and Florence Rice, a Dillingham show-gal, will be sealed this month.

An orchid to Irene Taylor and "Ramona," newest additions to the Whiteman-Biltmore Roof classic . . . A scallion to Mme. A scallion to Irving Edwardes, an actor, who is suing Flo Walker (recently wedded to a Wall Streeter) for $600, which he spent on her the four years they courted! . . . And an orchid to F. Hazlitt Brennan's mag. piece; "How To Treat Reporters." (The best way is to treat 'em!)

Henry P. Davison's boy, F. Trubee Davison, will be "Wild Bill" Donovan's Lieut. Gov. on the Repub's newest slate . . . "Forward March" is anxious to land Willie Howard, now in "Ballyhoo," and if the latter fades in time, the Brown-Henderson revue will have a star . . . You get paid off in brand-new gold pieces over at that Park Avenue roulette-and-dice spot . . . "Frankie" James, once a Jolson-shoe darling, and a New Yorker, is on the Chicago movie censor board . . . The Ashton Stevens, of the Chicago Herald-Examiner, are here. He looks like a dramatic critic and she's sweet . . . Did you forget to remind your pawnbroker to set your watch back an hour?

Betty Proos, Sylvia's sister, inspires the lovely lyrics to whose recent hit tunes? . . . Rudy Vallee owes Irving Berlin an apology for his stupid blunder on the "Say It Isn't So" platter . . . Dorothy Dell denies that she is secretly sealed to M. Durso. Of course!!! . . . The story as told by her to intimates says it happened June 10 at Greenwich under her real tag, Goff . . . They parted after the ceremony, it appears . . . Morris Markey, a grand essayist, says in a Sept. mag: "Once a year I go to Coney Island" . . . A paragraph later: "I have been to Brooklyn only twice in 13 years!" . . . Haw! . . . Add mean cracks: There's more ham in "Triplets" than in Swift & Co.

Nellie Revell says the trouble with politics today is that people don't vote as much for a candidate as they do against one! . . . Buster West's dad has been secretly welded for 3 months. His wife, Virginia, divorced him 3 years ago! . . . Dave Apollon went to London for 2 weeks and they held him for 15—a terrific smash hit . . . DeMille is looking for a girl with "the most beautiful legs in the world" for a scene in his forthcoming "religious" movie . . . M. Hanline has merged with Patricia O'Brien and H'wood. His father is a millionaire . . . Kathleen Edwards, niece of the Wilmington duPonts, and a kin of Marconi, is in the "Music in the Air" chorus . . . Loraine Fielding, grandotter of Dr. Hornaday, ex-director of the Zoological Gardens, and John Langham, scion of the Texas Oil millions, are patty-caking . . . The gal on the current "O. K. America" billboards (painted by T. Webb) is a composite of Walter Thornton's most popular models . . . The facial features are those of Bobby Miller, the figure is that of Sunny Simpson, and the general coloring is of Phyllis Sciler.

Studio Gives Armstrong Liberty

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28.

There will be a friendly parting of the ways between Robert Armstrong and RKO. The studio has agreed to let him off the rest of his contract and he is signing with Charles Rogers to play the lead in "The Truth Racket."

Vic McLaglen was to have played this role, but he and Rogers couldn't come to terms.

The departure of Armstrong from RKO ends a long association with this company. He was originally signed by Pathe five years ago and was one of the stars who came over when this studio was purchased by RKO.

Mr. Armstrong

Bob's contract wasn't up until October 19, but now he'll join the Rogers Company as soon as he finishes his current picture, "The Truth Racket" formerly was known as "The Billion Dollar Scandal." It's an original story by Gene Towne and Graham Baker.

BOULEVARD TOPICS:

Film stars were grumbling about being charged $15 a couple for the opening night of the Club New Yorker . . . Out at RKO they're chuckling over the experience of Scenarist Art Rothaphel. Working late at the studio, he stopped for a moment's rest. The next thing he knew was when he woke up at 5 a. m. . . . Colleen Moore will have the dressing-room next to Norma Shearer at M. G. M. . . . Many of filmdom's elite saw Tennis Champion Ellsworth Vines upset by his Japanese rival. Glimpsed in the crowd were Mary Duncan with Jack Colt, Gwili Andre with Willis Goldbeck, Ronald Colman entertaining a party, Eleanor Boardman, Pauline Garon and King Vidor in a box . . . You should see the Scotch Highland evening costume worn by Gloria Shea . . . It looks as if George M. Cohan's own picture, "The Phantom President," will refute his charges that Hollywood producers don't know anything about making films . . . Eddie Cantor helped Al Jolson work up material for that recent broadcast. In return, Al will give a check to Eddie's New York camp for boys . . . A revue headed by Karyl Norman, well-known in vaudeville as "The Creole Fashion Plate," drew a large crowd to the opening of the La Boheme cafe.

Gloria Shea

On Time

Y. M. & W. H. A. Players Plan Busy Season

The "Y" Co-Operative Playhouse of the Y. M. & W. H. A. is to produce plays ordinarily beyond the scope of the average amateur group. All efforts of the Playhouse will originate within the membership, which is open to anyone interested from either acting or audience standpoint.

The Co-Operative Playhouse will present four major productions and six bills of one-act plays this season. Major productions will be selected from among "Inspector General," "Spread Eagle," "Rope's End," "Bright Island," "Gods of the Lightning," Molnar's "The Lawyer," O'Neil's "The Hairy Ape," "House of Connelly," Susan Galspel's "Alison's House" and Chekov's "Three Sisters." This list assures plays of audience and artistic appeal.

All classes of membership in the Y. M. & W. H. A. entitle the holder to active participation as actor or in production work.

Photographing Ends On 'Bitter Tea'

Photography has been completed on Columbia's new Chinese film, "The Bitter Tea of General Yen," and of cutting and editing of the production directed by Frank Capra is now under way. Six weeks were devoted to the shooting of "The Bitter Tea of General Yen," following five months preparation on the story, sets and costumes. The cast, headed by Barbara Stanwyck and Niles Asther includes Walter Connolly, Toshia Mori, new Japanese screen find; Gavin Gordon, Richard Loo, Lucien Littlefield, Emmett Corrigan, Helen Jerome Eddy and thousands of Chinese extras.

A Mystic

In Syria's Varieties, vaudeville show billed for Syria Mosque all next week, is Mahnac, mystic vision girl, whose image on a screen will answer questions of folks in the audience.

-:- Plays and Players -:-

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The Edwin Vail Players, whose bow to Pittsburgh will be made next week in "The Bride the Sun Shines On," will play four matinees a week, something not done by any resident company here in recent years. Excepting Friday, when there will be neither rehearsal nor matinee, the players will be either acting or getting ready for the next play. Howja like to be an actor? Afternoon performances will be given Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

* * *

When its nine by the clock tomorrow morning the Nixon box office will be open for the public sale of seats for "The Good Earth," dramatization of the Pearl S. Buck best-selling novel over a period of many months. It is the first production of the Theater Guild for the season, the second to be "The Pure In Heart," which will have its premiere in Baltimore next week and come here the following week, with June Walker featured. Thurston Hall, Pittsburgh favorite, is in the company. The leads in "The Good Earth," which will go from Pittsburgh to New York, will be played by Alla Nazimova and Earle Larrimore.

* * *

Pauline Lord and Walter Connolly have been engaged to head the cast of "The Late Chrisopher Bean," Sidney Howard play that will make its appearance somewhere in about a month . . . Jack Healy and Jack Whiting are mentioned for places when the king's horses and the king's men try to reassemble the late "Humpty Dumpty" without any of the original cast except Ethel Merman, Sid Silvers and June Knight . . . Among world series scanners in New York will be Joe E. Brown, who used to be a professional himself in what is sometimes called the national pastime . . . Ina Claire is leaving the screen cold to renew stage contact in something called "Nine Pine Street" . . . Lee Tracy will be a vacationer in Europe for six months following a nice run of successes in the fillims . . . Walter Winchell has been signed for a series of 13 short movies . . . Phil Baker is working in a two-reel musical comedy film, "A Bad Boy" . . . Jack Buchanan, musical comedy artist, who will appear in a new one in November, has completed two pictures, "Magic Night" and "Yes, Mr. Brown" . . . The reason Katherine Cornell has decided not to release "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" for stock is said to be her desire to keep it as an ace in the hole just in case "Alien Corn," her play for this season, is stricken by blight . . . Gossip sayeth that Maude Adams and Philip Barry recently met and talked about a play for Miss Adams

Women Stars Team in 'False Faces'

Joyce Compton, Miriam Seegar, Geneva Mitchell and Helen Millard, all four lovely ladies of the screen, appear in conjunction with Peggy Shannon and Lila Lee in World Wide's "False Faces." Misses Shannon and Lee play the feminine leads, opposite Lowell Sherman in this production which is based on an original by Kubec Glasmon. Sherman is credited with the direction as well as starring role in "False Faces."

'Vanity Street' Lead Role Assigned

Mayo Methot, who has the feminine lead in "The Night Club Lady," recently current on Broadway, has been assigned a leading role in "Vanity Street," in which Charles Bickford and Helen Chandler have the principal parts. Nick Grinde is directing. George Meeker and Arthur Hoyt have already been signed for the cast. The story depicts the romance of a New York radio patrol officer with a Follies girl.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

BY MARK HELLINGER

Soft Touch

MR. M. MAZE was in a sour mood on this particular morning. Very sour. The toast had been burned. The maid had spilled the coffee on the Chinese rug. His wife had accused him of being drunk the night before, and the baby had torn up the morning paper. The world, Mr. M. Maze decided, was rapidly going to the bow-wows.

He decided to walk the six blocks to the subway. He felt sure that the cool fall air would poison him; but that, he felt, was better than being robbed by a bandit in a taxi.

"Harrumph!" he muttered. "Look at those fools rushing. Where are they going? To some smelly office. They'll work until they're old. Then they'll be fired for incompetency. Their relatives will ship them off to some silly asylum to die. They'll all be buried in Potter's Field. It's a tough world!"

Just at that moment, as T. V. asserts, a group of panhandlers stood looking into a restaurant window. Mr. Maze saw them and his face purpled with righteous indignation.

"Beggars," he thought. "Panhandlers. Cheap bums. They beg for nickels and dimes for coffee. Then they take the money and get drunk. Or else they use it to buy more apartment houses. I'm sick of their breed. Thoroughly sick of them. If one of them approaches me from this moment on, I'll refuse him point blank. And if he insists, I'll call a policeman. Yessir. That's just what I'll do. I'll fix 'em."

Mr. M. Maze was yet four blocks from the subway station, and apoplexy was only a matter of time. Cruel hard lines creased his forehead and 50 cents in change hung under each eye. He looked almost as bad as a columnist in the prime of health.

At that most inopportune moment, a beggar ambled up beside Mr. M. Maze. The beggar wore the customary pathetic expression. His clothes hung in loose shreds about his wasted body. His eyes were sunken hollows. In other words, he personified our hero's mood.

The beggar looked at Mr. Maze with pleading eyes.

"Please mister," he said, "would you mind—"

"Stop!" he roared. "I do mind. I absolutely, positively, irrevocably do mind! I wouldn't give you a penny if you died on this sidewalk. Why, the very idea! The unmitigated gall! The—the—"

The beggar smiled.

"Just a second, mister. Just a second. You got me all wrong. I'm not a beggar. I didn't ask you for money, did I? See? You're getting yourself all steamed up about nothing. I was just going to ask if you'd mind if I walked a couple of blocks with you. I'm so lonely I'm going crazy. I just want company. Someone to talk to. Get me?"

Mr. M. Maze reeled dizzily. Here—wonder of the ages—was a beggar who didn't beg! A mendicant who was looking for company! Just wanted to walk and talk. Boy, oh boy, oh boy! This was something brand new!

"Well," said Mr. M. Maze, "I don't mind if you walk along with me. I'm sorry I was so hasty. You see, I'm sick of beggars touching me for nickels and dimes. It's positively disgusting. There should be a place for such people."

"Yep," said the beggar. "You're right. The begging business has gone to the devil. The old time mendicant used to have a bit of savoir faire and a bit of psychology in choosing his victims."

Mr. M. Maze almost fell over. This man talked as though he wasn't accustomed to this type of existence. Furthermore, Mr. Maze actually found himself getting interested in this specimen.

"I know what you're thinking," said the beggar. "You think I don't sound like the average beggar. You're right, mister. Absolutely. It was only eight short years ago that I was a wealthy man. I owned a big business. I had a charming wife, three cars, and a big yacht. Say, it seems only yesterday."

"And how did you come to lose all this?" pumped Mr. Maze.

"Well, bananas were the underlying cause. Go ahead. Laugh. But it's the truth. Bananas caused my downfall.

Y'see, the missus and I were on a cruise in our yacht. We spent a large part of the winter in the Pacific, around the South Sea Archipelago. One night a storm came up. Before we realized what happened, the pair of us were in a leaky lifeboat and the yacht was gone.

"Now I had prepared for just such an emergency. I told the chief steward only two days before the accident to stock up the lifeboats with food. When we looked in the tin containers, we found a dozen hands of bananas.

"Well, we ate bananas for the next week. We were so doggone sick of them that when we finally saw an island on the horizon, we almost jumped overboard with joy.

"Fate seemed to have a grudge against us. The island was deserted. It was full of palm trees, but not one cocoanut palm. The only wild fruit there was bananas. The place was filled with 'em.

"For five interminable years we managed to exist on that God-forsaken spot. We lived on bananas from one day to the next. We got so that the very sight of a banana would set us both to screaming.

"Then one day we saw a boat. I took a big bundle of banana leaves, and started a fire on the beach. The boat crew saw the signal, and came our way. It wasn't until after we had been on the craft a full day that I discovered she was a banana freighter. I'm telling you I was sick all over again.

"It took me a full week to recover. Somehow, the missus was on her feet in two days. When I got out of bed, she broke the news to me. She had met a wealthy merchant abroad, and she was in love with him. She wanted a divorce. I agreed. Then she told me he was a banana importer.

"When I reached New York again, I'll admit I was just a little bit daffy on the subject of bananas. I took all my remaining funds out of the business I was in. I invested the whole kaboodle in the banana market. Two days later the market slumped and I was wiped out."

Mr. Maze listened avidly. He reached the subway kiosk and waited until the man had finished his story. His face was no longer hardened. There was honest pity in his eyes.

"I'm touched by your story," he said. "Honestly touched. I regret that I treated you as a beggar before, and I apologize. There is but one thing I want to know. Why have you told me all this?"

The other man smiled.

"I was getting to that," he replied. "I know you won't mind letting me have 10 cents now so I can buy some bananas!"

Hocus Pocus In Mosque

Pittsburghers' first opportunity to view what is called Telepa-Vision, will occur at Syria Mosque during the performances of Syria's Varieties, vaudeville show that is to be given every evening and Wednesday and Saturday afternoons in the week beginning next Monday.

Telepa-Vision will introduce a young girl called Mahnac, whose entertainment combines the qualities of the so-called psychic mind-readers with television, talking pictures in natural colors and the much desired third dimension, or perspective, in pictures. Mahnac appears on the screen in full perspective, in the exact colors as in life and, by some hocus-pocus, answers questions anyone in the audience may ask. One asks a question about the past, present or future happenings and the picture of Mahnac instantly gives the answer.

The show will be given to aid Syria's benefit fund.

Fred Stone, Daughter Starred in Short

Fred Stone, stage comedian, and his daughter Dorothy, who are now appearing on Broadway in their own musical show, are starred in the second of the two-reel "Lambs Gambols," which Columbia Pictures is producing in collaboration with the Lambs. The new short feature is entitled "Shave It with Music" and is now in production. The cast includes such prominent stage players as Charles Winninger, Robert Middleman, Harry Short, Charles Lambs. The short feature is a takeoff of the modern retail store vogue of furnishing free entertainment for their customers.

Short Topics Of Screen

"Men Are Such Fools" is the new title of Radio Pictures' "Second Fiddle," produced by J. I. Schnitzer, featuring Leo Carrillo and Vivienne Osborne.

Radio Pictures announces acquisition of the Kenneth Perkins magazine story, "Better Than a Rodeo," which, under the title "Wild Stallion," will be the next Tom Keene action romance.

Arthur Vinton Gets Another Part

Arthur Vinton, Broadway actor who has just completed his work in Columbia's "Washington Merry-Go-Round," in which he made his screen debut, has been assigned another important role by the company. Vinton will have one of the leading parts in "Plain-clothes Man." Jack Holt's next starring vehicle, in which he assumes the role of a New York policeman assigned to special duties, and who handles the toughest gunmen with his fists alone. Irving Cummings will direct.

AMOCO APPROVED LUBRICATION

The Steering Gear gets "FIRST AID" to control

IT is vital that your steering gear respond instantly and accurately to your slightest touch. That demands proper lubrication. Just "greasing" won't do. For too little grease spells "freezing" your steering gear—too much gives you a choice of a blown-out gasket or a lapful of grease.

With Amoco Approved Lubrication Service, you get just the right amount of the correct fluid lubricant, applied with proper pressure from a special gun. (See Illustration)

Keep your car healthy. Put it up to us to see that your car gets specialized—not haphazard lubrication. You pay no more for Amoco Approved Lubrication than for the old fashioned "grease job".

But that's only one of the smiling "extras" of free service you get at all our stations. And when you buy, you get the extras in better performance from every product. For instance, the famous Amoco-Gas—Orange American Gas—Amoco Motor Oil and Lubricants.

There's a Station Near You!

Butler Wins Spurs as Roosevelt Speaker

By MARK SHIELDS

The speeches which Gen. Smedley Butler made here Monday on behalf of the presidential candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt were in the nature of a try-out, to determine if the show he could put on rated an extensive tour and had qualities to "click" on behalf of the Democratic standard-bearer.

Mr. Shields

Democratic leaders in Pittsburgh were satisfied, and so reported to national headquarters in New York. Butler will be in the headquarters tomorrow to discuss the future with National Chairman James A. Farley, accompanied by Joseph F. Guffey, of Pittsburgh, who trailed him Monday. Guffey will render a verdict that Butler, with his defense of the bonus army and his demand for payment of the veterans' bonus, together with his analysis of President Hoover as a "slide rule," drew generous response in this normally Republican community.

The upshot may be that Butler will be routed to some western and northeastern states, where the bonus question is a real issue. He is certain to speak again in Pennsylvania, and is anxious for the opportunity to enter Philadelphia, where he once was safety director.

* * *

'Talking for Better Man,' He Explains

Butler makes a better speech for Roosevelt than he made for himself when a candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate. He explains that by saying "I am talking for a better man."

Despite the association of Butler and Gov. Pinchot in the senatorial campaign, Butler's present attitude is in nowise influenced by the Governor, who harbors silently the same pro-Roosevelt sentiments Butler voices with an energy above the fetish of blind partyism. The retired Marine is going it on his own, and it is doubtful if he and Mr. Pinchot have enjoyed any political discussions since the debacle of last spring.

There are multiplying evidences sufficient to base the opinion that no longer does a warm political friendship exist between the general and the Governor. The Marine is not certain he was well treated when a candidate—that is, well treated by those who were supposed to be bleeding and dying unselfishly by his side.

Too Much Pinchot; Not Enough Butler

During the spring campaign some of those close to the general, with a better conception of political maneuvers than he had, or has, complained that their man was being shoved around more than the star of the cast should have been. They could see too much Pinchot and not enough Butler in the handling of some of the campaign jaunts.

Since then there has crystallized the vague feeling that the general was merely the Grecian horse into which the Governor was stuffing a raft of candidates for the Republican state committee. He hoped that the interest stirred up by Butler would enthuse the populace to vote for Pinchot committee candidates, and wrest from the old organization control of the party machinery.

It is unforgettable that the Pinchot management everywhere seemed intensely interested in how the campaigns of these so-called minor candidates were progressing. As a matter of fact, they didn't progress to any notable extent. Butler was defeated for the senatorial nomination, and but a handful of Pinchot committeemen were elected. The party reins stayed in the same old hands.

Eyes Opened; Comfort For Senator Reed

From things learned here and there the general's eyes have been opened to what he believes was the purpose of the campaign, whether it was or not.

Just as a prediction, if Gov. Pinchot is a candidate for the U. S. Senate in 1934, Gen. Butler will be also, both appealing to the same sources of votes.

That should be comforting information to Senator David A. Reed, now in Europe, and staying as far as possible from the turmoil of the present campaign. The longer the Senator can stay there the happier it will be for him. Though his Hoover leanings are undoubted, it will be helpful to him in 1934 if the people and his opponents are unable to point to the fact that he indulged in any active campaigning during 1932 for the President.

That danger would not deter the Senator if the Hoover administration asked him to come home and get in the fray. He is courageous enough to defend his class upon any and all occasions, without counting the political expediency. But his future is pleasanter if he is not asked to enter the campaign, and so far he has not been.

2 Hurt as Hucksters' Truck Overturns

John Halloway, 20, of 729 Chartiers avenue, and Stanley Katulski, 35, of 71 Steuben street, were injured last night when a huckster's truck overturned at Banksville road and Woodville avenue. They were taken to South Side Hospital.

Halloway and Walter Budzinski, 33, of 69 Steuben street, were arrested after police learned Halloway had permitted Budzinski to drive the truck without a license, police said.

KLINE WILL NOT GO TO PHILA. FOR APPEAL

State to File Briefs Soon in Fight on Rule Freeing Mayor

Mayor Charles H. Kline will not go to Philadelphia October 17 when the commonwealth's appeal from the decision of Judge Thomas D. Finletter in setting aside the jury's verdict convicting the Mayor, will be argued in Superior Court.

Attorney Edward G. Coll, of counsel for the Mayor, so indicated today, remarking:

"It will not be necessary for the Mayor to be there and as far as I know, he will not. There is no reason he should."

BRIEFS TO BE FILED

Briefs will be filed perhaps the end of this week or early next week by District Attorney Andrew T. Park, his first assistant, George F. P. Langfitt, Earl F. Reed, special prosecutor for the Citizens' Committee, and W. D. Stewart, who is associated with Reed.

There is a probability the case will eventually reach the Supreme Court.

It is expected there will be a decision in the case by January. Should it be against the defense, an appeal for a review of the case by the higher court is said to be certain. The commonwealth maintains, however, that the action of Judge Finletter in setting aside the jury's verdict, does not act as an acquittal for the Mayor.

APPEAL FOR SUCCOP

Col. E. L. Kearns, counsel for Bertram L. Succop, the Mayor's deposed Director of Supplies, who was sentenced to serve a year in jail, he having been convicted on 29 counts, 28 of which were sustained by Judge Finletter, will file his briefs in appealing from the court's decision, Tuesday or Wednesday of next week.

Copies of the briefs in the appeal of the commonwealth will be given to the Mayor's counsel, Coll and Charles B. Prichard. Col. Kearns will send copies of his briefs to District Attorney Park.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 28

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

The government is suing an old "Injun" from Oklahoma. They claim he was "out of his head" because he gave his wife money. And they want her to give it back, not to the Indian, but to the government. There is a case that's of great interest to all married men. If the government wins this, the next case you hear of will be "the U. S. Government vs. Mrs. Will Rogers in behalf of another Indian ward of the government. Will Rogers, who has been out of his head at various times since November 1908." (I think that's the year). If the government gets anything back from her, I am willing to split with 'em, on the usual government basis, U. S. taking 80 per cent, citizen 20 per cent. Yours, WILL.

TONY PIET

Gives Up Radio Career To Marry Pirate Star

North Side Singer, Tony Piet to Wed On October 12

Pretty Janina Samoraj, 20-year-old North Side radio singer, who will be Mrs. "Tony" Piet on October 12, would rather bake ginger cookies for the man she loves, than have a radio career.

With the baseball season over, and the Pirate second baseman expected back in Pittsburgh any day now, the bride-to-be is busy with preparations for the wedding to be held at 10 a. m., October 12, in St. Cyprins Church, North Side. Janina will not chide "Tony" over Pittsburgh's loss of the pennant, she said. She continued:

"I do not want to criticize him, for I know all the boys did their best. I always go and watch him play when he is in Pittsburgh and listen to the out-of-town games on the radio. I never scold him when the team loses. I want to be an inspiration to him, rather than a critic."

Janina met "Tony" a year ago when a friend of her father's brought him to her home. At the time she was visiting her parents from the Chicago Musical Institute. She is an accomplished vocalist, having studied at the Pittsburgh Musical Institute, as well as in Chicago. She has sung over WCAE, KDKA and WCFL in Chicago, but says she will give up her radio career without regret.

Following the wedding, a reception will be held for relatives and friends at 822 North Canal street. The couple will travel until the spring baseball training season begins, Miss Samoraj said. No itinerary for the honeymoon trip has been decided. They have not yet decided where they will establish their home, she said.

Baby Boy Named Brother of His Mother

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(INS.)—The law today achieved the impossible, it made a baby boy his mother's brother.

The son of Muriel Morton, who sought a name for her baby in two unsuccessful court actions to force Richard Hemmingway, Brown University football star, to marry her, was adopted by William J. Morton, of South Orange, N. J., grandfather of the child.

Government Eases Crop Loan Terms

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—It was announced at the White House today that farmers owing crop production loans to the government would be asked to pay only 25 per cent of the amount due, with an agreement to secure the remaining 75 per cent on whatever terms Congress may authorize.

HALF OF FUND SOUGHT FOR OCTOBER

Money May Be Used to Purchase Shoes for 17,000 Pupils

Half of Allegheny County's full share of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's $2,500,000 loan to three Pennsylvania Counties — $390,000— was asked from Gov. Pinchot for October in a telegram from the county committee of the State Emergency Relief Board today.

The requisition was made following the meeting of the committee in offices of its chairman, State Senator Frank J. Harris. Harris said the committee assumes that this county's share of the loan is $780,000.

The money is not expected to provide subsistence rations for the county.

SHOES FOR STUDENTS

The committee planned to inquire into the possibility that, with this money, it will be possible to purchase much-needed shoes for about 17,000 school children in the county outside the city, where no funds have been available for the purpose. City shoes are about to be purchased, after a month's delay by the city.

The R. F. C. money is expected to be available at once. A meeting of the state board in Harrisburg tomorrow will decide on distribution.

If the request of the Allegheny County committee is granted, the County will have one-half of the appropriation, or $195,000, for its own use in October.

Added to this will be about $60,000 state aid—the county's share of the October $254,000-odd, for city and county, less $37,000 borrowed from the city's September Talbot allotment and $30,000 advanced by the Harris committee for the last three days in September.

$10,000 PER DAY

The total of $250,000 will not, it is understood, be sufficient to provide for full relief in the county during October. Approximately $10,000 per day is necessary at the present rate of $3 weekly per family of five. An increase of $1 per week per family for the 18,000-odd families in the county would drain county funds before the end of the month.

It was hoped by relief leaders today that the county would make available further funds to enable a restoration of the old relief basis, lowered below the starvation line in August. It was thought possible that repayment of the city's $37,000 might be delayed.

Pennsylvania Officials Confer With R. F. C. Chief

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Armed with a brief case bulging with facts and figures, two Pennsylvania relief officials conferred today with Fred C. Croxton, in charge of direct relief loans for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, on Gov. Pinchot's application for $10,000,000 for relief of his state's destitute and needy.

W. B. Rodgers, chairman of the State Relief Committee, said he was confident Pennsylvania soon would receive more than the $2,500,000 the corporation already has allotted for three counties.

The statistics he and F. R. Stillwell, of Harrisburg, took into today's conference, Rodgers said, would answer the corporation's demands, scored recently by Gov. Pinchot as "red tape." He added that the figures were his and would convince the corporation board Pennsylvania needed more relief money than had been advanced already.

Guinan Troupe Hails Stork in Theater

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—"Give the little girl a great big hand," said Texas Guinan once again. The crowd did, but the little girl only wailed. She was the tiny daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Duttler, of Willmar, Minn.

The night club hostess and her vaudeville troupe were playing in a local theater when word came to the stage from a dressing room that a child had been born to Mrs. Duttler, who had come to see the show.

Four hundred chickens, two sheep and a horse were burned to death, and a large stock of hay and grain were destroyed when fire leveled the barn on the farm of Justice of the Peace J. Francis Heck, Sr., on the Freeport road, near Birdville, yesterday. Damage was estimated at $4,000.

Writing Speeches For Curtis Would Be Wasting Time

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Got to hand Charlie Curtis credit for his speeches. Never took a lesson in his life. Plays entirely by ear.

Just this week he thanked the Democrats for their fine work in the relief program.

If our memory ain't too annoying, the relief idea was Mr. Hoover's. But Charlie stood up in West Virginia and thanked the opposition.

He had to go outside the party and bless the Democrats. Charlie couldn't find a Republican who had helped in any manner, shape or form.

This is Charlie's first speech since the Kansas oration when he smothered the administration modification promise with a blanket of dust from the old vacuum cleaner. Charley went so dry he developed a body squeak.

Anyway, we'll concede that he is brutally frank and too honest about it all. If anybody in Washington is writing speeches for Charley we want to warn them that Charles has left his reading glasses home in his other coat.

FEDERAL PROBE SHOWS PROFITS ON DEAL

By M. L. RAMSAY
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Values of Associated Gas and Electric System utilities in Pennsylvania and neighboring states have been "written up" nearly $26,000,000, without any addition to their plants, the Federal Trade Commission reveals.

The aggregate value of a group of 31 properties was boosted on the books, in the last few years, from $64,603,000 to $79,677,000. Associated interests had appraisals made which purported to support the higher values assigned.

The "write-ups" created surpluses on the books of the operating utility companies. By increasing the apparent value of the common stocks of these operating companies, they also boosted the assets of companies higher up in the Associated pyramid, as these assets appeared on their books.

"Values" of another group of properties were jacked up more than 100 per cent, from $10,176,000 to $20,919,000, when the New York banking house of H. D. Walbridge & Co. transferred them to a subsidiary company, before the Walbridge properties were bought by Associated in 1925.

The difference of $10,743,000 was taken by the Walbridge interests as a profit on the sale of the properties to their own subsidiary.

Properties affected by both "write-ups" are grouped under an Associated system sub-holding company, Pennsylvania Electric Corporation, which now controls 19 companies. These include the Pennsylvania Electric Company, the Clarion River Power Company and the Associated Maryland Electric Power Company.

RENO DIVORCE TRADE SLUMPS

RENO, Nev., Sept. 28.—(Universal.)—Depression has hit the divorce business.

People are staying married these days because they can't afford to part. And Reno lawyers are going about with long faces, contemplating a severe winter slump in divorces.

This year will reach a total of only half the divorces granted in Reno last year, according to present estimates. Last year nearly 5,000 disgruntled husbands and discontented wives took the royal road to Reno. This year no more than 2,500 are expected.

Hotels that were filled to capacity last year now have entire floors of empty rooms. The conclusion of the saddened lawyers is that the world has decided "it's cheaper to stay married."

BERLIN REPLIES TO HERRIOT

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—(INS.)—France is unwilling to come to an understanding with Germany on armaments, in the opinion of Chancellor Franz Von Papen today.

The Chancellor issued a denial of all charges made against Germany by Premier Herriot of France in his speech last Sunday at Gramat.

Replying to the charges, Von Papen declared Germany had asked only for equality of disarmament and bitterly flayed the French reception accorded this request. He declared France itself was a militaristic nation and added:

"M. Herriot's speech is the latest of a chain of French demonstrations which attempt to reverse the truth."

4 Months in Jail For Mail Fraud

Charles H. Keefer, 31, of Somerset, was sentenced by Federal Judge Nelson McVicar to serve four months in the Somerset County Jail for using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

He pleaded guilty to an indictment charging he sent through the mail fraudulent statements of the Somerset Furniture Company's financial status in 1929 to obtain merchandise on credit. He was a partner in the concern.

Pennsy Trains Set 'On-Time' Record

On-time records for passenger trains were broken in the Pennsylvania Railroad's Central region last month when 99.4 per cent of the trains operated reached their destinations on scheduled time, officials said today.

Of the 14,398 trains runs in this territory in August only 87 failed to make their trips on schedule, and most of these only by a few minutes.

SACK MURDER TOLL GROWS

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(INS.)—Another in the series of sack murders confronted police today with the taking from the East River of the body of Charles S. Bonanno, 37, real estate operator.

The latest victim of the "burdap bag mob" had been in the water four or five days, doctors said. His legs were bound and a burlap sack pulled over his head and arms.

Bonanno, who was a balloon observer during the war, was arrested some time ago as operator of a still and possession of liquor, police said. Detectives advanced the opinion he had incurred the wrath of bootleggers.

INSULL UTILITY HEADS DROPPED

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—The entire directorate of the Middle West Utilities Company, the $1,000,000,000 holding concern for public utilities formerly operated by Samuel Insull in 32 states, has resigned, and, the receivers announced, has been replaced by a smaller board consisting of presidents of the system's leading subsidiaries.

Announcement of the change was made last night by Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch, receivers in equity for the Middle West, which serves 6,300,000 customers in the United States and Canada.

In addition, they said, 15 of the holding company's 16 officers, who served under the Insull regime, have been dropped. Oliver E. McCormick, treasurer, was the only official retained.

Among the 15 directors replaced were Samuel Insull, now in Paris; his brother, Martin, now in Canada, and Samuel Insull, Jr., en route to Paris.

STUDENT FREED IN AUTO DEATHS

EASTON, Pa., Sept. 28.—Burton Dunn, of Pittsburgh, yesterday was acquitted of the charge of involuntary manslaughter by a jury here, but was ordered to pay the costs.

Dunn, a Princeton University student, was the driver of an automobile which collided, March 23, with one driven by Russell Saylor, of Highland Park, near here. Two fellow students of Dunn were killed and two injured. Those killed were Francis H. Trimble, of Pittsburgh, and William H. Zink, of Steubenville, O. Bruce Hill and Norton V. Coyle, also of Pittsburgh, were injured.

Saylor, who faced trial with Dunn, was also acquitted.

Girl Hurt in Auto Crash, 2 Arrested

Miss Gabler, a passenger in Viller's machine, was treated at Allegheny General Hospital. Both drivers were arrested charged with reckless driving.

New Troupe Hires Tech Students As 'Extras'

Backstage noises—actors laughing and calling and stage hands hammering and bellowing—have reawakened the Pitt Theater from a silence of many months.

School has opened for the Vail Players, a new company of Broadway performers organized by Edwin Vail. Members of the cast arrived yesterday from the East.

The company will open with "The Bride the Sun Shines On," a comedy.

While Vail was calling directions and members of the cast were working out their parts in the play, four young girls stood by the stage entrance. Their's was the thrill of a lifetime.

Students at Carnegie Tech's drama school, they had been chosen as extras. It is to be their first appearance on the professional stage.

The "extras" are Patty Littell, Ruth White, Mary Dingfelder and Dorothy Devlin.

The wood artist is Stanley Waligora, of 340 Pine street, who learned how to inlay wood in Poland, his native country. Each match is deftly fitted and the violin is said to be worth $500.

Waligora has also a cedar chest and a walnut chest of unusual design and craftsmanship to his credit. They are inlaid with imported colored wood, designed into flowers, birds and butterflies.

The designs are so perfectly blended in color that they look to be painted instead of carved, and fitted and glued together.

'ADS' DECLARED BASIS OF NEW PROSPERITY

Pittsburgh business men today face an opportunity to take advantage of an upturn in business conditions such as few have had before, according to Robert F. Reywant, president of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club.

Reywant delivered his opinion in a speech over radio station KQV last night. Urging leaders to take advantage of the situation, he said:

"We are on the threshold of a new prosperity. Did you ever stop to think that business executives must prepare for prosperity?

"A consistent program of advertising begun at this time will be an important factor in capitalizing on the prosperity which the future holds.

FORTUNES TO BE BUILT

"A new generation of business leaders will be born out of the depression of the past two years. Fortunes will be built on the foresight of men who, today grasp the fingers of opportunity.

"The Advertising Club of Pittsburgh is vitally interested in promoting the greatness of Pittsburgh and the recognition of its varied industries and businesses.

"Years and years of effort have made Pittsburgh known as an iron and steel center. Yet more years of effort are necessary to maintain that reputation. Many other products place Pittsburgh foremost on the industrial map.

PUBLICITY GREAT NEED

"The fact that in the public mind iron and steel predominate makes it all the more imperative that the manufacturers of other products which have contributed to Pittsburgh's greatness make certain that their products are given the advertising they deserve.

"The real message is this:

"Wanted—a thousand Pittsburgh executives who believe in themselves, in their product or business and in the proved ability of American businessmen to pull themselves out of the business depression. Wanted—a thousand Pittsburgh executives who recognize in advertising the means of constructively reviving confidence."

MARTIN NAMES FUND RAISERS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—A committee of six to direct the collection of funds in the greater part of Pennsylvania for the presidential and state campaigns was appointed today by Gen. Edward Martin, chairman of the Republican State Committee.

Edward T. Stotesbury, banker, was named honorary chairman and John H. Mason, also a banker, active chairman. Other members are Mrs. Marion M. Scranton, of Scranton, vice chairman; Jay Cooke II, treasurer; Effingham B. Morris, Jr., secretary, and Charles J. Hepburn, counsel. Mrs. Scranton is Republican national committeewoman from Pennsylvania; Cooke is a son of Jay Cooke, national committeeman.

Gen. Martin said the committee will cover all counties except those in the Pittsburgh district, where W. L. Mellon, former chairman of the state committee, is the chairman.

Spends Seven Years In Experimenting; Gives Formula

Since he was in school seven years ago, P. T. Stieska, druggist at the Stowe Pharmacy, 81 Island avenue ext., McKees Rocks, has been experimenting with chemical gardens. He has made more than 100, he says.

His formula for a garden is this:

Place sand on the bottom of a glass jar; add four ounces of liquid glass "egg preserver;" add about 10 small lumps of copper sulphate, and about five ounces of copperas. Watch the garden grow.

A great variety of colors and forms may be obtained, he says, by using different combinations of crystals and chemicals.

Receivers Empowered To Pay Hotel Taxes

Federal Judge Nelson McVicar has signed an order authorizing receivers of the General Forbes Hotel Company to pay the city $54,834.65 for taxes assessed for 1930 on the hotel property.

WAYSIDE MART MAKES BOW

Thousands of feet of floor space are devoted to the display of the latest modes of furniture. The modern building extends 200 feet along Penn avenue, and an equal distance on Lexington avenue.

Located far from the beaten shopping paths, the site offers ample facilities for parking. The store will be open daily until 9 p. m., and offers free delivery within a 50-mile radius of Pittsburgh.

Fred A. Faller, who, with his son, Clarence A. Faller, directs the store, said:

"I believe we are entering a period of prosperity, and with our new store and new policy we propose being in the vanguard in co-operation with the furniture-buying public that we may aid those interested through our radical departures."

TRAFFIC ESSAY CONTEST NEAR

Eighty thousand school children will take part in the sixth annual traffic essay contest of the Better Traffic Committee in public and parochial schools October 3 to 24.

Pupils from the fourth to twelfth grades, inclusive, in all city schools are eligible to compete, according to Walter Rosenbaum, chairman. There will be 217 cash prizes totaling $1,285, in addition to a special $5 prize in each school.

Subjects involve the mental traits characteristic in accidents, thoughtlessness, recklessness and carelessness. Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of public schools, and Rev. Paul E. Campbell, superintendent of parochial schools, have indorsed the contest.

MAY USE SOME VOTE MACHINES

If the Square Deal party is eliminated from the ballot, voting machines may be used in 75 districts in the county, according to Maj. William T. Rees, head of the elections department.

The County Commissioners have directed County Solicitor J. P. Fife to submit an opinion on the law requiring use of the machines where practicable.

According to Harrisburg reports the Square Deal party may be removed from the ballot, which would leave nine parties. The great number of candidates in some districts, however, will preclude possibility of general use of the voting machines.

TELL IT TO SALLY

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By SALLY MARTIN

If We Demand Consideration We Usually Get It

Do you criticize your husband in public?

Do you bust into his best stories, and correct his manners, and razz him, just to show who's boss?

If you do, look out! The worm may turn! Here's a worm who's threatening to do so, pronto.

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I wonder if you can give me a few pointers about how to make my wife stop treating me the way she does.

"Maybe it seems like a small thing, but the fact is that it isn't small, when you have to stand for years of being corrected to other people all the time, and it's got me where I'm just about ready to do something drastic.

"I'll start to tell about something that has happened to us, maybe on a trip, or around the house, or in the garden. And if she knows anything at all about it the chances are that I've no more than made a beginning before she will look at me and say, in a voice of patient resignation, 'Oh, Bill! That isn't the way it was, at all! It wasn't Joe's boy we had along that time, dear. It was the little fellow Floss had staying with her while his mother was away.' Or some other silly correction. Then, like as not she'll take the story right out of my mouth and tell it herself, as it were.

"And afterwards, she'll say to the one we've been talking to, 'You know, Bill never gets anything straight!' And then she'll laugh and say, 'It's such a trial!'

ONE OBJECTION

"And as for any time that I make a mistake, or get fussed about anything! Does she tell it on me? I'll say she does! She's always telling people jokes about the things I do, and right to my face, too. I guess that if she told them when I wasn't present, what I didn't know wouldn't hurt me; but I'm just about fed up on things as they are. I love her, but if she keeps this up, some day I'm going to blow sky high and walk right out, for keeps.

"However, before it comes to that stage, I'd like to know if there's any way to make her realize what she's doing to me, and stop her from being like that. Except for that one thing, she's a wonderful girl. But I can't stand being constantly belittled much longer. Sometimes I could just simply run out on her, when she is like that.

"What can I do?

"BILL ROWE."

What can you do?

Well, first you can stop putting all the blame on the lady, and take a little stock of yourself. I'll admit she's exasperating, but that isn't entirely due to her sharp tongue. It's largely due to your flabby spine.

A WOMAN'S REVENGE

People can't put the bee on us, Bill, unless we let 'em, and you've let your wife make you look cheap because you've made her feel cheap. How? By making her feel that she's married a mouse instead of a man!

A woman never respects a man who suffers in silence, and she gets her revenge by making him suffer more and more.

Your wife won't treat you like a worm if you'll stop acting like one. She'll respect your rights, if you'll respect them. For remember, Bill, we only get consideration in this world if we demand it. And that goes in marriage as well as in any other alliance.

So get yourself a new technique. The next time she puts on her little show, wait until the audience has gone home and then give her the works! Tell her, just as you've told me, exactly how she makes you feel. Put it to her straight that you're a human being, and have a right to be treated as such, and if she isn't willing to do it you'll leave until she is.

She'll probably put on a flock of sobs and wails, and moan that you "don't love her any more." Then that'll be your cue to tell her that you can't love a lady who won't give you a break, and that no marriage can keep going unless the people in it are at least as polite to each other as they would be to strangers.

Love Tragedies Could Be Avoided by Tact, Says Fay King

THERE ISN'T ANYONE ELSE. I JUST DON'T WANT TO MARRY ANYONE I WANT TO STUDY, AND SUCCEED.
SHE CAN'T DO THAT TO ME!
IT'S NOT SO MUCH LOSING HER AS SEEING HER WITH SOME ONE ELSE, THAT CAUSES LOVE TRAGEDIES
FAC. KING

By FAY KING

The real tragedy of love tragedies is that they are more often the result of injured pride than broken hearts.

A young man may quite amiably give up the girl he has been going about with for some time, when she wishes it.

Losing her does not break his heart.

But if he sees her immediately devote herself to some other fellow, the injury to his pride and the humiliation he feels before their friends may drive him to some desperate retaliation.

Rather let some time pass spent in quiet retirement, to prove the tactful reasons you gave for severing that friendship.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Making a Grand Coup

The Grand Coup, which requires the shortening of the declarer's trumps to the same number as those held by an opponent in order that an otherwise uncapturable honor may be led through at the twelfth trick, provides an unforgetable thrill to every player fortunate enough to hold the cards to make the play and recognize the situation when it arises. The play, of course, is exceedingly spectacular, and the making of it requires the most accurate timing of the trick-taking by the declarer.

West—Dealer.

	♠ A 10 9 8 ♡ A 10 9 ◇ A K J 8 ♣ A J
♠ K Q J 4 2 ♡ Q 5 3 2 ◇ Q 5 3 2 ♣ —	North West East South	♠ 7 6 5 ♡ J 6 4 ◇ 10 7 4 ♣ Q 7 6 5
	♠ 3 ♡ K 8 7 ◇ 9 6 ♣ K 10 9 8 4 3 2

Mr. Heber D. Kern

The bidding.

South	West	North	East
	1 ♠ (1)	3 N T (2)	Pass
5 ♣ (3)	Pass	5 N T (4)	Pass
6 ♣ (5)	Pass	Pass	Double (6)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Mr. Kern explained that the Opening bid was perfectly sound under the system of bidding used by the players. Under that system, 2 honor-tricks are sufficient for an Opening bid, provided the suit named contains at least five cards. This Opening bid may have been of some advantage to the Declarer in making the contract.

2—North naturally was anxious to cash the count for the honors in notrump, and holding 5 honor-tricks, feared that partner would not have sufficient strength to respond to any other bid. As played by the participants, there was no strictly Forcing bid available to the North player.

4—North was unwilling to give up his honors without a struggle.

5—An overbid, but of course North's bid disclosed some strength in clubs and probably showed control of at least three suits. The Slam bid was a reasonable gamble.

6—Not a good Double, as it tended to disclose the trump situation. However, this could not have been defeated, even without a Double.

West opened the spade King, which was won with Dummy's Ace, and a spade was returned and trumped in the closed hand. A small trump was then led, and the void in West's hand was disclosed. The trump was won with the Ace, and the Knave led. Of course, East did not cover. In view of West's bid, it appeared certain that he had held at least five spades originally. Hence East, who was known to hold four clubs and at least two spades, must have not less than six red cards. In order to test out the distribution another spade was led from Dummy, and when East followed suit, South knew that his analysis of the distribution was correct. This spade was ruffed in the closed hand, and South's trumps were thereby shortened to three, one more than held by East.

Mr. Kern now led a diamond and finessed the Knave. There was a chance that this finesse might fail, but it could cost nothing to try, as the success of the contract was practically assured, even though the finesse failed, and if it won and East held three diamonds and three hearts, an extra trick could be made. The Ace and King of diamonds were then cashed, a small heart being discarded on the third round of that suit. The last diamond was led from the Dummy, upon which East discarded a heart, but South trumped with the club 9, making the final preparation for the Grand Coup. The East hand was now down to two hearts and the club Queen-7. South held two hearts and the club King-Ten, while the Dummy contained three hearts to the Ace and a spade. South now cashed the heart King, and returned to the Dummy with the second round of hearts. East, of course, was forced to follow suit, and at the twelfth trick was forced to trump. South over-trumping and making not only his contract, but an overtrick as well.

Mr. Kern played the hand with meticulous accuracy, and has a right to feel proud of his achievement.

TODAY'S QUESTION

South deals and bids one spade and West passes. What is the correct response by North on the following hand:

♠ 5 4 3 2 ♡ K 8 4 ◇ A 6 2 ♣ 1 4 2

Answer: One notrump. The hand contains adequate trump support, but only 2 playing-tricks because of the balanced distribution, and, holding 1½ honor-tricks, a response of one notrump should be made.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Autographs

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In a recent column you said that if a photograph was autographed, it should be a dignified message.

I am engaged to a young lady and she has presented me with her photograph, but she did not autograph it because she did not know what she should write upon it, and whether or not she should write on the front or back of the photograph.

I expect to give her a photograph and I would like to know what I should write, and whether on the front of the photograph or on the back of it? J.

Don't you agree with me that a photograph that is not autographed is really more personal than one that is autographed? At first this seems contradictory, but when you look at it closely, the contradiction isn't so. When we give a friend our photograph, naturally the friend reads into it what he or she wishes, according to the degree of friendship. But if we write something on it, that message may do for one time and not be very appropriate for another time. I think that it is so much more personal to have the "image" of the person before us, and "imagine" the message.

Apparently something of this your fiancee thinks, too. When she wished to write a message, nothing was adequate . . . and so she, very wisely, didn't write anything. It would, I think, be just as wise for you to do the same thing.

There doesn't seem to be much point to writing a message on the back of the photograph, especially in your case, since undoubtedly both you and your fiancee will have the photographs framed.

On Returning

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would very much like to know whether it is proper for a person who has been away on a long trip to telephone her family and friends to say "Hello" upon her return, or whether the people at home should telephone her after hearing indirectly that she has returned?

I think the first procedure seems to be the right one, but some of my friends differ with me. S.

This really isn't a question of form, so much as it is of spontaneous inclination. When we hear news of the return of a friend from a long trip, it is most natural for us to telephone or write a message of welcome. And, of course, it is just as natural for the friend to call up or write her or his friends. And either is correct.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Neglect of Kidney Stones Is Likely to Prove Serious

Kidney troubles are all too common today. Many ailments involve this organ, and cases of stone in the kidney or in the bladder are numerous.

Dr. Copeland

Great progress has been made within the past few decades in our knowledge of how to deal with diseases of the kidney. For kidney stone, modern surgery has found a safe operation, although the exact cause of the formation of the stone has not yet been discovered.

Many theories have been advanced as to possible causes, but most authorities believe that stones are traceable to germs. When found in a moist cavity, as in the kidney, germs accumulate debris and various salts. From microscopic size, the mass gradually grows by taking on layers of phosphates or other deposits present in the urine.

As long as a stone remains small it causes no pain or discomfort. Tiny ones are passed in the urine without the knowledge of the individual. But unfortunately the stone may grow rapidly. The stone may be located in a part of the kidney from which it cannot be dislodged, and in such cases it causes pain and severe damage.

Sometimes the stone passes from the kidney to the ureter, a tube-like structure leading from the kidney to the bladder, and in passing causes agonizing pain. In many cases a narcotic is required for relief.

If the stone is very large it may become lodged in the ureter so that it will not move, and in that case there may be obstruction of the urine, resulting perhaps in a progressive destruction of the kidney on that side.

When this occurs, a condition called "hydronephrosis" results. This is an enlargement of the kidney due to retention of fluid. Another disorder frequently resulting from stone in the kidney is "pyonephrosis." As the name implies, this is an accumulation of pus.

Severe and persistent pain makes known the fact that there is stone in the kidney. If the nature of the trouble is recognized early and the stone removed, it is very probable that the kidney will not be permanently injured, but when ignored, as often happens when the pain is slight, damage is progressive and the kidney is ultimately destroyed.

It is believed by some authorities that a diet low in vitamin A predisposes to kidney stone, for such a diet lowers the resistance of the body to infections.

Others do not think diet has any effect upon the formation of stone, but believe that local infection is an important factor. Certainly one who is susceptible to kidney stone should have his teeth and sinuses X-rayed. Infected teeth should be removed, as well as enlarged and diseased tonsils.

The warning given by repeated attacks of pain should not be disregarded. Complete X-ray examination, physical examination and urine analysis should be made without delay. These examinations should be repeated at intervals. If operation is advised, do not postpone it.

Answers to Health Queries

M. C. Q.—What is uremia?

Do Just These Two Simple Things—Fat Melts Away

Science has made important discoveries in fat reduction. The average fat person can now rip off fat a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—on a full stomach, with never a hungry moment. Thus it is foolish now to stay fat.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad Salts in a glass of water a half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses the system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute! Cut down on fats, sweets and desserts, bread. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. The diet takes off fat with food that turns into energy instead of weight.

If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

"34 days without a Run—"

I WAS "UNLUCKY" with stockings. Always getting runs. Especially, it seemed, when I had a date. Embarrassing? I'll say so. And mighty expensive! Those runs kept me poor. Then . . .

"IT'S NOT LUCK," my girl friend told me. "Rubbing stockings with cake soap causes many of those runs. Because it destroys the elasticity of the silk, so it breaks, instead of giving. Listen—

"YOU CAN cut runs 75% by washing your stockings the Lux way. It saves elasticity." I took her advice—now I use only Lux for stockings. And one pair has worn me 34 days without a run!

The Lux way to save Elasticity

Wash this 2-minute way:

1. One teaspoon of Lux for each pair.
2. Add lukewarm water, squeeze suds through. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Try Lux FREE! Try this wonderful care for your stockings at our expense. Just send us your name and address, and by return mail you will receive a full-sized package of Lux free. Write today to Lever Brothers Co., Dept. KX-2, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

WORLD TITLES WON WITHOUT LEFTIES

THE FACT THAT Charley Grimm has no starting left-hand pitcher for the world series, whereas Joe McCarthy has one of the season's sensations in Vernon Gomez, has brought some wild statements in connection with the dope on the derby. Some time ago, it was said the Cubs couldn't finish first in the National League because no club had ever won a pennant without a starting southpaw. But the Bruins did it. And they were not the first. The Yankees won two straight flags in 1921 and 1922 without the services of a fork-hander, barring the few innings that Harper and Ruth worked in 1921.

Vernon Gomez

And now it is being asserted that no club ever won a world series without a left-hander. More bunk. Young Dineen and Hughes did all the starting against the Bucs in 1903. There was nothing very left-handed about Mathewson or McGinnity, who not only beat the A's for the Giants in 1905, but shut them out four times. The A's used only two pitchers, Coombs and Bender, both right-handers, to take four out of five from the Cubs in 1910. Leifield, the only southpaw starting for the Pirates against the Tigers in 1909, lost his game and Right-handers Adams and Maddox won the series. So it will be seen that more than one series has been won without a port-sider. In 1917, the Giants started a left-hander—Benton, Schupp or Sallee—in every one of the six games against the White Sox, but won only two contests.

THE PRESENT CLASSIC marks the golden anniversary of world title baseball competition. The first world series dates back exactly 50 years, or to 1882, when the Chicago National League and Cincinnati American Association pennant winners arranged a post-season test independently, only to be halted after the second game, when the Association ordered the Reds to withdraw.

Starting in 1884, the pennant winners of the National League and American Association met annually in a world series until 1890, inclusive. In 1894-95-96-97, the first and second clubs in the National League played a post-season series for the Temple Cup, donated by the late W. C. Temple, of Pittsburgh. In 1903 the Pirates and Red Sox started the modern world series. The Giants refused to play the Red Sox in 1904, but the annual meeting of the flag winners was made part of the major league agreement in 1905 and has continued ever since without a break.

WORLD SERIES RECEIPTS are divided in this manner: Fifteen per cent of the gross receipts at every game played goes to the advisory council, or commissioner's office. Sixty per cent of the remainder at the first four games goes into the players' pool, and 40 per cent to the owners of the contesting clubs.

After the fourth game, the commissioner's office continues to take 15 per cent and the remainder goes to the owners of the contesting clubs, fifty-fifty, they in turn being required to give half of their shares into the treasuries of their respective leagues.

THE PLAYERS' POOL, made up of 60 per cent of the receipts at the first four games after the commissioner's 15 per cent has been deducted, is divided 70 per cent to the world series clubs, and 30 per cent to the second, third and fourth clubs of each league. The series clubs' share is then divided 60 per cent to the winner and 40 to the loser. The other 30 per cent of the players' pool is distributed 50 per cent to the two clubs that finished second, 33 1-3 per cent to the clubs that finished third, and 16 2-3 per cent to the clubs that finished fourth, divided equally in each instance.

Rube Benton

YOU MUST NOT forget old Rube Benton in counting off the ex-Pirate figures on the Newark and Minneapolis clubs in the little world series, a list that includes also Al Mamaux, Donie Bush, Woody Jensen, Eddie Phillips, Charley Hargreaves, Jess Petty and Carmen Hill.

For Benton, too, was once a Pirate. But it was for only a week and it didn't count. Pittsburgh bought the left-hander from Cincinnati on August 23, 1915, and he pitched one game at Forbes Field against the Cubs and won it. The Giants protested the sale on the ground that they held a prior option on Benton's services, with the result that the National League board of directors on August 29 awarded the pitcher to New York and ordered his Pirate game thrown out.

BENTON IS ONE of the most remarkable veterans in the game. He is 42 years old, has been pitching since 1909, and saw world series service as far back as 1917, when, with Eddie Cicotte as his opponent, he twirled the Giants to a 2-to-0 victory in the third game of the classic and held the White Sox to five hits.

Rube tried again in the sixth game, but lost to Urban Faber, 4 to 2, being relieved by Poll Peritt. Two years ago, Benton's left hand was severely injured in an automobile accident and it was said he would not be able to pitch again. But he came back to continue as one of the slab leaders in the minors.

FEW OTHER BOXERS have jumped from the preliminary ranks to the main-bout class as quickly as a youngster out West named Whitney Neal. The youthful leather slinger had just finished off an opponent in two rounds in the curtain raiser. It was announced that one of the boxers booked for the next bout would not fight, and the promoters started a hurried search for a substitute. Neal volunteered to go on again, floored his more experienced foe three times and won the decision handily. Now he is in demand as a main bouter and is being given his chance at whatever big money there may be around.

THOUGH THERE WAS a difference in the spelling, the family name of the West's newest boxing favorite was carried to world championship heights by another far Westerner almost three decades ago, when Frankie Neil, of San Francisco, won the bantam crown.

Neil became champion by knocking out Harry Forbes in the second round of a bout in San Francisco in 1903. He lost it the following year to Joe Bowker in 20 rounds in London.

THOUGH THE PITT line as a whole so far has not looked like any of the great Panther forward walls seen at the Stadium in recent seasons, there was one man in the starting lineup against Ohio Northern whose unmistakable ability assures that he will be found in action frequently and will give an excellent account of himself. That man is Paul Cuba, left tackle.

Paul Cuba

For two years, Cuba was an obscure substitute on the Panther bench. In 1930 he was understudy to Jess Quatse, but the latter was the kind of player requiring very little relief. Last season, Paul found Johnny Meredith ahead of him for the relief role and he saw even less service than before.

THIS FALL, HOWEVER, Cuba stepped right out and planted himself on the varsity, and all the efforts of Meredith and Stan Oleojnizak to dislodge him have been unavailing. Paul is just about as rugged as Quatse, and almost as fast as Jim MacMurdo, one of the fastest tackles in Pitt history. This combination makes the New Castle product a highly desirable player to have around, particularly for a coach like Jock Sutherland, who now uses his tackles as running interferers almost as frequently as he does his guards. Cuba is slightly below the average weight of Pitt tackles, but he has agility and a football brain to make up for the little he lacks in heft.

CARNEGIE FEARS AERIAL ATTACK OF GENEVA

By JESS CARVER

The two-a-day practice schedule at Carnegie Tech is off, but to hear the coaches growl, you'd think the Skibos needed at least three sessions per day. Yesterday's double workout completed the twice-daily program, and just as a parting shot, the mentors gave the Plaid warriors a lulu of a scrimmage in the morning and a strenuous signal session in the afternoon.

From now on, with the boys attending their classes, most of Tech's practice will take place under the flood lights.

Carnegie's coaches are wishing they had most any other opening day opponent than this Geneva outfit on for Saturday. It always is tough to send a team that will have as many sophomores in it as will Tech, against a good forward passing outfit in an inaugural, and it is doubly bad when the opposition boasts as clever a performer as Art Grahame, the Covenanter southpaw quarterback.

GRAHAME TOUGH HOMBRE

Grahame was tough enough last year when he was merely a good passer and field general, but now he's developed into a pip of a ball lugger. He's the baby who will stand the Tartans on their respective ears here in the Stadium Sat'day afternoon. He may not pilot the Genevians to a victory, but he will toss plenty of scares into the Skibo ranks.

The Plaid gridders were unpleasantly surprised yesterday morning when a scrimmage session against Murray Armentrout's freshmen was ordered. The varsity thought the rough work was over, but Coach Bob Waddell and Advisory Coach Wally Steffen were so disgusted with the way the line was functioning that they called for the extra scrimmage workout. The frosh gave 'em a busy time too

About the only linemen who are performing up to snuff are the two veterans, the irrepressible Colin (Red) Stewart, who cavorts as an end, and Co-Captain Bill Sample. Hooks to some, Egbert to his folks and poison to the opposition. Unless Carl Forsman's physical condition is improved to a marked degree by tomorrow, it is likely that Stewart and Sample will be the only veterans in the starting line against Geneva. With Forsman on the bench, Thurman Croft and either Wilbur Plummer or Teddy Doloway will fill in at the tackles. All three are sophomores.

JONES AT CENTER

The backfield continues to give trouble. Johnny Sayles, who looked like he'd do for a left halfback, is on the hospital list and now it appears as though young Bill Spisak would have to come through. Co-Captain Georgie Porgie Kaval will be at right half, with Joe Mihm at full and Bevevino at quarter. Spisak is only a sophomore, and sophomores on the defense, unless they are especially smart ones, are as uncertain as the weather.

The weather, by the way, what with its sudden change from the dry to wet ticket, is affording the

LAYDEN WORKS DUKES HARD

Determined to have his team "up" for the Grove City game as much as it was for the tussle last week with West Virginia, Coach Elmer Layden has increased the length of the daily workouts on the Bluff. An extended skull drill, featuring some expert chalk-wielding at the blackboard by Messrs. Layden and Bach, has been added to the usual work on the field.

The Duquesne coach is endeavoring to prevent a let-down in his squad's morale following the victory over West Virginia. Yesterday he impressed upon his men the fact that the Grove City game will be a plenty tough contest, one which will call for plenty of smart playing from the kick-off until the final horn.

Capt. Larry Critchfield, leader of the Crimson, is one of the best guards in the tri-state district. With this leader Coach Amos has built a smooth machine, using his Prexy grid lore, until this week's night game takes on the aspect of something more than just a third contest for the Night Riders.

The same starting line-up which was used against West Virginia will be sent against Grove City.

The work of the Night Riders this season has increased Alumni interest in the nocturnal games until Graduate Manager John D. Holahan reports ticket calls from distant points. A delegation from Grove City College and Crimson territory plans to attend this week.

Eligible Players For World Series

Following are the world series eligible players:

PANTHERS PLAN PASS DEFENSE

Still dissatisfied with the way in which the team is performing, and undecided about his starting lineup, Jock Sutherland put in a busy time at the Pitt practice field yesterday afternoon. It was dark when he finally let the athletes go.

He had Lou Wojcihovski and Ted Dailey alternating at the left end job all afternoon and Kenny Ormiston and Doc Hartwig playing left guard. Inasmuch as his Panthers face West Virginia this week-end he is contemplating using Wojcihovski and Hartwig, for it has become an established fact that a West Virginian, playing against a school from his native state, will play about twice as hard as usual.

Sutherland apparently is pretty well set on Izzy Weinstock for the fullback job and the backfield that will go against Greasy Neale's outfit. The Wilkes-Barre sophomore will be backed by the three 1931 veterans, Hogan, Reider and Heller.

Coach Jock has spent a lot of time planning a defense for the passing attack which Neale is certain to shoot against him. The Mountaineer quartet of passers, Slate, Scott, Parriot and Allen, will give Pitt plenty of trouble on Saturday.

Pitt plans to leave town Friday afternoon, going by bus to Uniontown, and from there into Morgantown Saturday morning.

Here's Ripley Answer

WITH 2 MEN OUT IT IS POSSIBLE FOR A BATTER TO REACH 1ST SAFELY ON A FOUL FLY THAT IS CAUGHT - and SCORE ON A FLY THAT IS CAUGHT HOW?
Remember - ONLY 2 BALLS PITCHED, NO BALKS NO DELAYS, STOLEN BASES OR ERRORS!
9-28

On September 19, "Believe It Or Not" Ripley propounded this problem to the baseball fans, and within a week's time he received thousands of answers from every corner of the United States. In this huge avalanche of mail there were about 500 correct solutions.

Ripley said:

"With two men out, it is possible for a batter to reach first safely on a foul fly that is caught, and score on a fly that is caught. (Only two balls pitched, no balks, delays, stolen bases or errors. How?"

Here's the answer, as correctly given by the 500 alert fans who are well acquainted with playing rules:

After two are out and none on bases, the next batsman hits the first ball pitched, but, as he does so, his swing is interfered with by the catcher, causing him to hit a foul fly which is caught. However, under Section 1, of Rule 47, the batsman is given first base because of this interference by the catcher.

The next batsman hits the second ball pitched for a long fly to the outfield. The outfielder, realizing he cannot reach the ball fairly, makes a flying leap and catches the ball in his cap (or tosses his glove at the ball, deflecting it so as to make the catch possible). Under Section 6, of Rule 47, the batter is allowed three bases, which enables the baserunner on first to score.

Bill Lentz Lost To South Hills

South Hills High's hopes for the City League football championship suffered a severe blow yesterday when it was learned that Bill Lentz, star back and punter of the 1931 champions, had suffered a cracked ankle bone in the battle with South last week.

Lentz will be out for about five weeks. George Fowle is being groomed to fill Lentz's shoes.

WARE TO HOWARD

Joe (Showboat) Ware, former star Negro halfback of the Westinghouse High eleven, has enrolled at Howard University. He will be a candidate for the football team.

LOOKOUTS WIN DIXIE TITLE

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—The Chattanooga Lookouts became the champions of the South, defeating Beaumont, Texas League pennant winner, 7 to 3, and taking the Dixie series, four games to one.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Southern Association champs, Beaumont having won the first game played in Texas last Tuesday, 1 to 0.

The victory was the third of the series in the series for Alexander (Red) McColl, Lookout ace right-hander, who won, 5 to 0, in the second game in Texas and then pitched one inning to win the first game here, 3 to 2, last Friday.

The victory is the second in Dixie series records for Manager Bert Neihoff, of the Lookouts. Neihoff managed the Mobile Southern Association champs, who defeated Fort Worth in 1922. He becomes the first Southern pilot to turn the trick twice.

SERIES ON RADIO

The world series games beginning in New York today will be broadcast over nation-wide hookups by the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia System. Graham McNamee, Red Manning and Hal Totten will be on the air for NBC, and Ted Husing, Bob Elson and Pat Flanagan for Columbia, beginning at 1:15 o'clock, 15 minutes before game time, in New York, and at 2:15 (Pittsburgh time) in Chicago. WCAE and KDKA will be outlets in Pittsburgh for the NBC broadcast and WJAS for Columbia. KDKA also will broadcast the series over W8XK, its international short wave station.

SKIES HEAVY AND CROWD IS SLIM

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service.

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Neither officially on nor off, the first game of the world series between the New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs awaited the cerdict of the skies at noon today. A tentative, almost insipid sun peeped down from a bank of clouds. The turf was heavy from an all-night rain. But Judge Landis and the umpires were all for going ahead with the program if, and when if possible. The Judge having couchsafed the following declaration:

"The game will go on if it doesn't spoil."

Apparently the Yankees were proceeding on the same proposal, for they came out on the field an hour and a half before the scheduled start and were hailed with delight by the few thousand hardy souls who had braved the elements.

At this hour they almost filled the right field bleachers, but those in center and left bore a strangely deserted air.

DESULTORY SCENE

It was a desultory scene at this moment, in strange contrast to the gay, carnival spirit that usually accompanies this event. Men in smocks and undershirts went slowly about the task of removing the tarpaulin from the infield. Others raked and massaged the turf. Out in the uncovered stands, the early comers sat in silence, glad enough to ease the pain of their aching feet.

Some of them had stood all night in the rain. One of them, a certain Mr. Cunningham, of Kansas, had stood all week in anything that came along. So painful was this proceeding that pity welled up in the great heart of Mr. Ruth and he presented the unfortunate man an autographed baseball. However, I fear this afforded Mr. Cunningham no lasting comfort, you can't sleep on an autograph.

Meantime, a band sat in lonely gradeur over on the left field line and occasionally burst into song. It seemed almost a sacrilege in an atmosphere so depressing.

YANKS IN WORKOUT

At that, it lightened a trifle just before noon, at which time the sun peeped cowly from a bank of clouds. Almost at the same moment, the Yankees, in snow white uniforms, appeared in their dugout. The boys in the bleachers cheered wildly, but whether for the coy sun or the immaculate Yanks, none but the boys in the bleachers knew.

As the Yankees went out to toss the ball around in front of their dugout, Judge Landis appeared in the dugout long enough to declare that "The game will go on, if it doesn't spoil."

The Yanks thought well enough of this idea to go out for batting practice at 12:10 o'clock. It is their tremendous hitting power that has made them ruling favorites at 3 to 5 to overcome Cub enthusiasm and general defense, and so they were eager to get the range of the distant bleachers at the earliest possible moment. Combs, in fact, did so right away. He lined one into the right field stands on his first appearance before the batting cage. Ed Wells was pitching.

RUTH HITS INTO STANDS

Mr. Ruth also got hold of one and dropped it in front of the bleachers far out in right center. Then he popped one up, after which he lofted his third halfway up in the right field crowd.

Hitting grounders to the infield was Joe McCarthy, the manager, whose unequaled record is that he has led both of these teams to pennants in the rival leagues. But nothing yet had been seen of Charley Grimm, the overnight manager who took the Cubs in midseason and raced over everybody to the pennant.

He will match tactical minds with McCarthy, dismissed in Chicago after winning the championship and finishing second the following year, and, somehow, the arrangement has its peculiar charm. They were close friends in Chicago. They are close friends today, proving that, if politics make strange bedfellows, baseball extraordinary brings about extraordinary rivalries.

In addition to McCarthy and Grimm, former master and man, there is the fact that Mark Koenig, ex-Yankee, is holding

RUTH PREDICTS YANKEES WILL WIN IN SIX GAMES

BABE EXPECTS BRUINS TO BE OVERPOWERED

By BABE RUTH
Baseball's Highest Salaried Player.

As probably was suspected from the five previous articles on the world series teams, my prediction on the outcome of the series is that the Yankees will win. I realize that this prediction will cause some to charge me with prejudice in favor of my own team. I can only say that if I have been guilty of prejudice I have tried to look at the whole situation impartially.

Babe Ruth

I will say, too, that this opinion is shared by many baseball writers who have no reason to favor one team over the other, and who are making the same effort that I have made to judge the teams without favor or bias.

Why do I figure the Yankees will win the world series?

Mainly on their superior hitting and run scoring power, as shown through the season which ended a few days ago.

Defensively, I see no advantage for either team. Each has its speed boys and its slowing veterans. In one position one team has the more capable performer, and in another the conditions are reversed. Take the infield, the outfield and the catching as one department of defense and in each instance it shapes up as of championship standard.

This brings us to the pitching, and the question is:

Can the Chicago pitching bring down the stronger hitting and scoring power of the Yankees to such an extent that the Cub's stickwork against the New York pitching will prevail?

KNOW STRONG PITCHING

I don't think so. The Yankees in their own league have seen plenty of high class pitching this season, as served up by Lefty Grove, Wesley Ferrell, Ted Lyons, Alvin Crowder, Monte Weaver, George Earnshaw, Rube Walberg and others who have been quite successful in our league. We have done very well against these top-notchers. Over a stretch of seven games I do not figure that our hitting can be kept in such check as to make us lose four.

Look at the question from another angle. What about our pitchers? Well, four American League clubs besides the Yankees have outhit the Cubs this season, and five others have shown themselves higher scoring teams. Yet the Yankees pounded their way to 107 victories in their own league.

Here's another thing. The Yankees have had the winning habit all season. Not once did they lost four games in a row. They lost only two series at home all year, Washington and Cleveland gaining the honors with two victories in three-game series. The Yankees lost one series in the west all year, Cleveland taking three games of four. Twice at Washington they lost three-game series, which means that only five times from April 12 to September 25 were they outplayed in a series lasting three games or more. That's quite a record for consistent winning.

NO WALKOVER LIKELY

I think the Cub pitching is as good as the Yankees against any particular team that might be mentioned. But I do not figure the Cubs' pitching should be as successful against the harder hitting attack of the Yankees, as the New York pitchers figure to be against the lighter attack which the Cubs will offer.

I don't expect any walkover. The Cubs are worthy pennant winners and will undoubtedly make us battle at top speed all the way. But I figure we should win four out of six.

MAJORS DRAFT FOUR PLAYERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—The smallest list of drafted players on record came out of the annual major league draft meeting on the eve of the world series last night. Only four players, three of them pitchers, were selected by the major league clubs.

A year ago, 15 players were selected and the list showed a falling off from the few years before when more than 20 were selected each season.

All four of the players drafted were from Class AA leagues, although one of them, Homer Peel, chosen by the New York Giants, played through the season with the Houston Club in the Texas League, which carries an A rating.

The Chicago White Sox selected Pitcher Joe Heaving, who once played with the Giants, from Indianapolis in the American Association. He won 15 games and lost nine in the season which just ended.

The Detroit Tigers drafted Frank Nekola, once a star college pitcher at Holy Cross, from Newark's International League champions. Nekola, who had a couple of trials with the New York Yankees, played part of the season with Toronto and recorded six victories and 11 defeats.

The Chicago Cubs chose another nurler, Lynn Nelson, of Seattle, who won 21 games and lost 15 in the Pacific Coast League.

Old Rivals Meet Again

BUCK McTIERNAN . . . OUT TO AVENGE KNOCKOUTS

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Jimmy Belmont vs. Buck McTiernan, 10 rounds; Matty Oldach vs. Joey Speigal, 8 rounds; Carl Montebano vs. Jimmy Hogan, 6 rounds, and Bobby Rowe vs. Elmer Kozak, and Peter John vs. Paul Monar, 4 rounds each (benefit for North Braddock Fire Department Christmas Basket Fund), Meyers Bowl, North Braddock.

Amateur bouts, Chartiers Council, Knights of Columbus, Crafton Athletic Field.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Remember the furore caused last year when Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, and Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, rivals since their days in the amateur ranks, clashed twice in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, with McTiernan a top-heavy favorite each time only to run into a pair of knockout defeats?

Well, they're back at each other again for a shindy tonight in the 10-round feature event of a benefit show for the North Braddock Fire Department's Christmas Basket Fund and all of those folks who wouldn't believe it when McTiernan was stopped the first time and still wouldn't believe it after the second meeting will be on deck to see what happens. McTiernan was off to a lead in each of those tussles, but he couldn't keep going against Belmont's swishing left hooks to the head.

SITUATION REVERSED

In those battles it was McTiernan who had everything to lose and little, if anything, to gain. Tonight the boot is on the other foot. Buck, who hasn't been doing much fighting lately, is out to re-establish himself at Belmont's expense and has prepped himself for a big try. If Belmont makes it three in a row that ought to be convincing evidence of the fact that he has McTiernan's number and further pairings between them will be just so much wasted effort. It's a good top spot for a benefit card, for it should attract a good-sized crowd for these times, when fistic gates are not what they once were.

Matty (Popeye) Oldach, of Erie, and Joey Speigal, of Uniontown, as deadly rivals as McTiernan and Belmont, are in the eight-round semi-final, and there will be a six-rounder and two fours, getting under way at 8:30 o'clock.

WORTHY CAUSE

The cause is a worthy one. The firemen take care of needy cases in their borough in the way of Thanksgiving Day and Christmas baskets and clothing throughout the year.

Between Rounds

A card of eight amateur bouts is offered by the Chartiers Council, Knights of Columbus, at the Crafton Athletic Field tonight. Pat Welch and Joe Mazotta are in the main bout.

Max Baer now has beaten Jack Van Noy, Jose Santa, Johnny Risko, Les Kennedy, Arthur Dekuh, King Levinsky twice, Paul Swiderski, Walter Cobb, Ernie Schaaf and Tuffy Griffiths in his last 11 bouts, or since he was defeated by Paulino Uzcudun more than a year ago, stopping many of these foes, and, if that doesn't put him right up in the front rank of the heavyweights, then there's no use trying.

Tickets are going rapidly for the amateur show of 12 bouts for the benefit of the Jewish Home for Babies in Motor Square Garden, October 18, according to Harry Neaman, one of its most enthusiastic sponsors.

It is Charley Burns, of St. Michael's, and not Sammy Burns, of the Hill, who boxes Sammy Paris in one of the six-round preliminaries on the Joe Marcus-Battling Gizzy grand opening card at Eddie Kapphan's Arena, on the North Side, Friday night. Incidentally, the advance sale for this inaugural presages a full house, and Matchmaker Lew Raymond already is at work on his second bill.

The Arena card takes on a League of Nations aspect. Gizzy is an Italian and Marcus a Croatian. Davy Grove, Irish, meets Young Rudy, German, in the eight-round semi-final. General Burr, a Negro, and Joey Bazzone, an Italian, are in the second bout. Paris is Jewish and Burns is Scotch.

Jimmy Smith and Al Diamond clash in the windup at the Cambria Club, Philadelphia, Friday night, with Al Rowe and Billy Purcell in the semi-final and Vince Guidici and Yonder McLoughlin in a preliminary.

Larry O'Day, of Akron, is making his home here and seeking bouts with our lightweights. Tommy Madden, former manager of Tug Phillips, is his pilot.

The amateur boxing shows scheduled by the St. Vincent De Paul Society at Sullivan Field, Oakland, and by the St. Peter's A. A. in its North Side Arena last night was postponed on account of rain and will be staged tonight.

The State Athletic Commission yesterday lifted a ban on Jim Londos and again recognized him as world champion wrestler.

The Chicago Stadium and Jack Doyle, of Los Angeles, are bidding for a Max Schmeling-Max Baer fight. Carnera is being sought as an alternate on either end. Schmeling sails Saturday for a visit to his native Germany, but will return after a month if a match is closed for him.

JIMMY BELMONT

McTiernan and Belmont, keen local rivals for several years, box the 10-round main bout of a benefit show in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, tonight. Belmont won their last two bouts with knockouts. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

ALL-STARS FACE CRAWFORDS

Baseball fans will have an opportunity to watch big league stars in action against the Pittsburgh Crawfords at Greenlee Field this evening, when Casey Stengel brings his National League barnstormers into Pittsburgh for a series. The game tonight is scheduled for 8:15 o'clock.

Stengel has announced that Bill Swift and Earl Grace, the Pittsburgh Pirate battery, will oppose the crack Negro club in the opener, and fans are naturally interested to see how Oscar Charleston and his hard-hitting mates fare against Swift and his fast ball.

It is a classy aggregation of National League stars that the famous Casey has banded together for the series. The Brooklyn Dodger outfield will be intact, Hack Wilson, Danny Taylor and Fredericks being in the caravan.

Todd, of the Phillies, will be on first, George Grantham at second, Durocher covers the short field, with Fullis, of the New York Giants at third. Hubbell and Parmelee, of New York; Thurston, of Brooklyn, and Larry French, of the Pirates, complete the pitching staff.

The teams meet at Greenlee Field tonight and tomorrow night, Friday they play at Altoona, with a night game at Greenlee Field on Saturday, and on Sunday at the Municipal Stadium, Cleveland. Monday and Tuesday the action shifts back to Greenlee Field.

The teams opened their out-of-town play last night at York, with the Crawfords whipping the All-Stars, 11 to 2. Swift and French hurled for the major leaguers, with Bell pitching for the Crawfords.

MRS. VARE, ENID WILSON WIN GOLF DUELS

By GENE LORICK
International News Service.

SALEM COUNTRY CLUB, WEST PEABODY, Mass., Sept. 28.—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, of Philadelphia, trying to repeat in 1932 her victory of 10 years ago when she won the national title and which she duplicated four times after that, today swept into the quarter-final round of match play for the women's national golf championship.

Unable to straighten out her shots, Mrs. C. S. Eddis, of Toronto, runner-up last week in the Canadian women's championship, lost hole after hole until the match ended on the thirteenth green with a score of 7 up and 5 to play.

MISS ORCUTT WINS

The closest match of the day developed between Miss Maureen Orcutt, of Haworth, N. J., comedalist, and Mrs. Leo Federman, of Great Neck, L. I., which seesawed to the seventeenth green, where Maureen won, 2 and 1.

Miss Enid Wilson, twice winner of the British women's golf crown, found little opposition from Miss Grace English, of Lynnfield, Mass., and finished the match, 8 and 7. Miss Wilson, despite a fat 6 on the first hole, shot even par for the 11 holes played.

Another one-sided victory was scored by Miss Ada MacKenzie, of Toronto, Canada, former Canadian women's titlist, when she trounced Miss Jane Armstrong, of Winnetka, Ill., 6 and 5.

MISS WATTLES ADVANCES

The last of the Bay-Staters passed out of the picture when Mrs. C. F. Eaton, Jr., of Wellesley, Mass., lost, 4 and 3, to Miss Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo, N. Y.

The other co-medalist, Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, won by 4 and 3 from Miss Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa.

BOWLERS OPEN SEASON

The Metropolitan Tenpin League will open its season tonight with matches on nine alleys. Fort Pitt Brewery meets Brookline, E. M. Tuckers meet the Charley Rays, Elba rolls Market Square, Yacht Club opposes the Kappels, Allegheny Social faces North Side Elks, St. Michael's Lyceum pairs with P. A. A., Mucks vs. Owls, Ko-Ko-Mo Kids clash with Nuss Brothers and Strand No. 1 meets Strand No. 2.

AUTO RACE CARDED

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 28.—A 100-mile auto race will be staged at the local speedway Sunday afternoon for drivers of semi-stock cars. It will be the first race for stock car drivers since Labor Day.

Rajah, Ignored by Cubs, Paid in Own Coin

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The story behind the story of the Chicago players' refusal to vote even a red cent of their world series swag to their erstwhile pilot, Rogers Hornsby, has not been told. At least one chapter of it should be extremely interesting to fans of the Pittsburgh district, as the characters involved are two major league luminaries whose homes are in our locality—Hack Wilson, of Ellwood City and Martinsburg, and Danny Taylor, of West Newton.

Thousands of fans will quickly recall a striking incident of the Forbes Field season which brought Taylor and the Rajah into the foreground. Danny had three tough chances in succession in one inning of a battle between the Pirates and Cubs; the West Newton member, generally a fast fielder, could not get his hands on the ball. Taylor was yanked out in the middle of an inning, something seldom witnessed in a diamond contest. Taylor's friends felt Hornsby went out of his way to show up Danny, and, when the so-called facts are related, this premise may be well-founded.

HACK'S ROOMMATE

When Danny Boy joined the Cubs, a couple of years back, it is known he was high in Hornsby's esteem. Taylor's spirit, his speed on the paths and his punch would make a hit with any pilot. Danny also was well liked by Hack the Whacker, as the two had known each other for years. Wilson wanted Danny as a roommate and their friendship continued in this manner.

It is hardly necessary to go into detail about the strife that broke out between Hornsby and Wilson last year. It is sufficient to state that Wilson eventually was suspended without pay at the behest of Hornsby.

DANNY TAKES FLOOR

The Cubs finished third and when they met to divide their world series spoils it appears there was a message from the front. Hornsby, it is reported, let it be known that he was opposed to the granting of any money to Wilson. The order might have prevailed, it is understood, had not Danny taken the floor in behalf of his friend. He is said to have talked in this manner:

"I refuse to vote on any proposition that lets Hack out in the cold. He was a friend of mine when I needed a friend—he seems to need one here, and I'm voting for Hack for a full share!"

So there is at least an outside chance that Hornsby may have been thinking of Danny's little speech when he yanked him before his home admirers. The chapter hardly would be complete without recounting that the Rajah essayed the right field role the next day and almost had his hair parted by a couple of line drives. He took himself out, however, showing that he was game.

And isn't it possible that the boys with the ballots were thinking of Hack and Danny when they "cut" Hornsby in their latest election.

Two Local Links Events on Today

Golf tourneys are carded today at Westmoreland and Longue Vue. At Westmoreland a somewhat abbreviated field of P. S. G. A. players started out this morning in the semi-monthly tourney, the competing being medal play under full handicap.

The Pittsburgh Traffic Club is holding its annual fall tourney at Longue Vue, with railroad and industrial executives from all parts of the country playing.

Sunday, at Valley Heights, Ted Luther, club pro, and Emil Loeffler, of Oakmont, will meet Perry Del Vecchio, West Penn open champion, and Vincent Eldred, of Highland, in an 18-hole, four-ball, best-ball match.

Big Race Dates Set at Latonia

LATONIA Ky. Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Dates for the four stake events of the fall meeting of the Latonia Jockey Club, starting October 12, were announced today.

The Latonia Championship, with $25,000 added, for 3-year-olds, will be run November 5. It is the richest of the four.

The others are: Kentucky Jockey Club stakes, transferred from Louisville, October 29; the Breeders' Futurity, transferred from Lexington, Ky., October 15, and the Latonia Cup race, November 12.

SEALS ON AIR TONIGHT

The Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph are on the air again tonight over WCAE at 6:50 o'clock.

They'll talk about a little of this and a little of that, including the world series, the Walker-Schmeling fight and the week-end football games.

Tom Birks, singing scribe, will offer a song and then talk about the sandlot gridders of the district. Julius Levin will ramble through the scholastic football situation. Herb McGee, announcer, will collaborate with Harry Keck, sports editor, in sports chatter, and Miss Marian Salmon will be at the piano.

Mark Koenig Gets Back Lost Purse

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Charge Mark Koenig, veteran Chicago Cub shortstop, with the first error of the world series, and with a quick recovery as well.

Mark was riding from the railroad station to the Cubs' hotel when he suddenly discovered his wallet and $400 were missing.

He made a record dash back to the station and found the wallet and the cash still resting in the hammock of his Pullman berth.

OLYMPICS BATTLE BURNS TONIGHT

CRACK ELEVENS OPEN LEAGUE CAMPAIGNS

By TOM BIRKS

The Dan Burns Club, of New Kensington, and the Baehr Olympics, of McKeesport, clash this evening at New Kensington High School Field in the opening West Penn Conference game of the season for both elevens.

With a team of the class of the Olympics providing the opposition, a banner crowd is expected to turn out for the contest.

Both coaches, Al Dunn and Bill Sullivan, have been working hard with their charges in preparation for this game. Stanley Berkman again will run the Burns eleven from the quarterback post. As a field general the former Thiel star has few peers. Buzz Edwards is expected to call the signals for Bill Baehr's entry.

MORTAK DANGEROUS

Mortak is the man that Burns must watch. He is a great ball carrier, and as a member of many Monessen teams, has played havoc with opposing lines.

Manager Grafton Sullivan, of Burns, as well as Coach Dunn, have been scouting the district for good material. Willoughby, Tenario, Harrington and Turpin are the mainstays of a powerful line. Mercurio and Barbero will be at the ends. Westlake, a new man, Ford, Seaburn and Davis will help Berkman to do the ball-toting.

There is a chance that Coach Sullivan will start Patsy Kaletz at fullback for the Olympics. Peeny Newlin and Urban will be the halves.

MINNICK AT CENTER

Peck Minnick will start at center. Tom McCurdy and Ludwig will be the ends, Sapp and Domroski at the tackles, and Woodward and Sullivan at the guards.

Two games are carded in the Conference Sunday. The Rooneys clash with West View at the Park, and Bellaire travels to Olympia Park to meet the Olympics.

Tomorrow night, at Tarentum, the Firemen will meet the Oakland Community aggregation.

The Tipoff

It hardly seems 10 years since the Blues and Grove City met last on the gridiron, but dened if it isn't exactly that long. Back in 1922, the Grovers, coached by the late Chalky Williamson, beat the locals, 7 to 0. That year was one of the very worst in Duquesne football history. The Dukes scored a single touchdown, against Geneva, and lost every game on the schedule, being beaten by Denison, Detroit, Waynesburg, Marietta, Geneva, West Virginia Wesleyan, Grove City and Villanova. Hal Ballin, of Princeton, was the coach.

Westminster has added another football game to its schedule. The Titans will meet the California State Teachers at Newcomington on October 8, the contest to be one of the main attractions of the inauguration of Dr. Robert F. Galbreath as the new president of the United Presbyterian school. The addition of the California game gives the U. P.'s a 10-game card, four at home and half a dozen abroad.

A former Peabody High School and Duke football star, Joe Ferrara, 195-pound tackle, has won his spurs as a starting lineman for Lou Little at Columbia. Ferrara broke into the varsity lineup in the Lions' season opener against Middlebury last Saturday and performed so well that Coach Lou has decided to use him against Lehigh this week.

Foreign Net Stars Victors on Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—With but little opposition ...ll down the line, favorites yesterday swept through first and second-round matches of the Pacific Coast tennis championships.

Except in one instance, the foreign contingent of male stars advanced. Fred Perry, England's Davis Cup ace and tournament favorite here, defeated two local players in decisive fashion.

Henry (Bunny) Austin, captain of the English Davis Cup team, disposed of Ted Lilienthal, 6-2, 6-1, and Laurison Driscoll, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, both San Franciscans.

Japan's ace of the courts, Jiro Satoh, swung into action with first and second-round victories. Georgio De Stefani, Italian Davis Cup player, and Takeo Kuwabara, of Japan, advanced as did Manuel Alonzo, former Spanish Davis Cup entry, and Lester Stoefen, Los Angeles.

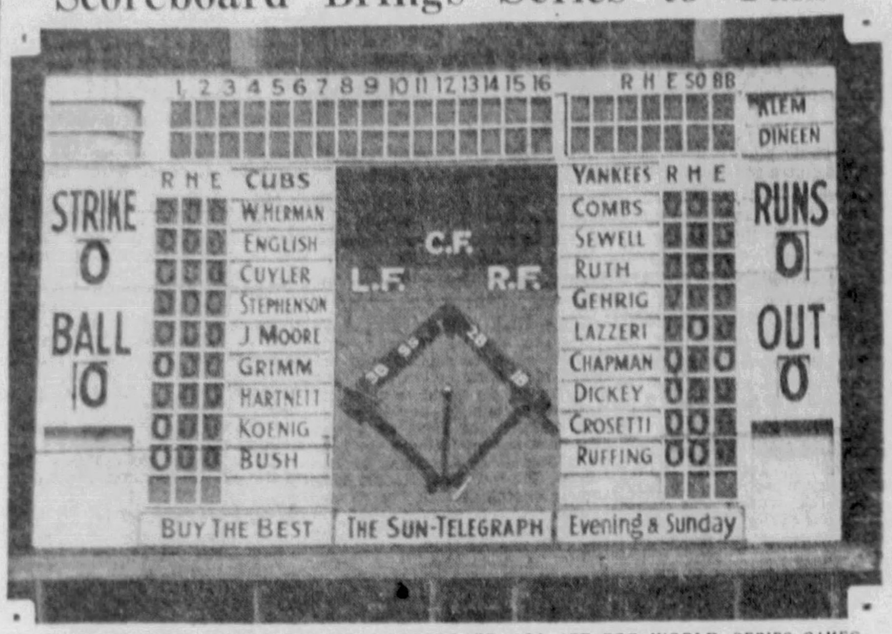
HERMAN BEATS STEELE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—In a stirring and riotous finish, Tommy Herman, Chicago welterweight, staged an upset last night by stopping a decision over Fred Steele, hard-hitting Tacoma fighter, in four rounds, at the Olympic Auditorium. Herman weighed 150½ and Steele 148.

Scoreboard Brings Series to Fans



THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH SCOREBOARD ALL SET FOR WORLD SERIES GAMES

As in past years, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph electric scoreboard, at Grant street and Strawberry way, will be in operation throughout the world series, beginning today. A direct wire to the field is maintained. Space for thousands is available in front of the board. Come and be the Sun-Telegraph's guest. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Altrock, Cubs, Yanks Set for Opener

By NICK ALTROCK
Baseball's Comedian.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Well, folks, the Yanks and Cubs have got their world series all primed and greased and oiled, and today they will have their batteries tested. In preparation for the fall classic, I have been hanging around a Forty-third street filling station the last two days and I am pretty well primed myself. For two more gulps, I would go in and pitch for Joe McCarthy singlehanded.

The experts have been picking their choices out of a derby hat and the plurality of opinion seems to be that Guy Bush will face Charley Ruffing in the opener. That is perfectly all right with me. I don't care what pitchers start the game so long as I am right up front at the clubs' free pie counter for experts at the finish of the game. In the last 12 years of world series, I have always been in the finish of the mess line.

Nick Altrock

HOOVER SHOWS CONFIDENCE

President Hoover won't attend any series game this year, I understand. That's what I call confidence. The way those straw ballots are going, this may be the last time Mr. Hoover has a chance to get into a world series on a pass, and still he sticks back in Washington and figures he can show up at the gate in 1933. He ain't even sending up a Cabinet member to point out Roosevelt's weakness in being way out West when an important series is going on in the Governor's home state.

Warneke is the Cubs' ace pitcher, but Charley Grimm is using the approach forcing system and will lead out his minor suits first. It looks like Burleigh Grimes will be a dummy in this series.

EASY ON WARNEKE

Grimm will save up Warneke till later on account of Lonnie not having previous experience in a world series. He figures Warneke, being a youngster, he might get rattled seeing four umpires working in a single game. It is bad enough for a pitcher to be bothered with one umpire, but, when you look and see yourself surrounded by blue serge suits at first, second, third and home, you get to thinking you are being shadowed. Then you go over all the things you've done in your past life and before you know it you break down and get batted out of the box.

So Grimm will keep Warneke on the bench till he convinces him the bluecoats have nothing on him and they are only thinking of corned beef and cabbage for supper while they are standing at the four corners of the diamond.

RADIO JOB SPLIT UP

There will be a novelty for the ear audience at this fall's series because for the first time Graham McNamee and Mr. Husing will have assistants to help them be wrong. Up to now both these boys had a monopoly of calling fly-outs, Texas leaguers and force-outs safe hits.

But the radio moguls figured that two heads are better than one tongue at a microphone and now, no matter what happens, Graham and Husing can't hope to be more than 50 per cent wrong.

The magnates have also been taking light tapping practice on their adding machines and they've computed a seven-game series will be even a better thing than a Moose charity ball.

Europeans Rank Vines at Top

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—European tennis commentators have become convinced that the world's best player no longer is Henri Cochet, of France, but Ellsworth Vines, of the United States.

Vines, who defeated Cochet twice this year—in the Davis Cup challenge round and the American championships—is ranked No. 1 both by A. Wallis Myers, tennis authority for the London Daily Telegraph, and by the Paris newspaper, L'Auto.

Cochet is placed in the No. 2 spot by both.

Home Folks Wire Best Wishes To Guy Bush

GREENVILLE, Miss., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—The old folks at home have sent a "wish you well" wire to Guy Bush, who is slated to pitch the opening game of the world series for the Chicago Cubs.

The lanky Guy came out of the tall timbers nine years ago and broke into professional baseball here.

He was born at Shannon, Miss., and was signed by the Greenville club of the Cotton States League in 1923. Jack Doyle, Cub scout, saw him pitch a double shutout victory one day and made a deal for him. His purchase price was $2,500.

SOCCER BODY PICKS BOARD

Western Pennsylvania soccer football entered a new era last evening when the local governing body named a commission of five well-known soccer men to administer the game.

The commission includes William Raymond, of Bridgeville; John Toman, William S. Haddock, William Davidson, former president of the West Penn Soccer Football Association, and Robert Brown, former president of the Western Pennsylvania Referees' Association.

There is no doubt but that the men named are extremely capable of handling the disputes that have hampered the advance of soccer.

Tomorrow evening an effort will be made to organize a new soccer league, composed of teams in West Virginia, Eastern Ohio and the lower boundaries of Western Pennsylvania. The confab will be at East Liverpool. The sponsors of the circuit feel that at least six clubs will attend the gathering.

BILLY JONES STOPPED

FIGHT FILMS HERE

NEWARK ROUTS MILLERS, 11-0

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Don Brennan's four-hit pitching, backed up by hard hitting and remarkable speed on the bases, gave the Newark Bears, champions of the International League, a 11-to-0 triumph over Minneapolis in the opening game of the little world series yesterday.

Brennan, ace righthander of the Bears, who won 25 games during the regular campaign, was in complete control of the situation all the way. His mates, led by Catcher Hargreaves, pounded four Miller veterans for 16 hits and stole three bases.

Hargreaves poled his first homer of the season into the right field bleachers in the second inning to give Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Newark team, as well as the New York Yankees, his first thrill. He added three singles to his collection before the end and drove in four runs.

Aside from dreary weather that kept down the attendance to about 8,000, the game had all the earmarks of the major league series. Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, high commissioner of the national game, headed the list of baseball dignitaries present.

Rosy Bill Ryan, most consistent winner for the American Association pennant winners in his own league, was Manager Donnie Bush's choice to start, but he was yanked in the fourth inning. Elam VanGilder, another right-hander; Rube Benton, 48-year-old veteran southpaw, and Carmen Hill, a right-hander, followed in that order without stopping the run-manufacturing of the Bears.

Three Knockouts Mark Outdoors Show

CHARLEROI, Pa., Sept. 28.—Three knockouts provided the fireworks at the amateur boxing show staged by the Charleroi A. C. here last night. In the 120-pound class, Dominick Manchino won by a technical knockout over Mike Balow, of the Bender A. C., in the third round. Percy Payton, of Point Breeze, won by a technical knockout over Bob Rose, of the Todd A. C., in the third round, and Steve Levondosky, of the Patton A. C., stopped Jack Kilvady, of the Todd A. C., in the first round.

In the main go of the evening, Tee Sowden, of the Charleroi A. C., defeated Young Gizzy, brother of Battling Gizzy, in three rounds at 120 pounds.

Fight Results

At Youngstown, O.—Jimmy Engle defeated Roy Edwards, 10 rounds; Frank Brasio defeated Dandy Allen, 10 rounds; Charley Cooper and Frank Stevens drew, 10 rounds.

DUBLINSKY WINS

CITY LEAGUERS SET TO BEGIN TITLE RACES

By JULIUS LEVIN

All 12 members of the two sections of the City League will see action on the gridiron this weekend with three league games and five non-league contests up for disposal.

South Hills, winner of the City League title last season, and Schenley, runner-up, both begin their championship races in the opening league encounters on Friday.

Schenley figures in the only Section I engagement on the program, the Gross eleven tackling Taylor Allderdice on the Schenley Field. Two games are carded in Section II, South Hills invading Perry and Langley going to Carrick.

ALLEGHENY TO PLAY

Allegheny will play at Westinghouse in an intersectional battle. This contest does not have any bearing on the championship race, Westinghouse being a member of Section I and Allegheny operating in Section II. Fifth Avenue goes to Weirton Friday.

Three members of the City League will make excursions to out-of-town gridirons on Saturday.

Peabody will appear in Johnstown, South at Altoona and Oliver at Turtle Creek Union.

Scholastic fans are in for an exceptionally fine program of games this weekend, the Friday and Saturday schedules supplying some attractive battles.

The games scheduled Friday are headed by the Charleroi-New Castle duel in New Castle. This is the first Double A Conference attraction of the season and as it brings together two undefeated elevens it is expected to draw a capacity crowd to Taggart Field in New Castle.

Etna, fresh from its one-sided victory over Tarentum High, will be out to make it two straight at the expense of Miles Bryan High, of McKees Rocks. Coach Harry Whitehill's team is the favorite to defeat its rival from the Rocks.

WASHINGTON VS. MONACA

Washington High, already involved in two tie games with Waynesburg and Aliquippa, will invade the Beaver Valley to engage Monaca in a night battle at Reeves Stadium in Beaver Falls. Other good attractions carded Friday find Crafton at Scott, Munhall at Duquesne, Bellevue at Dormont, Scottdale at South Brownsville and Elizabeth at East McKeesport.

Two Class AA Conference games top the Saturday program. Monessen plays at McKeesport and New Kensington at Norwin. The two Conference games, however, are not the only headliners booked for Saturday.

The Mt. Lebanon-Ambridge and California - Donora duels, both Class A affairs, should prove thrillers. The teams appear to be evenly matched. The Mt. Lebanon-Ambridge clash is scheduled for Ambridge and the Monongahela valley "natural" for the Donora field.

Youngwood at Greensburg, Uniontown at Clairton, Rankin at Wilkinsburg, New Brighton at Midland, Butler at Ellwood City, Redstone at Hurst, Latrobe at Jeannette, Har-Brack at Stowe Township and Homestead at Swissvale are the other important contests listed for Saturday afternoon.

Series Managers Predict Victory

Charley Grimm, Cubs:

"Naturally, I think we'll win. I won't attempt to say how many games it will go. My men aren't afraid of the Yankee hitters. He have confidence in our pitchers."

Joe McCarthy, Yankees:

RAILS, STEELS LEAD STOCK UPTURN

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Stocks crept sluggishly forward today in a quiet trading market which, while it showed an undertone of distinct firmness, was not animated enough to attract wide public interest.

Railroad and steel shares, aided by indications of improvement in those industries, assumed the leadership in an advance which carried many shares up 1 to 2 points, and a few up 3. Farm equipment and mail order shares were also well bought. Utilities were quietly strong.

Motors were firm, influenced by indications of sustained improvement in September retail buying compared with August. Mack Trucks again reached a new high.

Mid-week trade reports sounded a cheerful note, telling of moderate gains in steel buying and a further rise in electricity production. Scattered statements of carloadings by individual roads for the week ended September 24 showed further increases. Six out of seven roads, including Missouri Pacific, Wabash and the St. Louis-San Francisco systems, registered gains over the previous week, while one reported a nominal decline.

CORN LOWEST SINCE 1899

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Material setbacks of grain values early today accompanied relative weakness of wheat quotations at Liverpool. Stop loss selling carried corn prices down to bottom-most figures since 1899. Opening unchanged to $\frac{3}{8}$ off, wheat later underwent an all-around drop. Corn started $\frac{1}{8}$-$\frac{1}{2}$ down and continued to fall.

Good support for Chicago wheat prices developed after the market had suffered a break of about 1 cent a bushel. On the other hand, some of the selling here was apparently from sources southwest. Auspicious weather conditions over the corn belt gave an advantage to bears in corn and oats. Provisions receded with hog values and with cereals.

P.R.R. Carloadings Increase for Week

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—Total loaded cars handled by the Pennsylvania Railroad for the week ended September 24 amounted to 88,424, against 86,047 in the preceding week and 113,898 in the like week of 1931.

The decrease from 1931 was 22.4 per cent, compared with a drop of 23.7 per cent shown by the preceding week.

Japan Negotiating For Russian Wheat

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Japan is negotiating for the purchase of 720,000 bushels of Russian wheat, according to reports received here from Liverpool. In English grain trade quarters, however, it is not believed that Russia will have this much wheat available for export, inasmuch as some of its European contracts have yet to be fulfilled. It is recognized, however, that both China and Japan will need foreign wheat imports this season and are at present bidders in the export market.

Forbes

Forbes Gives Collection of Cheery Facts

By B. C. FORBES

IF THINGS can be kept on a fairly even keel between now and election, reasonable hopes will be satisfied. It cannot be denied that politics have become an unsettling influence. The effect of this may be more pronounced in the security markets than in trade and industry.

Mr. Forbes

Securities have already enjoyed very substantial recovery from their worst levels, thus making them vulnerable to reactions. Business, on the other hand, has had no spectacular rebound, but has crept up modestly here and there. If these gains can be held, or appreciably extended during October, the showing will be generally regarded as reassuring.

A PHILADELPHIA friend gives me this news: Full-fashioned hosiery mills are running night and day shifts. Low-priced hosiery has been advanced ten per cent. Demand for hats has substantially improved. Radio manufacturers are busily engaged filling orders for the Christmas season. Spinning mills are going full tilt.

PRESIDENT JAY W. SMITH, of Chris-Craft Corporation, Algonac, Michigan, states that during the last twelve months they built and sold eight out of every ten "runabouts" costing $700 or upwards. Although motor boat sales throughout the entire country have substantially decreased since 1929, Mr. Smith voices this philosophy:

"Good comes out of every period of depression. The manufacturer who has continued to progress, with new ideas, new methods and new products, will find his position strengthened in the future."

A SURPRISING call for high-grade sport goods, and also for indoor games, has recently blossomed.

ENTERPRISE: A diminutive, juvenile bootblack has set himself up in business in the doorway of a vacant store in lower Fifth avenue, New York, and he tells me that he is doing much better than when he was a nomad.

WESTERN UNION reports marked increase in business-getting telegrams.

BORROWING ON insurance policies has notably decreased. New York Life's applications for the last two months ran 30 per cent below the peak month of the year.

President Buckner reports also "a substantial increase in the number of policy loans repaid in whole or in part."

FOR THE first time this year, an increase, I learn, has developed this month in the number of cabs hired at leading New York transportation terminals.

SALES OF investment trust "units," meaning a package carrying part-ownership in a considerable number of stated stocks, are increasing. When investors could buy them at much lower prices, the vendors could induce relatively few to sign on the dotted line.

AMERICA'S STOCK of unsold used cars is the lowest in several years. Most owners keep their cars running until they can run no longer.

Also, many families who used to buy new cars have been content to purchase used vehicles. One hopeful motor manufacturer offers to bet me a new hat that "there will be a scarcity of automobiles next spring." Here's hoping he's right!

THE NUMBER of security owners in America continues to expand. The total today equals well over half the number of families in America—nearer two out of every three. Clearly, those who have been fortunate enough to continue earning have saved as never before.

The country direly needs drastic economies by tax leviers and more earning and spending by taxpayers.

CARRIERS SEEK 'NEW DEAL' FROM U. S.

By MERRYLE S. RUCKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Though railway earnings continue poor, the carrier systems have made progress since the depression started in arousing public sympathy.

The rise of competing methods of transportation has lifted railroads out of the monopolistic class, and as a result railroad executives would like to be liberated from excessive regulation. At the same time, they would like to have competing forms of transportation regulated on the same basis as the railroads.

Mr. Rukeyser

WOULD LIMIT POWER

A spokesman for the railroads, the president of one well conducted system, sketched for me his conception of a new deal for the railroads.

"You ask me what changes I would effect if I could re-write our laws and re-establish conditions of public regulation and private management.

"This is a rather large order, since it would involve a detailed statement of various technical changes in the act to regulate commerce which I would propose. I can, however, say in general that in my view the railroads are tremendously over-regulated and that competing forms of transportation are entirely unregulated so far as the federal government is concerned and inadequately regulated so far as state regulation is concerned, and that I would correct this situation by greatly relaxing the regulation of the railroads through limiting the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission largely to those fields originally designed for its occupancy under the original act to regulate commerce—namely, the authority to prevent discrimination by railroads in their charges as between shippers and communities.

URGES UNIFORM LAW

"I would also give the commission authority to approve issues of railroad securities and perhaps some authority in connection with safety appliance laws and the power to fix maximum, but not minimum rates.

"After securing these objectives, I would turn the railroads loose to be managed as other business enterprises are managed, and should be managed, by representatives of the people who own them, and I would then apply similar relaxed regulation to other competing forms of transportation. If this were done, the traffic of the country would naturally gravitate to those forms of transportation best adapted to serve its needs."

VALENTINE

Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XXXIII.

There was a letter in the box from Millie.

"We are having a beautiful time," Millie wrote, "and shall try to see you on our western trip. You may find it worth while to return with us. Deems will be able to do something for Joe, I'm sure."

Deems . . .

Val wracked her brain. Deems . . . Mr. Shaler's name was Vincent, and sometimes Millie called him Vee. But never Deems.

Well, you could never tell. Perhaps this was someone new whom Millie had met. She turned the page and went on with the letter.

"I intended to write many, many times, but on the ship going over there was really nothing to write about, and I thought it would be so much more interesting to write from Paris. But in Paris there was so much to do I did not find time to write.

"Several little things I picked up for you in Paris will reach you very soon. The bracelet is the wedding present from your new daddy and me.

"Darling, all my life I have longed for this perfect peace and security which I now have. I was single too long, darling. I am not the modern, self-sufficient girl. I must have my own little home and one loyal, loving man to call my own dear husband.

WARNS ABOUT VINCENT

"You will love Deems, too. He is, of course, very much older than I am, but I have always admired older men. I can not tell you how wonderful he is to me. I have but to wish, and the wish is realized.

"I do hope that you are happy with your Joe, dear, and I am sure you are. I feel sure that we will carry you both back to California with us. In any case you must come.

"The things from Paris are coming to you, part by express and part registered mail. The bracelet is a unique model, made specially for you in Paris.

"Your loving mother,

"MILLIE."

"P. S.—Do not mention Vincent's name whatever you do, when you meet Deems. He HATES him, which is no wonder, the way he treated me. A long story. I will tell you when I see you, darling. Do not mention Santa Barbara AT ALL.

"P. S.—Do not mention how long ago your father died. Deems happens to believe I was but recently widowed, and I did not like to say anything different. He is frightfully wealthy and has a FIENDISH family (grownup children). He was a widower. Better not say anything at all about the past. Leave it to me, and agree with me. (Men are so queer about some things, darling).

FIRST QUARREL

Val could hardly wait for Joe to get home, to show it to him. "Joe, what do you suppose this Mr. Harris will have to offer you?"

Synopsis

Valentine Macfarlane is practically deserted at the age of 8 by her gay, widowed mother, Millie. She is brought up by a manhating maiden aunt, Julia, and becomes a stenographer. After a brief infatuation for the dashing Lester Sherwood, she marries a neighbor boy, Joe Carey, and goes to Minneapolis, where Joe is an architect. Val knows little about housekeeping or cooking. To return favors of a neighbor woman, Mrs. Peacock, Val and Joe plan a dinner. They also invite Pearl Neely, a friend of Joe's. Pearl begins to take liberties about the apartment. Val disapproves, but says nothing. Joe gets a letter from his mother complaining of family troubles.

Now Go On

"But Joe, I like it better in California," said Val.

"I don't know, honey. Nothing that I could consider. I'm too interested in what I'm doing here."

"But, Joe, I like it better in California!"

"Without me?"

"No—with you!"

"But I'm here, Val. Here to stay."

"Without me?"

"No," he said, smiling gravely, "with you. But you knew that you'd have to live here."

He returned to his book, pretended to read. She sat in stony silence. It was their first quarrel.

That night the first snow fell. In the morning Val flung open the windows, drank in the cold crisp air. Real snow! Snow over everything. A fair white carpet on a dirty world. She was half mad with excitement, furious when traffic turned the exquisite whiteness to pale gray slush.

"It's a crime! They shouldn't let them get it all ruined that way!"

"The business of the city has to go on, whether it snows or not. Besides, there'll be more. You haven't seen anything yet. It hasn't even started to get cold. Those few flakes of snow don't amount to anything. Look at it, melted already!"

"It wouldn't melt if people would keep off of it. I THOUGHT you were the one who loved beauty!"

VISITS JOE'S UNCLE

Val said nothing. She felt that she alone in this alien place truly appreciated the white, pure beauty. She tramped up and down the River road, scorning Joe's warnings against frostbites, and Mrs. Peacock's moans for warmer underwear.

"I'm not a bit cold. It's always warm when it snows, everybody always says that," she insisted.

But she came home with the snuffles, and awoke the next morning with a miserable cold.

When Sunday came she was still uncomfortable, but she insisted that she was well enough to make the trip to Joe's uncle. She had dressed with infinite pains. She wore her slate-blue suit with the great fox cuffs, and regretfully covered it with a heavy wool coat that could be removed before entering the house.

The Hon. Joel Joshua Bolton lived in a big white house, with a red silo on the side, and a long row of red barns and outhouses in the rear. It was set in acres of cornfields, with a garden, barren and blackened now, near the house.

A stolid Swedish woman in black admitted them, led them through a large, square hall, through a long room filled with furniture shrouded in sheets, to a smaller hall, and off of this a library furnished in black leather, and hung with old fashioned oils. A small coal fire burned in the grate at one end of the room. Two small, yapping dogs rushed forward barking furiously.

VAL IS COMPLIMENTED

"Pleased t' meet ya," he muttered and sank back into his deep arm chair with an air of "Thank goodness, that's done."

The elderly Swedish woman who had admitted them entered carrying a tray covered with a coarse white cloth. On it was a coffee service of heavy, old-fashioned silver, tarnished and dull, large white china coffee cups, and a beautiful dark blue glass decanter almost covered with a fine tracery of silver grape vines and leaves.

She placed the tray on a table near Val, and Val served, feeling capable and graceful, because the tray was so badly arranged she couldn't help but do it better than the housekeeper would have.

They drank their coffee, ate the dark little honey cakes in silence. But it was not an uncomfortable silence. Joe's uncle didn't make her feel uncomfortable at all.

Joe said, "I've decided to let Elwyn come out here, Uncle Joel. Mr. Claus can get him in at Larson's mill, in the office. He can board at Mrs. Peacock's."

The old man reached in his breast pocket for a cigar, which he handed to Joe, then he carefully bit off the end of another one, put it in his own mouth.

"You're a damn fool," he said pleasantly. Then he pointed a crooked forefinger at the blue glass decanter. "Brandy!"

"You've got a good forehead," he said gruffly. "You might have brains. I wonder why you married one of my half-wit sister's young 'uns. Seems as if you might have gone on the stage or in the movies, if you hadn't wanted to use the brains."

The old man guffawed, coughed, guffawed again.

"She's no fool," he said, turning back to Joe. He never looked at her again, during the hour that they stayed. He talked to Joe, speaking rapidly, in a low, almost expressionless voice. He talked of business, of things Val knew nothing about. She amused herself looking through an old-fashioned, beautifully illustrated volume of "Pilgrim's Progress" that she found on the table.

"I've known your mother longer than you have. There's something back of all this. She's spent more'n 20 years trying to keep her whole family, including you, Joe, my boy, in sweddlin' clothes. Now she's trying to unload the whole kit and caboodle of 'em. When the old cat gets rid of the young there's only one reason—a new Tom hanging around. Now what I want to know is, who's the dum fool she thinks is going t' have her, hey?"

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Grantland Again Makes Display of Jealousy

My confident assurance that Dicky and Harry would be as glad to accept the hospitality of The Larches upon the night of the dinner dance, as would the collegians gratified Hugh Grantland exceedingly, if the look that came into his eyes was any criterion of his feeling. His evident pleasure in my acceptance of his invitation to house all the men, both guests and family, leaving the farmhouse free for dressing of the women of the party, helped me materially to banish my qualms as to Dicky's reaction to Hugh's proposal.

"I am glad to hear you say that," Hugh said earnestly. "Remember to send them all over at any time. I shall have everything in readiness for them."

He settled himself a little deeper in the comfortable porch chair he had taken, and looked at me with something boyishly wistful in his eyes.

"My errand is with your father," he said, "but—it is so restful here, may I wait here for a few minutes?"

"Of course," I said cordially. "I was going to ask you to share some fruit punch that Katie is preparing. She should be here at any minute."

"Your old recipe?" He smiled with flattering reminiscence as he put the question.

VERITZEN ON LINE

Katie's voice at the telephone rose above my comment.

"Yah; dees Meester Graham's house. Yah! Meesis Graham, she home. Who calling, plees? Oh; Meester Veritzen? Shoost vait. I take phone to her."

If I could have stopped my energetic little maid without making my action seem pointed, I would have done so. But she was already advancing to the corner of the livingroom next the veranda, where a branch phone is hidden in a small cabinet. She took it out with its long cord, purposely planned for use on the veranda, and passed the instrument through the window to me.

Hugh rose precipitately. "Ill go up to your father, if I may."

I had not yet taken the receiver from the hook, and I gestured imperiously toward his chair.

"Sit down, please," I said. "Mr. Veritzen is long-winded, but he never says anything demanding very close attention. I'll cut him as short as possible."

But the great producer was in no mood to be cut short. He was bubbling over with pleasure and enthusiasm. However, I could devote my whole attention to him, as Hugh had reseated himself, though patently reluctant and uncomfortable, and was gazing out over my favorite view of meadow and woodland dipping to the distant ocean as if his life depended upon keeping his eyes fixed upon it.

LEARNS OF LIE

"My dear Mrs. Graham!" Mr. Veritzen exclaimed effusively. "I have just returned from a call upon Mrs. Arlen, and she told me of your very kind invitation, with which of course she and her daughter are delighted. Noel will be so pleased, also, when he returns."

I had a swift intuition, and acted upon it.

"Noel is not at home, then?"

"No, he went last night to New York, and I do not expect him back until late tonight."

So Avis Arlen had uttered a deliberate falsehood when she had said that she had seen Noel during the forenoon! This was no surprise to me, but I was glad to have a confirmation of my suspicion as ammunition in my future dealings with the young woman. But Mr. Veritzen was speaking again, and I wrenched my attention back to him.

"This is too sweet of you," he was burbling. "But—a dinner dance for 30—that is quite an undertaking! I must not permit you to be overburdened in preparation for it. We have a play to put on, remember, next month."

"I am remembering," I said, and caught my breath the next instant at the realization of how the words must sound to Hugh, hearing only one side of the telephone colloquy.

"I am not likely to forget my play production." I added hastily, but Hugh did not hear my amendment. With a smothered little exclamation, he had sprung to his feet and rushed into the house.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

By ANN HELFGOTT

Heard across the footlights—Milton Langser visions himself as a future air pilot—Irene Hineck would like to be a piano teacher and informs us that she intends to carry out to fulfillment that ambition—Freddy Gottlieb enjoys playing baseball—Rosemarie Exler likes to play "houth."

Ann Helfgott

During the past few weeks Fred Battilyon has been the outstanding athlete of the club. He has walked away with many prizes, but the current week did not hold much for him, as he was victor but once in the numerous events.

Zelda Tauberg blossoms forth in a brand new organdy dress. The oncoming coolness will force her to treat it in "moth balls" soon.

Norma Williams is a regular "tomboy." She likes best to play baseball and next to that would rather eat cocoanut cake than be a president's wife.

The sister of the club's twins, Anna Pagano, has a nice, big tooth loose. Gee! I'd sure like to tie a string to that and give one big yank. Strange how such things appeal to human beings.

What two girls come all the way from Homewood each Saturday to attend Miss Miller's Dancing School? More proof of the popularity of Ruthie's classes.

Ruth Reagen likes to eat ice cream. She says that she is going to be a stenographer when she finishes her business course at school. In the meantime she gets much fun by playing "hide and go seek."

One of our most promising dancing pupils likes the art so well that she will some day become an instructress. She dreams of the day she will have a studio and plenty of students.

"I found a million-dollar baby in the 5-and-10-cent store," Florence Sanshuck, another club member, anticipates going to work in the 5-and-10 candy department. She is a sweet girl and has a sweet tooth.

Yours very truly,

Your Girl Ann.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Belmar — Thomas McGowan, Herbert Bauer, Hugh Martin, John Martin, James Walsh.

Schenley—John Furis, Marion Domico, Louise Mitchell.

Rowland — Cynthia Holley, Carl Fritz, Fred Baird.

Manor — Louise Bachrach, William Rubin, Divera Syna.

Grateful Relief Brought by FOLEY PILLS

So you feel achy all over, miserable and blue? Your head feels "crowded" your nerves quiver, you have pin-and-needle cramps—your appetite has gone and you feel weak as a cat. Don't fill your stomach with tonics or laxatives or rheumatism remedies. How can they help if it is your kidneys.

The job of the kidneys is to strain the uric acid and other poisons out of your blood. They purify your blood, that's it. Now you must not let these acids stay in the kidneys or they'll get back in the blood and poison your whole body. That's why your kidneys must pass 3 pints of "water" a day. Let them fail and you know it. Your appetite goes back on you, so does your pep, your sleep, and your nerves—your back hurts, your ankles and feet may swell up and you feel cranky and sick.

Now see what a wonderful change takes place after you start on Foley Pills. Kidney action increases at once. Out go those acids. Burning stops. Sleep is sounder, and none of this getting-up business. You feel like "somebody."

Your druggist has Foley Pills. Sells a lot of them, because most people know how good they are. Don't cost much either—but they certainly do a grand job. If they don't, your money back any time you want it. © 1932

WOUNDED LION STRIKES BACK

(Lamar, Mo., Democrat)

Bart McCrea, after noting that Rev. M. G. Smith, head of the Allied Forces of Prohibition, had endorsed Harry Bell as the official preference of the prohibition forces in Barton County, has this to say:

"I did not get to talk with Mr. Smith before he made this endorsement. But I want to make him and everybody else this proposition: If he can find a man, woman or child who ever at any time saw me take a drop of liquor, or if he can find one that will say that he ever saw me under the influence of liquor or who so much as smelled liquor on my breath—I will give him a thousand dollars."

NICE WORK IF THEY CAN GET IT

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT
Its Many Civic Organizations Promote Pittsburgh's Progress

Cheaper Light Approved

The Public Service Commission Will Be Expected to Say If the Rate Should Be Cut Further.

The Public Service Commission has sanctioned the new rate schedule proposed by the Duquesne Light Company for domestic consumers, and it is announced the lower rates will go into effect October 1.

The credit for the successful outcome of the campaign for lower rates must be shared by several organizations. The Sun-Telegraph, which was in the fight from the outset, congratulates the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association on the good service that it rendered. The people owe the association a debt of gratitude.

Although a victory has been won, the fight is not over. The Public Service Commission will be expected to say if the Duquesne Light Company has cut its rates enough.

There are other public utility rates, too, that are still shamefully excessive, notably the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company's 25-cent bus fare.

Voting Machines Used

There Is Encouragement for Allegheny County in the Experience of Other Parts of the State.

An examination of the records of the Pennsylvania Department of State having to do with voting machines discloses that districts having almost 2,500,000 inhabitants used them in the primary election of last April. The devices proved satisfactory in all but a negligible number of cases; so there is encouragement for the belief that the people of Allegheny County also will find them satisfactory.

More than 60 per cent of the people of Pennsylvania live in districts that have adopted voting machines. Ten counties in their entirety and parts of 16 others, with a combined population of nearly 6,000,000, have decided to use them.

Mechanical difficulties in the case of the type of machine adopted by Allegheny County—difficulties that are now reported to have been overcome—and lawsuits have held up the use of voting machines in three counties. But these troubles no doubt will be disposed of before long, and Pennsylvania will gain the advantages that other states using voting machines enjoy. One of the them is celerity in ascertaining the result of the voting.

With 6,000,000 people in the state soon to be using the devices, we should be saved the long delays that frequently had to be undergone before the outcome of an election could be known under the paper ballot system.

More Bomb Outrages

These Crimes Are So Common Because the Perpetrators Are So Seldom Punished.

Alfred B. Nobel invented dynamite in 1867. A friend of mankind, he probably would have had misgivings about giving his invention to the world if he could have foreseen the wicked uses to which it would be put.

Four of the news items on the first page of the first edition of the Sun-Telegraph yesterday had to do with criminal attempts to blow up homes with dynamite.

There was a dispatch from Worcester, Mass., telling of an explosion in the home of Judge Webster Thayer, who presided in the Sacco-Vanzetti case. There was another dispatch from Prescott, Ariz., telling of the killing of two persons whose cottage was blown up. And there were two items dealing with explosions in the Pittsburgh district.

A home at Coverdale, in which seven persons were sleeping, was wrecked by a bomb, as the result, it is suspected, of ill-feeling created by a miners' strike. Another home, at North Charleroi, occupied by a social service executive and 10 other persons, was also wrecked by a bomb, planted, it is believed, by someone with a fancied grievance over the manner in which poor relief funds were distributed.

Bomb outrages are so common because the perpetrators of the crimes are so seldom caught.

It may be that the purchase of dynamite should be made more difficult. It may be that large purchasers, who buy the explosive for legitimate purposes, should take greater care to see that it does not pass into improper hands.

The police should endeavor to cultivate greater detective skill in dealing with these crimes.

A Natural Park Menaced

It Behooves Everyone Who Uses the Woods to Be Cautious in Handling Matches.

McConnell's Mills is one of the most picturesque places in Western Pennsylvania. It is so attractive that Thomas Liggett, who led the movement for the establishment of the Cook Forest as a state park, is trying to have the state buy it and preserve its natural beauty, also.

The beauty is dependent not only on the great rocks and boulders that are to be found in Slippery Rock Creek at this part of the valley, but also on the forest trees that cover the hillsides. If the forest were to be destroyed, McConnell's Mills would lose much of its charm.

A forest fire, believed to have been started by persons in search of wild honey, broke out near McConnell's Mills a few days ago. Scores of volunteers had to work for hours before the blaze was overcome.

This fire, in a timber tract well known to Pittsburghers, is a reminder of the need of caution in handling matches while in the woods.

Because of the long drought the forests are so inflammable that Gov. Pinchot announces it may be necessary to postpone the opening of the hunting season to prevent "a deluge of forest fires."

One of the few simple rules which, if generally followed, would do much to prevent forest fires is to be sure your match is out before throwing it away in the woods. It is a good practice to break it in two.

Campers should not build a fire against logs or trees or near brush. It is best to scrape away all inflammable material from a spot five feet in diameter, dig a hole in the center, build the fire there, and keep it small.

The State Police have issued a warning against the burning of leaves, brush and rubbish in the open. They recommend that such material be gathered up and burned in incinerators or screened receptacles.

Forest fires swept over 52,000,000 acres of timber land in the United States in 1930, the latest year for which complete statistics are at hand, and 1930 was not an exceptionally bad year.

These huge losses could be avoided by carefulness.

That Faraway Look

By Nelson Harding

There is life and animation
Seen at this life saving station
Where an awful fuss is made
Over distant calls for aid.

Close at hand real help is needed
But that case is little heeded
Most attention seems to be Focused farther out at sea.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Husbands De Luxe

"What is home without a gigolo?" asks Nina Wilcox Putnam, in a pithy article in the September Cosmopolitan. And then adds, impertinently, "Why is a gigolo—and what are its uses?"

* * *

Of course, in America, the primary use of a gigolo is to give the Tired Businessman an evening's rest from his wife. And, incidentally, to give the Tired Wife a chance to dance with somebody who won't walk all over her satin slippers and keep muttering, "When do we escape?"

* * *

But there are a dozen grades and classifications of gigolos, these days, from the dancing gigolo of Paris, who earns his money like any other professional dancer, to the marrying gigolo, who may be anything from a fortune hunter to a Tired Business Woman's solace, helpmate and cavalier.

The American husband has become too standardized. Not every woman wants a fur-buying animal with a stock ticker line of conversation and big check book for a heart.

* * *

She doesn't need anybody to cling to, hang onto or wheedle money out of. She doesn't need anybody to give her prestige or fur coats and diamonds.

* * *

She needs somebody around to give the house a "finished" look. Somebody to entertain, amuse and inspire her. Somebody to run the car, bully the cook and impress head-waiters and doormen.

* * *

Somebody to boost her game, be her cheer-leader, make love to her occasionally and keep her vanity and self-confidence pepped up.

* * *

No busy, successful woman needs or wants a man who is absorbed in his work, makes more money than she does and comes home all fagged out, to be coddled, cried to, nursed and waited on.

* * *

She wants a Husband de Luxe—something ornamental, handsome, polished and gracious as well as useful and dependable. And not too lazy, too conceited, too greedy or too selfish to do his BIT in the matrimonial partnership. THAT is the husband de luxe for any well-paid celebrity or big butter-and-egg-woman. But, where will you FIND one like that in America, where husbands are all standardized on the cash-register basis—and gigolos are just gentlemen-racketeers?

EUROPE DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Many famous Parisian restaurants are prix fixe to attract customers. Such an establishment as l'Ecrevisse serves a 25 franc dinner, vin compris. A dollar dinner with free champagne! Not the best champagne in France, to be sure, but it bubbles. And who can judge beyond its bubbles?

Scarcely anyone is wearing evening clothes. Ciro's is closed and its head waiters, Maurice and Julian, have opened a small spot which is attracting Americans who want to be seen. Restaurant Marguery is shuttered. Voisin's is being dismantled, and the famous Larue is about ready for a fade-out.

Along the quai, La Perouse and Tour d'Argent struggle with only a handful of dinner patrons. Thus does eating in the eatingest city on the continent show the accumulated blight of a pinched purse. On the grand boulevards dinners, with wine gratis, 7 fr 50—30 cents—get the play.

One winnows—I'm sick of the word learns—that to the French restaurateur has come a sudden appreciation of American patronage. He is far more gracious than in boom times. He has bought his jack-knife obeisance out of the moth balls and dusted off a few carpet-kissing bows.

There is a stouter infusion of the ecstatic and magnanimous graces of the grand old days—when Paris was Paris. French food is no better than food in other countries. Tremulous platitudes and premeditated little ardours made it what it is.

Innumerable Americans, living abroad on market winnings for years, are in sorry plight. In the fixity of this despair, they are enduring a pick-thank existence, glooming in glittering bistros for a turn of the tide. Three worthy and thoroughly abashed gentlemen, once with chateaux, and vast leisure, have rapped—and where else are raps so loud?—at my hotel door, so far, awkwardly fumbling requests for loans. Each plea was modest, the most extravagant being for 50 francs. P. S. They got them.

* * *

There are, of course, a few more fortunate expatriates left. They are the obtusely boorish and snooty sort whose favorite quotation is Hendrik Van Loon's brief history of America: "Washington, Lincoln. Three flights up and ask for Tom."

* * *

In the foam of faces about the dark-timbered Ritz cocktail room—"the sweat box"—I was glad finally to recognize Frank, the head bar man, recently reported dead. Blond, ruddy, and with increasing embonpoint, he beamed excellent health. Across the hall in the men's bar, too, Lou Hauser was having his 7 p. m. Scotch and soda, a rite he has not missed a single day for 15 years.

* * *

Billy, usually indifferent, succumbed to the amorous aura of Paris today in a National City Bank branch. He saw a giant, slate gray mastiff whose name proved to be Delysia. At sight of her he stretched bellywise on the mosaic, his head between his paws, whining. Then springing toward her, he rolled on his back in a gesture of sublime adoration and licked at her ankles. Together they suggested Rhode Island and Texas. But Delysia's glance was definitely of annoyance. In the manner of Lillian Russell dismissing a runt, she swayed off, leaving Billy looking so foolish the crowd tittered. But likely he is not the only dog to be "stood up" in this wicked city! I sneaked him home up a back street, a humiliated Romeo.

* * *

For many years no shop ever moved in Paris. Trip after trip the same locations, the same faces. Then, all of a sudden, like a flood of Nebraska grasshoppers, everybody moved. And most of us flounder like the fabled chameleon tethered to a Paisley shawl. It's a pity, for a chief charm was immutable sameness.

* * *

In a new Lanvin suit, tie by Charvet and over-the-Channel spats, I rather secretly felt myself the boulevardier along chestnut-lined Champs Elysees today. But, like all precious minions of illusion, it was transitory. From one of those tan chairs of delicate wire, some low person called: "Regards to Piqua."

* * *

I tore Harry Silvey reluctantly from the rues this evening to taxi him to Versailles for a peep at the preserved royal pomp. He walked slowly for some time in the ancient splendor, finally observing: "A lot of palaces." So I taxied him back toot sweet, and, so far as he was concerned, the tooter the sweeter. I'm washed up. Tomorrow, in the Place de la Concorde, I give him to Paris.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Every time I think about those poor little Hutchinson youngsters I get madder.

Those thin little voices wailing in the horror of that fall; those helpless little hands clutching at the enormous night—and the fear that will haunt them as long as they live, that will leap to cripple them in moments of decision.

I can't get the cruelty and the pity of it out of my mind. Poor little tads! I'll wager there's hardly a mother in America, unless it be stunt mothers like Mrs. Hutchinson, whose heart isn't aching at the thought of it.

Usually, I'd be all a-throb with sympathy for Ma and Pa Hutchinson, also. But, under the circumstances, I'll tell the pop-eyed world that the tougher time those parents had on that [illegible] the better I'm pleased.

But why just the father? What about the mother who would subject her babies to such a risk? Mothers are people in 1932 and should be treated as such. And a flying mother who will risk her babies on such an exhibition is exactly as responsible for her heartlessness as a flying father.

Something should be done about such parents.

But first, something should be done about all of us who think that parents are in a class by themselves, with special exemptions and peculiar sanctifications.

This classical idea that "Poppa and Momma Know Best" and "A Parent Is a Child's Best Friend" is vicious bunk.

No one can be a better or more devoted friend to a child than that child's father or mother, PROVIDED SUCH PARENT IS AN INTELLIGENT, WELL-BALANCED, UNSELFISH AND KINDLY HUMAN BEING. But there is nothing about the physical fact of parenthood which automatically endows a male or female with intelligence, balance or character.

AND THE PLAIN FACT IS THAT MANY A PARENT POSSESSES NONE OF THESE QUALITIES.

YET BECAUSE OF OUR SENTIMENTAL ATTITUDE, WE PERMIT ALL PARENTS, WITHOUT QUALIFICATIONS, TO HAVE ACTUAL POWER OR LIFE OR DEATH OVER THEIR LITTLE ONES.

If a stranger had taken those little Hutchinson girls for that trans-Atlantic flight and crashed with them in Greenland, the whole world would have rocked with horror and indignation.

Yet, because the two silly, selfish human beings who subjected them to that risk, for purposes of personal exploitation, happened to be their father and mother, they will probably escape with slight criticism—and be allowed to repeat the performance as soon as they get another plane!

Some way should be found to control these exhibitions. Children are constantly being exploited by unfit parents—displayed in theaters, dragged through parades—with a brutal disregard for their immature bodies and minds.

We have state and federal laws for the protection of trees, waterways, orchards, livestock, for these things are part of our national treasure. Yet the richest portions of our national treasure, the children of America, are still exposed to ruthless exploitation.

Hoover's Rebuke To Germany

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Now Mr. Hoover, evidently accepting the British and French contention as to armament, has sought in a statement issued this year to put the blame for a failure in armament reduction on the Germans.

Under the peace treaties Germany was prohibited from having an army of any consequence at all. At that time the promise was made that the Entente nations would immediately reduce their own. Instead these armies have been increased.

Germany now takes the position that Germany as a first-class power is entitled to the same instrumentalities of defense as the others—and I think she is right. The war is over; it is time to shed the passions and insanities of the war.

Now Mr. Hoover criticizes this position of the Germans and says that the United States had no part in the limitation of German arms. This is an amazing statement coming from the head of a nation who ought in all conscience to know who he is talking about.

For the United States does have a part—the same part; for in our separate peace treaty with Germany we stipulated that Part V of the Versailles treaty, along with other stipulations in that treaty, should be included in the separate peace.

The American people do not want the Hoover administration, the Mellons, the Stimsons, the Edges and the Dave Reeds to pledge the support of this country to England and France against the Germans in a European dispute. But our foreign policy has been one of consistent blundering.

Trouble with That Railroad Speech

In his western tour Mr. Roosevelt is not resorting to rabble-rousing methods of speech, and this plainly is not relished by his enemies. They evidently had hoped that, caught in the enthusiasm of the crowds, he would tear a passion to tatters and make demagogic proposals; they even hoped that he would stoop to a demagogy as reckless as that of his opponent in 1928 when he promised the "elimination of poverty" with "a chicken in every pot."

Instead, Mr. Roosevelt has calmly discussed the issues with a conservatism of expression that robs his enemies of an opportunity for criticism. Just what they are going to do about it we really cannot guess; nor can they. Torn as his enemies are by dissensions, and handicapped as they are by an utter dearth of responsible leadership, it is not surprising that they are unable to agree upon a line of attack.

Thus when Mr. Roosevelt made his railroad speech which made a favorable impression everywhere, Ogden Mills could think of nothing better to say than that it was precisely the view of Mr. Hoover, previously expressed. Well, that was one line of attack. But how unfortunate that Senator Hatfield, emerging from the presence at the White House, the day after, should have said that the Roosevelt position, which Mills says is the position of Hoover, is "utterly ridiculous."

Evidently the "general staff" is having no end of trouble with that railroad speech.

Seattle Harbor Deserted

At Seattle, Mr. Roosevelt has made a tariff speech with which "the general staff" will have some trouble, too. He was speaking to a people who have been disastrously hit by the Grundy monstrosity, bought with the million-dollar contribution. They were not hit indirectly but directly. They are unable to sell their fruit now to Canada, France or England because of the retaliatory tariffs these nations have raised on account of the Grundy exclusion of these nations from our markets. The tariff has been ruinous there.

Mr. Roosevelt was speaking in a seaport once teeming with merchant vessels carrying away the surplus of our factories and fields, and he found the harbor there, as in New York, almost as lonesome and deserted as an inland lake in the midst of a wilderness—because Mr. Grundy raised a million dollars for Mr. Hoover's election four years ago.

Warned by the Leading Economists

One thing he suggested which will interest many businessmen. Mr. Hoover was head of the Department of Commerce under two administrations. His ambition was to build up foreign trade. To that end he spent the people's money like the proverbial drunken sailor; established attaches in the embassies and legations; had expert studies made of methods to extend our trade.

Having done all this he entered upon his Presidency and signalized his entrance by surrendering to a gang of selfish gluttons who demanded a tariff that would be an affront to every nation and thus destroy all the advantages gained by the most liberal expenditure of the people's money.

He did not realize the effect! Then clearly he has none of the qualities of statesmanship. Had he possessed any of the knowledge of political economy with which the paid propagandists had endowed him to a superlative degree he would have known better. He was warned by a thousand of the leading economists of the country. Many manufacturers begged him to veto the Grundy monstrosity on the ground that it would, as it has, destroy their foreign markets.

Blindly, stubbornly, it almost seems stupidly, he pushed ahead, with Grundy pushing him, and thus deprived us of the best customers we have ever had.

Mr. Roosevelt's Remedy

And so Mr. Roosevelt says:

"In short, because we have built unjust stariff walls ourselves, other countries are using our own poison against us."

And what does he propose? That we shall level the tariff walls to the ground without any reference to the walls against us in other lands, as Mr. Ogden Mills dishonestly suggests? No—this:

"To remedy this, I have advocated and continue to advocate a tariff policy based in large part upon the simple principle of profitable exchange arrived at through negotiated tariffs with benefit to each nation."

That is what the Democratic House proposed in the bill which a Republican Senate indorsed and Mr. Hoover vetoed.

The issue between Hoover and Roosevelt here is this: Mr. Roosevelt would actively seek reciprocal agreements for the restoration of our trade, and Mr. Hoover refuses to lift his hand to that end.

The American People Demand a Change

Here is something that Mr. Hoover seems utterly incapable of grasping; there cannot possibly be a restoration of a normal, healthy prosperity until there is a restoration of trade. He refuses to move in that direction. Our foreign trade, now lost, cannot be restored by inertia; it can only be restored by international agreements on the tariff to admit our goods to foreign markets, now closed by retaliation; and by an international understanding in reference to exchange in the great markets of the silver countries of the Orient.

The Democrats asked him to negotiate on the former; and he vetoed their bill.

Congress unanimously asked him to negotiate on the latter and he has stubbornly refused.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Do you know:

1. Who wrote,
"I never saw a purple cow
I never hope to see one
But I can tell you anyhow
I'd rather see than be one?"
2. What is the most ancient of stringed musical instruments?
3. What author used the pen-name of Ik Marvel?
4. Who was Esau's twin brother?
5. What famous English poet was the son of a stable-keeper?
6. What was the name of Byron's favorite dog?
7. In what Shakespearean play does Goneril appear?
8. Who is called the "father of history?"
9. What is meant by a jack-of-all-trades?"
10. What is a "Judas kiss?"

Fill each blank:

11. "Thy rod and thy staff they ———— me." Bible.
12. "There's a snake in the ————," Bacon, "Essays."
13. "She loved me for the ———— I had passed
And I loved, her that she did pity them," Shakespear's "Othello."
14. "Death is a black ————, which kneels at the gates of all," Abd-el Kader.
15. "The best laid schemes o' mice and men
Gang aft a-gley
And leave us naught but grief and pain
For promised ————," Burns, "To a Mouse."

1. Gelett Burgess. 2. The harp. 3. Donald Mitchell (1822-1908). 4. Jacob. 5. John Keats. 6. Boatswain. 7. "King Lear." 8. Herodotus (Greek B. C. 484-424). 9. One who can turn his hand to many things, but excels at nothing. 10. An act of treachery. 11. Comfort. 12. Grass. 13. Dangers. 14. Camel. 15. Joy.
